Murder Possible In Bride's Death, Solicitor Asserts

Pinehurst Awaits Report on Autopsy

Body Found PartlyClad; Services Held for Mrs. Davidson.

By the Associated Press.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 1.—Solicitor Roland Pruett today injected the possibility of murder into the mysterious death of Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson, jr., 22-year-old heiress of the late E. M. Statler, hotel magnate.

Announcing postponement of an inquest until Tuesday, the solicitor said facts before him so far were insufficient to determine whether the case was one of "accident, suicide or murder."

A portion of his brief statement raised a question as to the original public information regarding the time of death.

First reports were that Mrs. Davidson died at the hospital from carbon monoxide poisoning after a servant had found her unconscious beneath the steering wheel of her automobile in a closed garage.

In his statement the solicitor said that when found in the car "the body was still warm" at 9:05 a. m.

He also gave authoritative foundation to reports which have been current for two days that Mrs. Davidson, instead of being dressed for golf, as reported, was only partly clothed.

Solicitor's Statement.

The solicitor's statement, which was not amplified, said:

"I am not satisfied with the facts. To be perfectly frank, I am puzzled. I do not know whether it was a case of suicide, accident or murder. I have heard enough since I have been here to make me feel that a full investigation is necessary to meet the ends of justice, because of circumstances surrounding the case.

"It is a peculiar situation for a woman to go for an early morning ride with only mules, a skirt and sweater on. Other facts include one that the butler got up at 7:30, looked in front of the home for the car and discovered that it was in the garage. He made no investigation immediately but went to the garage to wash the car and found the body. The body was still warm at the time, 9:05."

Inquest Postponed.

In postponing the inquest's adjourned session, Acting Coroner Hugh Kelly said the delay was out of deference for the family, which had a brief private funeral service this afternoon, and to give the sheriff and solicitor time to prepare for questioning witnesses.

Mrs. Davidson's body was to be taken to Mount Kisco, N. Y., tonight for burial.

The delay also would make possible, it was said, completion of a report on an autopsy begun yesterday. A preliminary report said no cause of death other than carbon monoxide poisoning had been found, but that discovery of apparently superficial bruises on the woman's thighs necessitated a more complete examination of the whole body.

Dr. C. C. Carpenter, conducting the autopsy, said he was studying other facts which might throw some light on the manner of death.

Pruett said he had subpenaed, among others, Davidson himself, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Champaign, of New York, who were house guests of the Davidsons, and all Davidson household servants. They will be questioned at the inquest, which now is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m.

Swiss Couple Killed In Leap From Plane

By the Associated Press.

Berne, Switzerland, March 1.—A young Swiss school teacher and his sweetheart leaped to their deaths from an airplane today apparently to escape possible disgrace growing out of his alleged misuse of school funds.

Charles Grieder, 25, Lausanne teacher, and Mlle. Antoinette Joery, 22, hired the sightseeing plane to take them over Lausanne after they had toasted each other gaily in champagne for nearly an hour.

While Grieder diverted the pilot's attention, the authorities said, his sweetheart forced open the emergency door of the ship and jumped.

Forced to stick to his controls, the pilot watched helplessly as the man followed her.

Charges Irrelevant, Lawyer Says; Deals U. S. Termed 'Shadow Sales' Traced.

By the Associated Press.

Pittsburgh, March 1.—Within 30 minutes of rapid-fire action, Andrew W. Mellon's chief attorney today challenged the relevancy of many of the Government's basic contentions in its attempt to collect $3,089,000 in income taxes from the financier, and brought out that his personal wealth was $200,000,000 on December 1, 1931.

The attorney, Frank J. Hogan, taking over the questioning of Mellon's confidential secretary, Howard M. Johnson, after seven days of cross-examination, reviewed one by one transactions which the Government had termed "shadow sales," and brought out testimony intended to show the deals had nothing to do with Mellon's income affairs.

He cited a Supreme Court decision to show that under its interpretation Mellon never made a "short" stock sale; brought out that the Mellon-organized Mellbank Corporation paid no dividends in 1931, and carried the investigators through a detailed description of many of the Mellon holdings and transactions.

Questioned by Hogan.

Hogan took over the questioning of the weary Johnson upon the completion of the cross-examination by F. R. Shearer, attorney for the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Altogether, the secretary has been on the witness stand eight days, answering questions and pecking through rows of figures which Mellon counsel contends will show the Government actually owes the former Secretary of the Treasury $139,000 on his 1931 income tax account. The Board of Tax Appeals is hearing the case.

With Mellon himself an interested listener—he has been present every day since the hearing started—Hogan launched quickly into some important phases of the case. His quesitons to Johnson were sharp and swift.

$200,000,000 Holdings.

He promptly brought out from the witness that two years after the stock market crash of 1929 Mellon's holdings were reckoned at the $200,000,000 figure.

Already he had given his children, Paul and Ailsa, more than $10,000,000, according to Johnson's earlier testimony, and, on Christmas Day, 1931, he gave them other huge gifts that helped reduce his

Hitler Moves For 'Peace' With France

Extends Olive Branch in Welcoming Back 'Lost Colony.'

But Warns None Can 'Tear a Piece Out of a Nation.'

By the United Press.

Saarbrucken, March 1.—Adolf Hitler tonight extended an olive branch to Europe.

The German realm-leader, with spirit uplifted by a giant celebration for the reunion of the rich Saar basin with the Fatherland, asked Europe to cooperate with him in a program "of peace and understanding."

To an exultant throng massed in front of the city hall, the Reichsfuehrer declared his belief that the return of the Saar to the fatherland would mean a definite improvement in the relations between France and Germany.

"We believe that our great neighboring nation seeks peace," Hitler declared, "as we do. It must be possible for two great nations to shake hands. It was a mistake to believe it possible to make a nation change its inward nature."

Woe to the Heedless!

"It is a lesson," he continued, "for all those who believe it possible to tear a piece out of a nation—a lesson that blood is stronger than paper documents. And woe to those who fail to heed the lesson.

"The plebiscite represents a work of great historical merit. My work has been facilitated by it.

"May God be my witness that this work had no other aim than to make Germans free and happy. * * * from here to Hamburg and Koenigsburg, there is only one feeling now—you are with us at last. But I think this is not only a day of happiness for Germany but a day of happiness for all Europe.

"You have rendered a great service and you have a right to celebrate. So today we do celebrate but tomorrow will begin the work for the Fatherland. You may be happy that you are now cooperating in creating a new Germany."

Object of a reaction that bordered on hysterical adoration, Hitler stood bareheaded, in his well-known trench coat, reviewing the crowds, watching the marching soldiery, the black and brown shirted troops, which tramped by, rain-soaked but happy, in seemingly endless procession.

In the course of his speech welcoming the "lost" colony back to the German family, he declared that the ultimate aim of his party had not been achieved.

"We Have Banished Evil."

"I know," he said, "that my aim is not yet totally reached, but we have strived toward it with warm hearts. Heaven will help us. Our enemies, the enemies of Germany, may consider this: I began my work 15 years ago, with a small group. When I appraise the result today, I see that Heaven has blessed my labors—that they were not in vain.

"We have banished evil and overbearing from our midst. We undertook to obliterate everything separating men from men—property, intellect or descent—and to reach what should actually unite men. Our aim was to address all groups, all professions and all classes as German countrymen."

The Reichsfuehrer's flying visit to the "new" province, where 200,000 wildly enthusiastic citizens were tramping the evergreen decorated streets in an exuberant outburst of patriotism, came as a surprise to the people, and his automobile was almost mobbed by the joy-maddened populace.

In his speech, Hitler once more demonstrated the power of his oratory to sway the masses.

"I beseech you," he said, "you who have not lost confidence in 15 years, to keep faith in the future and to believe in the liberty and greatness of the German people. If you had not had faith during this 15 years, and if we had not had faith, what would have happened to us? Faith can deliver nations.

"Give your faithfulness to the new Reich. Remain faithful to the German community. Never con-

Noblewoman Hunted In African Jungle

By the Associated Press.

Livingstone, Northern Rhodesia, March 1.—Margaret Lady Young, pretty wife of the Governor of Northern Rhodesia, and her physician were lost in African jungle tonight many hours after their airplane had been forced down.

They took off from here for Lusaka, 300 miles distant, yesterday afternoon. When darkness fell tonight hundreds of searchers who had begun to scour the animal-infested terrain reported failure to find any trace of the machine and its passengers.

Other Powers Seek Air Bases In Philippines

Governor General Murphy Tells Roosevelt Sites in Pacific Coveted.

Developments yesterday in the Far Eastern situation were:

Gov. Gen. Murphy of the Philippines, in Washington, admitted that foreign powers are negotiating for air bases in the Pacific. He conferred with the President.

The State Department was reported to have under consideration a plan to aid, with Great Britain, the finances of China. This may be an effort to counteract any economic pact between Tokyo and Nanking.

Stating that the "eventual operation of an air line from California to the Philippines is inevitable," Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy yesterday tacitly admitted that negotiations are being carried on by foreign powers for landing rights in the Pacific.

Following a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House Murphy outlined his ideas on the importance of aviation to the Far East, saying that he had been encouraging air transport on the islands but that so far it has remained strictly an inter-island affair.

"There are 7,083 islands in the Philippine group," he said. "Of this total 10 are important. Obviously, air transport is more significant to the Philippines than almost anywhere else in the world."

Declines to Name Powers.

Murphy admitted that the problem of landing rights by foreign powers had been discussed and that he had "some very definite ideas on the subject," but that he felt it would be premature to discuss them now.

International negotiations for landing rights in the Far East are complicated by the gradual changes being worked out in the Philippine form of government looking toward independence. It is generally felt here, however, that American officials can control the landing rights for eight or ten years in the Philippines, if not longer. Other islands involved are Hawaii, Guam and Wake, all American controlled.

Murphy refused to name the foreign powers involved in what is developing into an international race to get transoceanic planes into the air. However, it has been reported in the Far East that German Dutch and British aviation interests are negotiating to extend their present operations.

Justice Unit Won't Balk Crime Probe

Cummings Denies Any Plan to Interfere With Inquiry.

Committee Determined to Press Study of Garnett's Office.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

The Department of Justice "has not the remotest idea" of interfering with the House District crime investigating committee.

The assurance of the department was given in a statement made public last night after a series of conferences among department officials, including Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

"The Department of Justice has not interfered and has not the remotest idea of attempting to interfere with any line of investigation the committee sees fit to undertake," the statement said.

The statement was intended to relieve the department of blame for efforts of some officials who had called on members of the crime committee and suggested the committee's inquiry veer away from Mr. Garnett and his office.

Garnett May Be Recalled.

Determination of the committee to go more thoroughly into the functioning of the United States attorney's office was made more fixed by the efforts of Justice Department representatives to call a halt to that line of inquiry. Several committee members said they felt it was imperative that Mr. Garnett be called before the committee again and that others be summoned for questioning.

Publication of the report that department officials had sought to interfere in the committee's inquiry caused excitement on Capitol Hill and in legal circles of the city and eventually sent William Stanley, assistant to the Attorney General, to call on Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, crime committee chairman.

"The Department of Justice," Mr. Randolph said afterwards, "through an assistant to the Attorney General, late this afternoon assured me that it would cooperate to the utmost in the investigation now under way."

Asked the name of the assistant to the Attorney General who had called on him and given the as-

New Facts Claimed In Lindbergh Case

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—Hans Borchers, German consul general, confirmed today reports in Boston that he had received fresh information concerning the Lindbergh kidnaping from Baron Kurt von Tippleskirch, German consul general there.

Borchers refused to give details of information, however, until an investigation is made. Until then he would not say whether it implicates Bruno Hauptmann, convicted of the kidnap-murder.

"The matter may have no foundation," the consul general said. "We get letters with information like this almost every day."

At Boston it was reported two men, whose names were not revealed, had imparted information to the German consul general there concerning the kidnaping and had given "revenge" as the motive for the crime.

Senate Protest Against New Deal Methods Is Considered.

By Robert C. Albright.

Resentment over alleged use of a public works "big stick" to force votes into line on the $4,880,000,000 works and relief bill was privately voiced at the Capitol yesterday, as slow progress was made toward a compromise on the much-controverted prevailing wage amendment.

Ill-feeling was not confined to Senators who voted against the Administration and for the McCarran amendment. It spread among colleagues who feel that unwarranted pressure is being exerted in an effort to transform into victory an Administration defeat. One Senator is considering bringing the matter to the attention of the country next week in open Senate debate.

Withdrawal of money on public works projects for which funds already were allocated is charged in a number of cases where Senators had taken an opposition stand on the bill. Believing public expression of grievances might damage their cause, Senators affected declined to be quoted. Later, it was said, they may take a more open stand.

While the works program remained in a Senate deadlock, both Administration forces and Senate backers of the McCarran amendment came forward yesterday with compromise offers that were just as speedily rejected by opposing factions.

Pound's Drop Points To Monetary 'War'

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—An abrupt decline in the pound sterling has revived discussions in Wall Street of the possibility of a monetary contest between Great Britain and the United States.

The pound today reached the lowest level—$4.81½—on record in terms of present-day European gold currencies, and the lowest in relation to the dollar in two years. Wall Street, in the main, was puzzled, but some experts believed the American Treasury's stabilization fund had been caught off guard. Continued declines in the pound, it was said, might have a deflationary effect upon American price levels.

Our opinion in Wall Street was that Great Britain will let the pound slip a little and wait to see what Secretary Morganthau will do.

Holmes Holds Own in Fight On Pneumonia

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Showing the remarkable vitality which kept him in the thick of the fight all his life, former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes last night was said to be holding his own against an attack of pneumonia.

Earlier in the day the revered jurist, who will be 94 years old next Friday, was described as "a shade better," as cheerfully "kidding" the nurses and vigorously dissenting from the doleful view which his physicians and friends took of his prospects.

Meanwhile a steady stream of notables, including Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, stopped by the old red brick house at 1720 I street northwest, to leave expressions of their sympathy and good wishes. President Roosevelt and members of the Supreme Court inquired by telephone throughout the day as to Mr. Holmes' condition.

Dr. Thomas A. Claytor, chief physician, through one of the justice's former secretaries, Mark Howe, revealed that the patient was "holding his own." Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of the Harvard Law School, an intimate friend of the stricken man, said the latter was "a shade better."

Nevertheless, Dr. Claytor called into consultation Dr. W. T. Longcope, of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, and Dr. Lewis C. Ecker, of Washington. The exact condition of Mr. Holmes remained in doubt, since no official bulletins have been issued and Dr. Claytor is reticent. Conflicting accounts have been given by persons leaving the house as to the gravity of the illness.

Prof. Frankfurter, who rushed from Boston Thursday to be at his aged friend's side, was one of the few permitted to approach the bed-

Business Must Accept Works, Says Hopkins

Retailers Warned They May Lose the Government's Relief Patronage.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 1.—Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, today warned business and industrial leaders to support the Administration's $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill or prepare to pay "twice $4,000,000,000 in the future."

He told 500 members of the Executives Club of Chicago:

"These people (relief recipients) are getting the habit. It's going to cost the taxpayers far more in the future than any $4,000,000,000, or twice $4,000,000,000, unless we put them to work.

"The President has proposed a program to put 3,500,000 men to work, with cities and counties to care for the rest. That is what the people on relief want. It will pay them more than they receive on relief rolls and less than the prevailing wage rates. It's their employment assurance."

Hopkins, stumping the Midwest to arouse support for the measure now deadlocked in the Senate by debate on whether a flat $50 monthly wage or the prevailing rate of pay should go into the pay envelopes, pictured work relief as the cheapest means of meeting the problem.

He took this whack at the Hoover regime:

"About 20,000,000 people are on relief, but more people were on the relief rolls in March, 1933, than now. Nobody knew it. The Republicans kept it in the dark."

Hopkins estimated about 2,250,000 family heads were now receiving work relief with the others on direct relief. The bill was placed at approximately $150,000,000 a month. He asserted the load could be carried for about $75,000,000 if the Ad-

Billion-Dollar Program for Preparedness Is Outlined.

Plan Draws Sharp G. O. P. Criticism

Funds for Projects Not in Budget Promised at Hearings.

By Douglas Warrenfels.

Congressional Democrats are counting on vast allotments for the Army and Navy from the proposed $4,880,000,000 works-relief fund, they made known yesterday.

Should the President accede to their demands under the broad discretionary powers over expenditures contemplated in the works-relief bill, the country's outlay for national defense next year probably would soar far above $1,000,000,000—a figure without precedent in time of peace—as the regular budget alone would grant $488,133,847 to the Navy and $378,699,448 to the Army.

Efforts of Democrats to obtain huge sums for the Army and Navy out of the lump sum works-relief appropriation drew sharp criticism from Republicans, who accused the Administration of "fooling the people" by practicing "double bookkeeping."

Representative Tilman B. Parks (Democrat), Arkansas, aggressive chairman of the House Appropriations sub-committee on War Department matters, brought the whole question into the open yesterday with the prediction that a "lot of money" would be set aside for the Army out of the $4,880,000,000 works-relief measure.

Urge Army Expansion.

Another influential Democrat, Chairman John J. McSwain, of the House Military Affairs Committee, declared his committee had hoped to get $405,000,000 additional for the Army out of the works-relief fund.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee favorably reported the $378,699,448 War Department appropriation measure, passed last week by the House. The committee voted that the increase in the Army's enlisted strength of from 118,750 to 165,000 men should be mandatory. The House merely gave the President discretionary authority for the enlargement.

Emphasizing he had not discussed the matter with President Roosevelt and voiced merely his personal opinion, Parks unfolded his views on the need for preparedness outlays over and above budget figures.

"Of course we'll get a lot of money for national defense out of the works bill," Parks said. "In my opinion they're going to spend a lot of money in Hawaii and along the Pacific and Atlantic coasts. The reason we didn't provide it in the regular bill was because it would be a load on the budget.

"If we're going to have the $4,880,000,000 bill at all we might as well get ready for war. I don't say there

Police Threatening Strike in Toronto

By the Associated Press.

Toronto, March 1.—A police strike, the first since 1918, threatened Toronto tonight as the city's 1,000 officers demanded restoration of the good conduct badge system.

Although Mayor James Simpson said he did not think the strike would take place, President William Hutchinson of the police association said the men unquestionably would walk out at midnight Saturday unless the merit system were restored and other alleged grievances corrected.

The Toronto force went out on strike for three days in December, 1918, after demands that their newly organized union be recognized were dismissed by the police commission. An investigation resulted in formation of the present association. During the three days inspectors and sergeants policed Toronto.

Thousands of U. S. Investors Become Parents of Baby Bonds

First Day's Sale Between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000; Roosevelt Buys Six Securities; Garner, Byrns Also 'Customers.'

By Leon Dure, Jr.

Telegraphic reports last night from postoffices throughout the United States brought the gratifying assurance to Treasury officials that the first day's offering of "baby bonds" had been a "sweeping success."

Highly pleased over the response to the first such financial venture since the World War period, President Roosevelt himself announced that the Bureau of Printing and Engraving would have to work night and day shifts to keep up with the demand.

Figures for the day's sale still were incomplete, but returns were received from enough cities to indicate that between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 was exchanged for the bright, crisp "United States Savings Bonds," as the issue is designated officially.

Many of the telegrams told of postoffices being "sold out" a few hours after opening. Many others asked for more of the bonds in the higher denominations, $500 and $1,000. Many of these were from small towns, indicating the broad scope of the campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt himself launched the sale by buying the first bonds in a motion picture ceremony which was part of the educational build-up to acquaint the public with the new securities. He bought six of the $25 issue, one for each of his grandchildren and one for himself.

The new "baby bonds" are issued by the Treasury and sold on a discount basis at any of the 14,000 postoffices throughout the country. They mature in 10 years, bringing $25 for an $18.75 investment, $100 for $75, etc., and may be redeemed at any time after 60 days from date of purchase.

The question of how much will be brought into the Treasury from this financial innovation was still speculative, but the nature of the first day's response caused some officials to revise their guesses upward. These ranged from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000 for the first 12 months.

"I am very happy at the day's results," Secretary of the Treasury Henry A. Morgenthau, jr., declared.

Mr. Roosevelt remarked that the new bonds bear a higher interest yield than some of the older issues on the market. He declared that the sale was the day's thrill for him, and wanted to know if correspondents attending his press conference had bought bonds. He joined in the

Morgan to Quit FCA to Spur 1936 Campaign of Roosevelt

As a preliminary step in the campaign to reelect President Roosevelt in 1936, W. Forbes Morgan, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration, will resign to direct a drive aimed at wiping out the Democratic party's huge deficit, it became known last night.

Not only is it hoped to eliminate the deficit of more than $500,000, but acquisition of sufficient funds to carry the Democratic National Committee until the spring of 1936 also is a goal. At that time intensive efforts to raise money for the presidential campaign itself will be started.

Selection of Mr. Morgan was taken last night to clinch the general understanding that the President will be a candidate again. Mr. Morgan is related to the President by marriage and has been one of his closest friends for years. His first wife was an aunt of Mrs. Roosevelt. As early as November, 1931, he began efforts to obtain the presidential nomination for Mr. Roosevelt, sharing office space with Louis McHenry Howe, now secretary to the President, and James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Democratic committee. He was the preconvention finance director of the Roosevelt campaign and, following the convention, was made secretary of the finance committee of the national committee. In that capacity he helped Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the committee, raise more than $2,000,000 for the campaign.

After Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration, Mr. Morgan became assistant in charge of personnel to Henry Morgenthau, jr., in the Federal Farm Board. In 1933, when Mr. Morgenthau left the governship of the Farm Credit Administration, which had absorbed the Federal Farm Board, to become Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgan became deputy governor of Farm Credit Administration under William I. Myers.

Ship Board Dies As Cone Quits

Resignation of Admiral Follows Long Struggle With Secretary Roper.

The old Shipping Board was no more last night, following the protest resignation of Rear Admiral Hutchison I. Cone, U. S. N., retired.

The resignation, his friends said, followed a long struggle between the admiral and Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, under whose supervision the Shipping Board was placed by President Roosevelt, over the status and course of the board. J. W. Barnett, chief technical expert, also is leaving, it was learned.

A holder of the Navy's Distinguished Service Medal, Admiral Cone was appointed to the board by President Coolidge during the time domination of the organization was charged by T. V. O'Connor. President Hoover reappointed him, and President Roosevelt made him chairman.

Later, Secretary Roper won a victory in his efforts to extend the scope of the Commerce Department, and the Shipping Board was made a bureau in his department.

Boy, 11, Expected to Rule Siam As King Prepares to Abdicate

By the Associated Press

Cranleigh, Eng., March 1.—King Prajadhipok tonight framed his formal abdication of Siam's throne while a phonograph in his study played American dance music.

Reports from Bangkok, meanwhile, said Prince Ananda, 11-year-old nephew of the king, probably would succeed to the throne in the event of the monarch's abdication.

At Knowle House, his great country mansion, M. R. Smaksman, the king's private secretary, gave assurance that the "Father," as the king is known in his native land, is absolutely through.

There was little about the grounds to indicate a great change was taking place which will affect Siam's 10,000,000 persons.

Careful to frame his words in such a way as not to embarrass his master, Smaksman left no doubt as to Prajadhipok's determination to step down from the throne.

"The abdication will not properly be official until it is announced from Bangkok," the secretary said. "His majesty realizes it would be a breach of England's hospitality to make any announcement here which might be construed as propaganda on his behalf. But I am not denying that he has abdicated to all intents and purposes. The delegation realized what it meant when word was received that the assembly had refused the King's conditions."

The King had strongly insisted that he could not return to the throne unless the government recanted on the issues of the dispute.

It was learned from Smaksman that the King is not rolling in wealth. When he is cut off from the royal coffers he will seek more economical quarters, the secretary said.

"He and the Queen probably will spend most of their time in England. He went to school here, you re-

Merit Measure To Be Opposed On Capitol Hill

McKellar, Other Committee Members Plan Attack on Logan Bill.

Opposition to the Logan civil service bill was foreshadowed yesterday as the Senate Civil Service Committee debated the measure in executive session and then adjourned without voting, on the ground that not enough members were present.

The bill, which would extend the civil service classification to employes of the emergency units of the Federal Government, was reported favorably by a sub-committee headed by its sponsor, Senator Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky.

While Senator Logan is optimistic regarding the outcome of the bill, several of the members of the Senate Civil Service Committee are skeptical, and Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, has already indicated his disapproval.

Amendment Rumored.

Rumors were circulated on Capitol Hill that the Administration desires an amendment to the bill giving the President more authority. It was said that the President wishes to extend the civil service to the New Deal agencies gradually and by executive order.

Administration spokesmen believe that a civil service classification should not be applied to emergency unit employes until it is determined which of the New Deal establishments are to become permanent.

The Civil Service Commission and the National Federation of Federal Employes, along with other organizations interested in Government employes, have indorsed the Logan bill.

Hearings Continued.

Meanwhile, hearings are continuing on the Sirovich civil service bill in the House.

Dr. W. W. Stockberger, director of personnel of the Agriculture Department, yesterday recommended a 25 per cent increase in salaries of Government employes engaged in hazardous jobs.

He also indorsed the bill generally and spoke in favor of optional retirement and the mediation of differences between employes and their administrative superiors.

Electrification Plan Of Pennsy Completed

Baltimore, March 1 (AP).—Completing final details of the electrification of its right of way through Maryland, the Pennsylvania Railroad today obtained authority from the State roads commission to attach its feed lines to seven State-owned bridges.

Two of the spans are in Elkton. Others are the Heisers, Beacon Hill, Weavers and the Lanahan and Severn Bridges. The lines will carry electrical power to operate the trains through the State.

Spurning Poor House Man, 82, Kills Wife, Self

Illiopolis, Ill., March 1 (AP).—Rather than return to the poor farm, Sanders Rice, 82, today clubbed his wife to death as she slept and then hanged himself.

Destitute, they formerly had lived at the Sangamon County poor farm. Efforts had been made to get Rice to return there with his 73-year-old wife, who had been almost blind for years.

Youth Believed Framed Paroled From Prison

Oklahoma City, March 1 (AP).—Carter Camp, 24, was paroled from State Penitentiary today partly because Gov. E. W. Marland believes he was "framed" into committing a bank robbery—by persons hoping to collect a reward.

The youth, 19, when officers shot and captured him in the attempted robbery, always has contended a Ponca City officer persuaded him to attempt it. The Governor said there was evidence to support him.

Between You and Me

The Alarming Far East Situation; AAA and Prices; A Reply to Grace; NRA and Incomes.

By Raymond Clapper

THE Far East is up again. Something is going on out between Japan and China. The State Department doesn't know exactly what it is. But enough information has come into the hands of American officials to stir their suspicions.

For months there have been rumors that the Nanking government, headed by Chiang Kai-Shek, has sold out to Japan. Yesterday the United Press carried a dispatch from Shanghai which pulled the State Department up on its toes. It described a reported deal between China and Japan whereby it appears that the old fire-snorting dragon is about to eat out of a little Japanese rice bowl. Japan would advance credits to the Nanking government and would supply Japanese financial, economic and military advisers to replace other foreigners now employed in such capacities by the Chinese. Anti-Japanese agitation would be squelched and in its place would be launched a campaign of pro-Japanese propaganda—they call it a campaign "for Sino-Japanese understanding."

* * * *

The Japanese deny any such agreement has been reached but admit conversations have been held.

Whatever the facts, the State Department is convinced that something is going on that means no good for American interests in China.

However disguised as an economic and financial "alliance" between China and Japan, any tie-up as close as press dispatches indicate would be generally viewed as a swallowing up of the Chinese by her agile island neighbor. The Japanese tried conquest with guns at Shanghai a few years ago but failed. This time, if reports are correct, the job is going to be done by kidnaping the Chinese government and making a pocket piece of it.

* * * *

Such back-fence deals are regarded here as out of keeping with the Pacific treaty signed during the Washington arms conference, under which the leading powers promised each other an even break in any dealing with China. Great Britain has even greater interests in China than the United States, so it was not without reason that British Ambassador Lindsay went hustling to the State Department yesterday to talk with Undersecretary Phillips.

* * * *

AAA got by very well in its first attempt to pull down the price of a farm commodity.

Flue-cured tobacco prices have gone up to 27 cents a pound. Tobacco farmers are rolling in wealth. In 1932 they received $40,000,000 for their crop. Last year they cashed in for four times that much. The price leaped up to 6 cents above parity. Under the agricultural adjustment act, Secretary Wallace had to move to pull down the price. He would rather have pulled a tooth. It isn't nearly as much fun for a Secretary of Agriculture to press down farm prices as it is to push them up.

But he went down to Raleigh, where the tobacco growers were assembled, let go a swear word or two which astounded the assistants of the mild-spoken mystic, and broke the bad news. He told them the price would have to come down and that they would have to expand acreage this year to 85 per cent of normal, instead of 70 per cent, as was the case last year—that is, if they wanted AAA to have anything to do with it.

Local politicians screamed in horror. But the canny tobacco growers didn't. They did some figuring, found out that while the price would come down their total cash return would be about the same, and said okie dokie.

* * * *

These two scraps of information tell their own story:

1. In the Senate munitions investigation this week Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, opposed the idea of compelling an industrial executive in war time to take an Army officer's pay.

2. An Army surgeon recently turned down an offer to join a well-known private clinic at $50,000 a year. He said his duty was to give his skill to the Army for $5,500 a year.

* * * *

Several Democratic politicians here from the grass roots country reported that President Roosevelt had lost some popular strength. They are worried about Huey Long.

* * * *

Patrick J. Hurley, Hoover's Secretary of War, says that under the New Deal individual incomes of a million dollars or more have doubled and those under $10,000 have decreased. NRA issued a report a few days ago showing that in December, 1934, pay rolls were 60 per cent of the total in 1926, the national income had declined 40 per cent, the volume of production was one-third lower and still the total of dividends and interest was 150 per cent of the 1926 figure. Such figures indicate why Long's "Share Our Wealth" campaign is cutting in on the New Deal.

* * * *

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his crew are torn by conflicting impulses as they watch food prices kite.

They want to brag about it to the farmers. But they know the less said about it the better so far as city folks are concerned.

When Secretary Wallace reported that his economists looked to see meat jump 34 per cent over what it was the last half of 1934, he was asked whether this was due to AAA.

One of his economists cut in hastily to say that it was due to the drought.

Wallace disagreed.

"I think the AAA had something to do with it," he said.

Of the rising price of meat, one hearty eater observed:

"They gave us beer, and abolished beefsteak."

People Are Getting Jittery Over Nothing, Says Texas Leader.

By the Associated Press.

A House Military sub-committee was advised yesterday by Army and Navy spokesmen to act against an increasing flow of propaganda seeking to enlist American soldiers and sailors into ranks of communism.

At the same time, however, a member of the full Military Committee, Representative Maverick (Democrat), Texas, ridiculed suggestions that corrective legislation was necessary, because, he said, the American people are getting "jittery" over nothing.

There are only 24,500 Communists in the country, Maverick said, and they are all "crackpots" and a "lousy crew."

War and Navy Department officials asserted there was a real need for enactment of a bill by Representative McCormack (Democrat), Massachusetts, to stop propaganda seeking to induce persons in the armed forces to break laws or regulations.

In a letter to the full military committee, Secretary Swanson asserted that communistic literature in "increasing quantities" had been distributed to the Navy. Existing law was inadequate to curb it, he said.

Brigadier General Harry E. Knight said that Communists are more active in Army circles than they were a year ago.

Commander Samuel Clements of the Navy added that some communistic literature urges "comrades" to work themselves into munitions plants in time of war to concentrate on sabotage.

The McCormack bill was termed by Henry L. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, "necessary to prevent persistent and continued attempts to incite the naval forces to disobey laws and regulations."

Maverick then tossed in this remark:

"If the colonels and generals had tact, courage, loyalty and brains enough, they would keep the soldiers from disloyalty."

Colorado Legislator Floored in Hotel

Denver, March 1 (AP).—Representative Frank O'Toole, of Denver, took the floor, but not to make a speech.

His action marked the end of an argument, for he lay sprawled in a hotel corridor—victim of the fistic prowess of Representative Harry Johns, of Gypsum, with whom he had words during the Colorado legislative ball last night.

Moscow Paper Claims Reds Are Strong in U.S.

Moscow, March 1 (AP).—The official newspaper Pravda, in a dispatch from its New York correspondent, said the Communist Party's increasing prestige and popularity in the United States placed it in a position where it was not necessary to try to assume the initiative in a number of ripening class struggles.

The article said the party in the last year succeeded in penetrating more deeply into the mass of workers and also gained much support among farmers, intellectuals and the small bourgeois.

It declared the party has taken the leadership along a broad front in a fight for social insurance and its ideas are now considered sober and its method practical by the broad masses.

The dispatch quoted Communist leaders in America as saying the ice is broken and the people's fear of the Red has disappeared.

'Dollfuss Successor' Facing Court-Martial

Vienna, March 1 (AP).—Anton Rintelen, twice a member of the Austrian cabinet and former minister to Rome, will face court-martial tomorrow for his alleged complicity in the Nazi putsch of last July.

"King Anton," long a power in Austrian politics, was the mystery man of the Nazi revolt. He was minister to Italy at the time. Rintelen has been under medical care since the Nazis announced, over a captured government radio, that "Dollfuss has resigned, Rintelen is chancellor."

Turkey Elects Kemal President Fourth Time

Ankara, Turkey, March 1 (AP).—Mustapha Kemal, who was first elected President of Turkey in 1923, was reelected to the same office again today.

This election, his fourth, was done by the fifth national assembly, in which, for the first time in the history of Turkey, women were seated.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson yesterday took over the chairmanship of the American Red Cross, succeeding the man to whom he was friend and physician, the late Judge John Barton Payne.

To the popping of flashlights and the grinding of news cameras, the former physician to President Wilson began his first day on his new job in the office on the second floor of the Red Cross Building vacated by Judge Payne's death several weeks ago.

As his first official function he received telegraphic reports on the progress of Red Cross relief efforts in Hawaii, where a heavy storm, sweeping Oahu and Honolulu communities left 8 dead and 12 missing.

Declines $17,000 Salary.

In accepting the chairmanship, Admiral Grayson said, he declined a proffered annual salary of $17,000, agreeing to accept, instead, the $4,300 annual income from a trust fund established for payment of salaries of the Red Cross World War Council.

Judge Payne, it was learned, lived on his own considerable private means and annually turned the $4,300 back to the Red Cross as a contribution. Dr. Livingston Farrand, Davison's successor, received between $17,000 and $18,000 a year.

"My motto always has been 'preventive medicine,'" Admiral Grayson said, in commenting on probable Red Cross policies under his leadership.

"It would be presumptious on my part," he went on, "to attempt to discuss policies of an organization such as this upon my first day in office. I want to get acquainted first."

To Give Up Practice.

Among other things, Admiral Grayson revealed that he would give up his wide private practice as a physician, retaining only those professional posts that required only part-time attention and involved no remuneration.

Admiral Grayson issued the following formal statement:

"The President has honored me by this appointment as chairman of the Red Cross and today I am assuming my active affairs. Judge Payne, my distinguished predecessor, has left a sound program and fine organization, so there are no policies to be announced at this time other than that we shall go ahead with the work vigorously and effectively."

Meddling Charged To W. A. Roberts

Committeeman Makes Attack on His Smoke Bill.

People's Counsel William A. Roberts yesterday was charged with "meddling" in an attack on a smoke bill recently submitted by him to the House District Committee by P. C. Bowie, a member of a committee appointed by the Commissioners to prepare smoke abatement and boiler inspection legislation for the Capital.

Mr. Bowie, who said he could not speak for the whole committee, declared that the Roberts bill failed to provide machinery for enforcement of smoke regulations other than police and fire departments, which he described as inadequate.

Mr. Bowie said the committee appointed by the Commissioners has prepared a smoke bill and has submitted it to the Commissioners, who referred it to Corporation Counsel Barrett E. Prettyman for study. In a prepared statement Mr. Bowie declared:

"The efficient regulation of smoke is an engineering and educational problem which can be solved only by trained personnel to draft reasonable regulations for the Commissioners and to enforce them when published."

Lamson Murder Trial Jury Is Completed

San Jose, Calif., March 1 (AP).—A jury was completed again today for the second murder trial of David A. Lamson, Stanford University press representative accused of beating to death his attractive wife, Allene, on May 30, 1933.

The jury was filled yesterday, but challenging and questioning was reopened after it was found one of the jurors, P. T. Peabody, was related by marriage to Prosecutor John Fitzgerald. Peabody was excused today by agreement of State and defense. It was expected taking of testimony would start tomorrow.

Kennamer Term Cruel, Defense Counsel Holds

By the Associated Press.

Pawnee, Okla., March 1.—Phil Kennamer's 25-year sentence for manslaughter was termed "cruel and unusual punishment" in a supplemental motion for a new trial filed here today by J. A. McCollum, local counsel for the slayer of John Gorrell in Tulsa last fall.

"To punish this mentaly ill 19-year-old boy by imprisoning him for 25 years in a State penitentiary is a reversion to the dark ages," McCollum's petition read.

Russ Colombo's Brother Fined on Liquor Charge

Sacramento, Calif., March 1 (AP).—Albert Colombo, San Francisco liquor dealer and brother of the late Russ Colombo, screen and radio star, paid a fine of $1,500 today and escaped a 15-month penitentiary sentence on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Colombo was convicted by a Federal court jury here of shipping 1,000 gallons of untaxed liquor to Seattle.

Assemblymen See 'Dynamite' By Long Likely

Sweeping Legislation Via Senate Expected; Huey Silent.

By the Associated Press.

Baton Rouge, La., March 1.—There was concern in the capital today whether Senator Huey Long would repeat his practice of having the Senate amend House bills to contain "dynamite" provisions.

The Senator was silent about this phase of his plans and Gov. O. K. Allen brushed questions aside with a smile.

Many times innocently worded bills of the House have come out of the Senate with startling provisions, which quickly were approved by the Long men in the House.

During the day Long's legislators lounged about the capitol awaiting the evening's routine of answering affirmatively to Huey's commands.

Last December when the legislators were meeting, Long bared the purpose of that session on the last day when he brought in by amendment his oil refining tax which brought on a war between Long and the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana. At this session a resolution was adopted authorizing the Governor to rebate the tax at his discretion.

Major moves already under way in the present session give Long's State administration control of the police and fire departments in New Orleans and added authority over the parish of East Baton Rouge.

Martial law prevails in Baton Rouge while the Legislature meets. More than a hundred troopers are on duty.

Cobb, D. C. Writer, Aids N.Y. Magazine

Country Day-School Head Is Named Co-Editor.

Stanwood Cobb, Washington educator and author, has just been appointed co-editor of a new magazine, World Order, to be launched in New York next month, it was announced yesterday. The publication will deal with movements looking to a more stable and confederated world civilization. "Homoculture—the Education of the Future," will be the Washington writer's contribution to the April number of the magazine.

Fifteen years ago Mr. Cobb and Eugene R. Smith, then principal of the Park School in Baltimore, with the help of a group of Washingtonians, founded the Progressive Education Association. The organization since has grown from an original membership of 100 to 7,000, representing every State in the Union.

In the fall of 1919 Mr. Cobb founded the Chevy Chase Country Day School and is still its active head. Among his books are "New Leavens" and "New Horizons for the Child."

Gas Revenues Down $11,213 for January

A decrease of $11,213 in net operating revenues for January, compared with the same month of 1934, was reported yesterday to the Public Utilities Commission by the Washington Gas Light Co. The total for January of this year was $216,610.

Operating expenses, including taxes and uncollectible bills, increased $57,798, while nonoperating revenues for January decreased $4,995. The gross corporate income for the month was $212,499, a decrease of $17,207 under January, 1934.

House to Open Bonus Hearing; Action Assured

Ways and Means Group to Limit Testimony; Senate Hostile.

House action on the bonus within a few weeks was assured yesterday when the Ways atnd Means Committee voted to begin hearings on the issue Monday.

The call for the hearings was the first concession won by advocates of immediate full cash payment of the adjusted service certificates since Congress met two months ago. A comparatively small number of witnesses are likely to be questioned due to extensive hearings on the same subject in recent years.

Outstanding among more than a score of bonus proposals are bills introduced by Representatives Patman (Democrat), Texas, and Vinson (Democrat), Kentucky. The Texan's measure would provide for some $2,000,000,000 in printing-press money, while the Kentuckian's bill would authorize the Treasury to finance the program, perhaps by issuance of bonds.

Observers believed the House, which twice before has passed the Patman bill, would again approve either the Patman or the Vinson plan, probably by an overwhelming vote. President Roosevelt has indicated he hoped the Senate would reject the bonus. In any event, a closer vote is expected in the Senate. There has been talk of a compromise.

There was confusion over whether the committee would seek to obtain a House vote on the bonus before consideration of the Wagner-Lewis economic security bill, still under consideration in the committee.

Patman announced he would seek no more signatures on a petition to force a vote on his bill, now that the hearings have been called. With 218 names required, 147 members have attached their signatures since the petition was introduced early last week.

Political Loss Marked Anew in Postal Holdup

Chicago, March 1 (AP).—John J. (Boss) McLaughlin, politician, and 38 others were reindicted today on charges of conspiracy and possession of securities stolen in the daring $237,000 holdup of postal clerks in the Loop December 6, 1932.

The defendants were charged with conspiring with three men since slain and four unnamed persons, who were said to be leaders of the actual robbery.

Lloyd George to Submit 'New Deal' to Cabinet

By the Associated Press.

London, March 1.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has written David Lloyd George, former prime minister, to tell him the British cabinet will consider immediately his "new deal" proposals if details, estimates and calculations are presented, it was revealed today.

The "Welsh Wizard," who has been stumping the country in behalf of his recovery proposals, replied that he would be "pleased to accede to the prime minister's request."

Marian Talley Signs 5-Year Film Contract

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, March 1.—Marian Talley is going to work under a five-year contract in the movies June 1, "eager for something fresh to do."

"The vehicles haven't been chosen," said the singing daughter of a railroad telegrapher today, "but they will be feature pictures, possibly of the operatic type."

The coloratura soprano signed a salary contract "in some respects better than that with the Metropolitan Opera Company," from which she retired at the height of her career and the age of 22 in the spring of 1929.

States Warned To Help Carry Relief Burden

3 Denied Funds by FERA as Federal Aid Cash Is Exhausted.

By Felix Bruner.

With relief appropriations exhausted and comparatively little more money from Public Works funds available, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration yesterday demanded more cooperation from the States in caring for the unemployed.

Three States were refused any more yesterday in the usual first-of-the-month handout. This means they are without Government relief facilities until they "come through" with previously fixed quotas. The States are Minnesota, Idaho and Washington.

Four other States were allowed allotments for only half the month and told that their receipt of more money would depend upon their willingness to assist. They are Ohio, New Jersey, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Maryland Grant Questioned.

Although Maryland was given its monthly allotment, the Relief Administration announced there was "some question" about whether the grant should have been made.

The Relief Administration has operated on the theory that States should make substantial contributions to the funds spent within their borders. These contributions have varied, with some Southern States contributing almost nothing.

Meanwhile, the Relief Administration declared that additional funds will have to be provided before the middle of the month, if the $4,800,000,000 appropriation bill is not passed by that time. It declared that a maximum of $96,000,000 still can be obtained from PWA funds and that when this is exhausted there will be no more money available. At the present rate of expenditure—$5,000,000 a day—this sum would be exhausted in 19 days. A previous statement from the PWA had indicated that only $63,000,000 more would be available.

PWA Activities Held Up.

The Relief Administration already has obtained $175,000,000 from PWA, forcing that organization to bring activities not already started to a standstill.

The $880,000,000 included in the works bill is expected to take care of relief until the works program gets under way. From this also must be paid back the $175,000,000 obtained from PWA unless that organization is to be stopped from any future activites.

Included in the projects for which there is no money available are subsistence homesteads, in which Mrs. Roosevelt is particularly interested. A total of $10,000,000 set aside for this work already has gone to feed and colthe the needy.

Shift to Direct Relief.

By a queer twist of fate, the Administration which has insisted that the dole must be stopped and work relief substituted, has had to bring its already begun work relief program to a halt and to divert to direct relief the money that was to have been spent giving jobs.

By some other queer twist, it was discovered that $11,000,000 set aside for constructon of a new Interior Department Building was for some reason not included in the sum impounded for direct relief. Work on this building is expected to start in June, although other Federal projects not under contract can not be started.

ArmyBombersPlan Flight to Panama

Due to Leave Bolling Field Tomorrow Morning.

Ten Army bombing planes are expected to take-off from Bolling Field tomorrow morning on a one-stop flight to the Panama Canal Zone. Preparations will be completed at Langley Field, Va., today. Tomorrow at daybreak, weather permitting, Capt. Harold D. Smith, in charge of the flight, will lead his officers here for a formal sendoff by Army officials.

It is expected that the ten Martin bombers will circle the city at about 7 a. m. After ceremonies at Bolling Field the fliers will take off for Miami. It is planned to fly non-stop to Florida, spending the night there and continuing to Panama the next day.

In case of unfavorable weather the airplanes will start Monday morning with the same schedule prevailing. A total of 15 officers and 16 enlisted men will make the flight. The personnel and planes are drawn from the Thirty-first Bombing Squadron, a unit of the General Headquarters Air Force, stationed at Hamilton Field, Calif. The ten planes left Rockwell Field, Calif., last Tuesday, flying to Langley Field, Va., in easy stages.

Hero at Fire in Zoo Saves 560 Animals

San Francisco, March 1 (AP).—George Wentworth rolled a 50-gallon drum of gasoline from a blazing tool shed at Fleishhacker Zoo and was credited with saving the lives of 560 animals valued at $500,000.

Wentworth, a cafe owner, was nursing a pair of scorched hands today. Authorities said if the gasoline had exploded the entire zoo would have been sprayed with flames.

Caution Urged In Legislation For New Deal

Substantial Changes in Social Security Bill Is Asked by Chamber.

Caution in proceeding with New Deal legislative proposals was recommended yesterday by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The directors made three principal recommendations:

1. That substantial changes be made in the social security bill looking toward preservation of voluntary social security plans and greater freedom of action by the States.

2. That the banking bill be split into two parts, with separate and considered action on amendments to the Federal Reserve act.

3. That cotton loans be not more than the market price, and that serious consideration be given to a plan whereby all cotton be sold on the basis of world prices.

Should Not Ignore Gains.

Gains in old age and unemployment benefits made through initiative and voluntary action of employers should not be overlooked, the directors said. The report on this subject was written by P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"Employers' expenditures to provide work and wages for surplus employes during the depression have aggregated billions of dollars," the report said. "Additional hundreds of millions of dollars have already been set aside in separate reserve funds for the future maintenance of such plans. In the judgment of the committee, no obstacles should be placed in the way of employers who wish in the future voluntarily to maintain plans for the benefit of their employes."

The chamber declared that if immediate experimentation is considered imperative it should be confined to legislation that would be moderate in cost and in scope of coverage.

The chamber urged that the greatest possible latitude be allowed employers and States to undertake further experimentation.

Wage Tax Discussed.

It declared there should be no Federal pay roll tax without a tax on wages equivalent to at least one-third of the total amount to be received by the Federal Government. The total tax, the directors held, should not exceed 3 per cent.

Discussing the banking bill, the chamber announced it was appointing a committee to report on pending proposals and declared that business "asks reasonable time to determine its position upon the amendments."

"The substantial and somewhat alarming decrease of cotton exports," the report said, "raises the question as to whether the loan basis is not so high as to be a factor in turning foreign purchasers to other markets.

"The program of curtailed production works to the serious detriment of farm workers, ginners, transportation agencies, as well as processors, handlers, shippers, etc. Crop curtailment must be considered as an emergency program and the production of cotton should be readjusted and restored to normal volume as rapidly as improving conditions in the United States and throughout the world make possible."

Spain Plans Forts For Balearic Isles

$69,000,000 Defense Fund Under Consideration.

By the Associated Press.

Madrid, March 1.—A plan to spend 500,000,000 pesetas (approximately $69,000,000) to fortify the Balearic Islands, in an effort to make them impregnable in the event of war in the Mediterranean, is being studied by the Spanish government, it was revealed tonight.

Plans being considered by the cabinet, it was learned, call for modernization of all the islands' defenses and the development of naval and air bases.

Located in the heart of the Mediterranean, they would provide an excellent base for any warring power to launch air or sea attacks against nearby Marseille, Southern France, Gibraltar, Northern Africa or Spain itself.

Federal Judge Declares PWA Constitutional

Notifies Trenton, Mo., It May Use Federal Fund for Power Plant.

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, March 1.—Upholding fully the constitutionality of the PWA section of the national recovery act, Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis notified the City of Trenton, Mo., today he would throw out of court a suit for injunction against its using PWA funds for construction of a power plant.

Judge Otis' decision was contained in a memorandum opinion—one in which the court states its views and indicates to litigants the action necessary to conform. He told attorneys for Trenton that if they would enter a motion to throw the suit out of court he would sustain it.

Trenton, with a PWA grant of $65,100, sought to issue bonds for $250,000 to secure a loan from the Government. The Missouri Public Service Co., owner of an electric light plant at Trenton, resisted on grounds the PWA was unconstitutional.

Memorandum Opinion.

The memorandum opinion stated three conclusions of law:

"(1) The proposed purchase by the United States of the bonds of the City of Trenton and the proposed grant to that city are within the power conferred on administrative officials by Title 2 (PWA) of the national industrial recovery act.

"(2) Title 2 of the national industrial recovery act is constitutional as against any of the attacks made upon it in this case.

"(3) Whether or not title 2 is constitutional, the plaintiff has no standing in this case to question its constitutionality."

Judge Otis' decision revealed a difference of opinion between the two Federal judges of the western district of Missouri—both Republicans.

Ruling of Reeves.

His colleague, Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves, last September ruled against the City of Concordia, Mo., but did not rule on constitutionality of the national industrial recovery act. He formerly held the PWA had no authority to grant funds for construction of municipal utilities in cases where a private company is already operating in the district to be served.

Judge Reeves was appointed to the bench by President Harding, Judge Otis by President Coolidge.

It was not Judge Otis' first decision of this kind. He ruled similarly in a case from California, Mo.

Shake-up of Cabinet Forecast in Mexico

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 1.—A shake-up in the cabinet of President Lazaro Cardenas was indicated today by well-informed political observers.

The slate under consideration, these sources said, eliminates all but two of the ministers, Rudolfo Elias Calles, minister of communications, and former President Emilio Portes Gil, foreign relations minister.

Grubb to Annul PowerConcern, TVA Contract

'Interchange' Agreement for Sale of Current Hit by Decree.

Birmingham, Ala., March 1 (AP).—Preliminary to signing a formal decree, Judge W. I. Grubb, in United States District Court, said today he would annul in its entirety a contract between the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Alabama Power Co. for the transfer of the utility's transmission lines in north Alabama.

The judge held that since an "interchange" agreement—through which TVA had been selling current wholesale to municipalities and county organizations—was involved in the contract, this would fall with the decree.

Under the "interchange" agreement with the Alabama Power Co., current has been delivered to Tupelo, Pontotoc and the Alcorn County Association in Mississippi and to Athens, Ala., and Pulaski, Tenn.

Judge Grubb said he would hold that the TVA was entitled to Wheeler Dam, since it was built legally, and "the decree ought to provide against any disturbance of work there."

The session in his chambers was to permit attorneys for TVA and for the preferred shareholders of the Alabama Power Co., who brought suit to restrain the authority's utility operations, to discuss and agree on the points in the final decree.

Forney Johnston, counsel for the plaintiffs, who attacked the constitutionality of the authority's "yardstick" electrical program, and TVA counsel entered conferences to seek agreement on disputed points before Judge Grubb signs the order tomorrow.

The Tennessee Valley Authority now is operating in addition rural lines into Lauderdale and Colbert Counties (Alabama), but these are not a part of the suit, and a later ruling was expected on them.

Labor Tries to Rule Recovery, Says Butler

By the Associated Press.

London, March 1.—Dr. Nicholas Butler told American newspapermen today that labor is attempting to dominate American efforts to come out of the depression.

"President Roosevelt," he said, "performed a very marked service for all of us when he took the grip of selfish and politically organized big business from our necks. But now politically big labor is trying to take its place the same way. I feel that President Roosevelt will not yield to any such domination and in that stand he will have the solid backing of the intelligent voters of the country."

Denver Gold Inflow Gains.

Denver, March 1 (AP).—Miners of the Rocky Mountain region poured $4,721,721 worth of gold into the Denver Mint during February—an increase of almost $1,000,000 over January and $160,148 over February a year ago.

Senators Irked By 'Big Stick' In Works Row

Joseph T. Robinson, fresh from Thursday's late interview with the President, continued all day.

A substitute for the McCarran amendment is said to have been put forward with Administration backing. It would give the President full authority to fix wages, but provide additional authority to pay prevailing wages on projects in local communities, where they conflict with private industry.

It was learned that labor Senators did not accept the proffer, feeling it went no further than the Russell amendment, which was adopted as a compromise by the Senate Appropriations Committee, but rejected on the Senate floor.

McCarran Proposal.

Senator Pat McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, called on Robinson and offered an addition to his own amendment as a compromise basis. It provided:

"The aggregate monthly earnings of any person employed under the provision of this resolution may be predetermined by the President in advance of the commencement of any project, or regulated by the President at any time during the progress of the work."

It was explained this would assure the President the right to pay only $50 or even $40 a month on works projects, provided the hourly prevailing rate was observed.

Senatro Robinson rejectly it flatly, stating it "makes no substantial change in the so-called McCarran amendment."

In response to persistent requests from reporters for an interview, Robinson made the following statement:

"There is no announcement which I feel can be made at this time indicating what may be the result of the conferences which have been in progress."

Roosevelt Silent.

At the White House, the President declined to comment on the legislative status of the works and relief bill. He said he had made no arrangement for further conferences with congressional leaders.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, indicated willingness to call the group together at any time.

Negotiations on opposing lines of strategy are expected to continue over the week-end. Following yesterday's meeting between Senators Robinson and McCarran, the Nevadan called Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), of New York, and other labor Senators into a late afternoon conference with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. They may confer again today.

Impounding of public works funds except on projects already contracted for, and transfer of this money to the Emergency Relief Administration, meanwhile was stirring up trouble for virtually every Senator who has taken an opposition stand on the bill.

Those who have not been deluged with protests (and few have been), believe the clamor from back home will begin in earnest once constituents fully realize that local projects long since considered approved have been placed on the shelf.

Say Method Will Fail.

Aroused at what some consider an unfair method of mustering support for the bill, a number of Senators affected predicted it may have just the opposite result. Pointing out that either $88,000,000 or $1,880,000,000 for direct relief would speedily be approved by both houses, these Senators deny the Administration is driven by the relief emergency to commandeering public works funds already allocated.

Transfer of public works money to direct relief hit close to Washington this week when Secretary of Interior Ickes stopped expenditure of $6,000,000 for a highway connecting the Shenandoah and Great Smoky National Parks. Ickes previously had approved the project, earmarked funds and recommended early action.

This was a project in which Senator Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia, who opposed appropriating more than $1,880,000,000 for work relief, was especially interested. His colleague, too, Senator Glass, may receive repercussions from the area affected. Senator Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina, who voted for the McCarran amendment, and whose home constituency also would be traversed by the highway, already has heard from "back home."

Many Volunteer Aid To Italy in Africa

Rome, March 1 (AP).—Volunteers from many parts of the world have offered to go to East Africa in the possible Italian campaign against Ethiopia, a government spokesman said today. He declared offers had come from North and South America but were not accepted.

A telegram from Sofia, Bulgaria, he declared, placed at Italy's disposal 1,600 Bulgarians willing to go to East Africa under the Italian flag. He said Italy could not enroll foreigners in her army.

is going to be another war, but it's always a good idea to be prepared."

Parks pointed out many projects not listed in the budget had been approved by the War Department.

Stresses Preparedness.

"Every vulnerable place," he added, "ought to be prepared for national defense. In case of war, Hawaii would be a strategic outpost. We ought to build good concrete roads there so in case of invasion we could move the Army backward and forward and up into the mountains if necessary.

President Roosevelt may have ideas directly opposite to mine, but I think there are many ways we could spend works money for defense. We have a lot of ports that aren't properly prepared. We have a lot of Army posts out in California, for example, that aren't manned and have no guns.

"What about the Atlantic? Well, I think we ought to spend some money moving munitions plants back from the coast."

Parks was evasive when asked how much money the Army might reasonably be expected to obtain from the works relief fund.

"Twenty million dollars," he finally said, "would be small enough. We might get along fairly well on that, but we could use more."

Parks insisted his statements at executive hearings of the House Appropriations sub-committee on War Department expenditures were not based on any "inside information."

It came to light only yesterday that he held out hope to witnesses before his sub-committee that they might expect "a sizable amount" from the works bill.

Representative Charles A. Eaton (Republican), New Jersey, appeared before the Parks sub-committee to ask funds for the Raritan Arsenal in his district. Parks, the record disclosed, told the witness:

"In the 1934 fiscal year the War Department was allocated by the PWA for military objects $95,642,050, and in the fiscal year 1935 an additional $4,004,468. Then there is unallotted, of applications pending for PWA funds, $343,465,853.

"I assume they will get a sizeable amount out of this new $4,880,000,000 bill. I can not understand how, with so much money coming to the War Department, with such important arsenals as those you have referred to needing construction and repairs, they have not allocated some of that money to such work. The figures I have given are from Gen. MacArthur's (Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army chief of staff) statement, and I do not understand why they have not devoted some of that money to protect those arsenals."

Extra-Budget Projects.

It was an open secret on Capitol Hill that at both the War Department hearings and the House Appropriation hearings now being held on the Nevy Department bill many items now listed in the budget have been discussed.

Members speculated in the cloakrooms over whether the Administration intended to finance those extra-budget projects out of the works fund. Republicans privately charged the Democratic high command planned to dip into the works-relief depression war chest and "take care" of the Army and Navy.

The G. O. P. members contended the strategy of the Administration was to provide for the Army and Navy over and above the budget to prevent place organizations from using their influence to block a $1,000,000,000 national defense program, as they unquestionably would have done had the 1936 outlays been openly listed in the budget and in the corresponding departmental supply measures.

In support of their allegations, Republicans cited testimony before the Appropriations Subcommittee on the War Department bill, including so-called "justification" for many items not included in the bill.

The record showed that while Gen. MacArthur was before the committee Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, assailed the Administration for what he termed employment of "the back door route" to care for the Army. MacArthur was testifying concerning enlisted strength when Blanton interrupted:

"In that same connection, at the same time they are telling the general staff, we will provide for you through a back door route, through the PWA, and not through the Congress."

Britain Stirred By Tokyo Plan For China Pact

Expected to Lead World Effort to Block Her Ambitious Program.

Copyright by the United Press.

Shanghai, Saturday, March 2.—Great Britain today was expected to take the lead in an international move to block Japan's ambitious program in China, according to diplomatic reports.

Alarmed at yesterday's report that China and Japan had agreed verbally to terms of an accord which would make Nippon dominant in the Far East, it was understood the British legation in Peiping sent a full cable report to the foreign office in London.

The British cable reportedly stated that the Sino-Japanese accord so far is tentative and may not be consummated if other nations will agree to grant China the assistance, financial and otherwise, which she must have.

Japan, it was pointed out, was ready to give the assistance Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his associates in the Nanking government must have, but only on a "pay-in-advance basis."

If it would be profitable for Japan to "help" China in her efforts to modernize the nation, it was pointed out, it should be equally so for Britain.

British observers, too, thought China might be up to her old diplomatic game of "playing one nation of foreign barbarians" against another. She might hope to get better terms by offering concessions to Japan and other nations simultaneously and then striking a bargain with whatever group made the best offer.

One British source suggested that "premature publication" of the proposed Sino-Japanese accord yesterday was a deliberately planned move by the Chinese, who hoped to alarm Occidental powers into countermoves against Japan.

In any event, it was believed Britain would make a vigorous effort to block Japan, for consummation of the Japanese program would mean that Britain's huge trade interests in China would be frozen and gradually extinguished.

The United States, too, would suffer in that Japan would be sure to attempt to supplant American interests in management and operation of the extensive air lines in this country, telephone systems, radio telegraphs and other business enterprises.

Ex-Justice Holmes Is Holding Own

side. As, with a cheerful word of jesting, he entered the room, the ill jurist smiled and thumbed his nose at the Harvard teacher.

Such an action was characteristic of Mr. Holmes, who never engaged in saying the obvious thing at moments of sorrow or happiness. This incident has a parallel in the meeting 72 years ago between the jurist when he was a grievously wounded Union captain and his frantic father, the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Shot Through the Neck.

Young Holmes was shot through the neck at the Battle of Antietam. His father was notified that the youth was at Keedysville, Md. Fearful of the consequences of the wound, the father, a physician, set out for the side of his boy. But the latter had been moved from Keedysville and in the confusion of the war none knew where he was. The father's quest covered many miles and required days as he hurried from place to place in Maryland and Virginia.

Finally the father literally stumbled over the son in an improvised hospital train near Harrisburg, Pa.

"How are you, boy?" exclaimed the father.

"How are you, dad?" responded the youth destined to become one of the great masters of jurisprudence and one of America's grand old men.

Writing the story of his quest for his boy, the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" told how he had steeled himself in advance of the meeting in order to avoid any "swelling upward of the mother—hysterical passion," determined to "swallow and hold fast."

Contracted Cold on Ride.

"Such," wrote Dr. Holmes, "are the proprieties of life as they are observed among us Anglo-Saxons of the nineteenth century."

Prof. Frankfurter explained that the former justice had been ill about a week, contracting a cold while on an automobile ride. The illness, however, did not become known until Thursday, when several tanks of oxygen were carried into the I street home.

In addition to Mrs. Wilson, other callers were Justice George Sutherland, of the Supreme Court; Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and Rear Admiral Sidney A. Staunton. Telegrams wishing the jurist a speedy recovery came from all parts of the country.

London, March 1 (AP).—The government's approval of a trip to Moscow by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, apparently was fully confirmed today when it was officially announced a formal invitation has been transmitted from the Soviet capital.

A formal announcement of acceptance, however, probably will be postponed until it is possible to announce simultaneously a visit to Warsaw and Praha.

U. S. May Join In Move to Aid China Finances

Plan Would Keep Japan From Lone-Hand Agreement With Neighbor.

Copyright by the United Press.

The State Department is studying a plan under which the United States would join with other nations to give financial aid to China, it was learned last night.

Such a project would prevent Japan from entering into a lone-hand agreement with China and possibly gaining exclusive privileges from it. Shanghai dispatches reported that Japan and China are close to an agreement for cooperation in the Far East.

Whether Japan would be included in the nations that are considering extension of aid to China could not be learned.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, conferred yesterday with Acting Secretary of State William Phillips. It was believed Great Britain initiated the Chinese discussion.

Silver Problem Involved.

America has a particular reason for being willing to extend help. Last July Congress passed legislation calling for the purchase of silver to bulwark money reserves in this country. The effect of that was to drain silver from China to the United States.

The United Press learned authoritatively that America favors collective dealing with China, instead of single-handed aid by any nation, which might result in violation of the spirit of the "open door." Precedent for collective dealing was established by the Nine-Power Treaty and the International Bankers' Consortium of 1920.

Japan, it is alleged, seeks both a financial and political understanding with China, and some observers believe she is taking advantage of China's weakness to build up a "Monroe Doctrine" for the Far East. In 1921 the United States took the lead in the signing of the Nine-Power Treaty, which forbids any power from obtaining special privileges in China. Among the signatory nations were America, Japan, Great Britain and France.

The suspicion was voiced in some quarters that China might be using the threat of an agreement with Japan to force a modification of America's silver policy.

Great Britain Interested.

Officials in Washington have been watching developments closely for weeks. Recently Great Britain, with an enormous financial stake in China, also became interested. Yesterday's conference was the first indication that the two governments might be getting together on a policy.

United States officials recently have manifested keen sensitiveness to China's uneasiness over the silver-purchasing program, but the well-organized silver blocs in Congress make the question a delicate one.

Import figures indicate that the United States recently has discontinued direct purchases from China, but experts say the large quantities purchased recently in London consist largely of silver shipped from China to the United Kingdom last fall.

Affected by Silver Price.

Regardless of the volume of imports direct from China, that country is affected by the higher price of silver that might result from United States purchases in any part of the world.

Observers believe executive branches of the Government would like to reduce silver purchases, avoid a rapid rise in price, and thereby placate sentiment in the silver countries of the Orient. But the probable effect would be to invite more radical legislation or some kind of a mandatory resolution from Congress, where silver enthusiasts are active and well organized.

Japanese Ambassador Hirosi Saito said that so far as he knew his government had not offered financial assistance to China.

Recent negotiations between officials of the two countries have been aimed at harmonizing relations and abandoning the Chinese boycott against Japanese goods, he said, but no specific agreements have been reached.

'She Done Him Wrong' Wronged Her, Claim

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—Miss Frankie Baker, who claims to be the original Frankie of the "Frankie and Johnny" duo, charged today that the motion picture, "She Done Him Wrong," did her wrong, too.

Miss Baker served papers through her attorney, Daniel Cook, in a $100,000 damage suit accusing Mae West and Paramount Productions, Inc., of bringing her into public scandal, infamy, shame and disgrace."

Moreover, the complaint charges, Miss West's performance in the picture "was intended to and did, in fact," hold the plaintiff up as an object of "hatred, ridicule, shame and contempt, and induced an evil opinion of her in the minds of right-thinking people throughout the United States, Canada and elsewhere."

line to the Far East "at an early date" were announced at the Postoffice Department last October by Postmaster General Farley. As yet, however, no contracts have been signed.

Since Farley's first announcement, Pan-American Airways, contractor to the Government for the transportation of foreign air mail, has completed construction and conducted tests on two new types of long range planes capable of making the longest hop on the Pacific run, the 2,399-mile jump from California to Hawaii.

The first of these ships will be taken to the west coast in the near future where preliminary flights will be conducted to acquaint pilots with Pacific flying conditions.

Roosevelt Applauds Philippines' Finances

President Roosevelt yesterday praised the administration of Governor General Frank Murphy, of the Philippine Islands, remarking especially that the former Detroit mayor had managed to pay off a four-year deficit and achieve a balanced budget for the islands.

The governor general is now in Washington, paying his first visit since his appointment two years ago. He called on the President yesterday and will return today for a more extended conference, taking up with Mr. Roosevelt the problems of Philippine independence.

The President answered in the negative a question if he intended to transfer Gov. Murphy to some other post, and then complimented his administration. In the first place, Mr. Roosevelt said, Gov. Murphy has worked in such harmony with Philippine leaders that the White House has been freed from all care. Secondly, the governor general, in balancing the budget, has accomplished an achievement for any executive, the President added with a smile.

Earlier in the day, Gov. Murphy remarked, after his meeting with the President, that the financial position of the Philippines is better than at any time in the 36 years of American occupation.

laughter when a newspaperwoman replied, "With what?"

White House Ceremony.

The White House ceremony inaugurating the issue was attended by Secretary Morgenthau and Postmaster General James A. Farley, the latter as sales agent for the securities. The President heard Mr. Morgenthau explain:

"These bonds are designed as a convenient and profitable investment for the savings of individual investors. As you know, since the World War the Government has done its financing by large bond issues which have been taken by banks and corporations. Now the Treasury has decided that every citizen should have a chance to buy sound Government securities, and become a partner in his Government."

Permitting himself to be "sold" six bonds of the $25 denomination, Mr. Roosevelt handed the postmaster general $113 and received 50 cents in return. Ten years from yesterday these bonds will bring $150, which is approximately 2.9 per cent interest compounded semi-annually.

Bonds May Be Redeemed.

At any time after two months, however, Mr. Roosevelt can turn in his bonds at a postoffice for their value, which enhances. For example, a $100 bond, purchased for $75, increases $1 in value every six months after the first year until the seventh year, after which the increase becomes $2 each six months.

Later in the day, Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrns called at Secretary Morgenthau's office and each bought a $1,000 bond. The vice president's bond was for his granddaughter, 12-year-old Genevieve Garner; the Speaker's bond was for Mrs. Byrns.

Woman Suffrage Voted By French Deputies

Paris, March 1 (AP).—The Chamber of Deputies tonight voted, 453 to 124, to give women the right to vote in all elections, after discarding another bill limiting the ballot to municipal elections.

The measure now will be sent to committee, together with numerous amendments specifying as to when and how women shall be allowed to vote, later to be returned to the chamber for a final vote. If approved it will then go to the Senate, which has several times killed chamber bills providing for woman suffrage.

Chicago Politician Faces Tax Charge

Former Head of Sanitary Board Is Indicted.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 1.—The Government sharpened up the old ax of income tax prosecution today and put on the block another erstwhile Chicago political leader, Howard W. Elmore.

The former president of Chicago's sanitary district board was indicted by the Federal grand jury on charges of trying to evade payment of $51,659 income taxes on two-year income the Government summed up at $288,811.

Elmore, then of former Senator Charles S. Deneen's Republican faction, headed the sanitary district board in 1928-29. If convicted, he would be subject to ten years imprisonment and $20,000 fine.

Corn Belt Starts Moving Day, City-to-Farm Trend Disclosed

By the Associated Press.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 1.—The breath of spring kindled a restless spirit in thousands of Corn Belt tenant farmers today and set them on the move to new homes and new soil.

Farm wagons, buggies and family flivvers, laden with household goods and farm equipment, rolled along snow-covered highways as the traditional March 1 moving day heralded a new year for the "itinerant" farmer.

Today marked the beginning of a new fiscal year on the farm—the deadline for 1935 crop plans and settling families before the rush of heavy spring work.

The migration, distinctly noticeable in Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois, consisted not only of tenants moving from one location to another, but was shared this year by landowners returning from retirement in their city and small town homes to the farm.

A survey announced today by Dr. Ray E. Wakeley, Iowa State College rural sociologist, revealed a distinct city-to-farm movement, sharply in contrast with the farm-to-city movement from 1920 to 1930.

Iowa extension service specialists reported a heavy demand for farms, of which there was an insufficient supply.

The sociologist said he noted a distinct movement of farmers into Iowa, particularly from North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska.

Dr. W. G. Murray, Iowa State College land economist, said from all indications landlords were increasing rental prices whenever possible to bring them more in line with the recent increase in farm prices.

Europa Crew Tells Of Rescue Attempt

Seas Worst in Memory, Liner's Captain Says.

By the Associated Press.

Southampton, England, March 1.—The liner Europa, which altered her course in midatlantic in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue the crew of the ill fated steamship Blaircowrie, lost with 28 men, reached port today. Six members of the crew were injured by being thrown by the pitching liner.

Commander Oscar Scharf declared: "During my 35 years of experience I have never seen such truly mountainous seas. The wind blew 90 miles an hour and the conditions were terrible."

Ten plate glass windows on the Europa's promenade deck, 65 feet above the water-line, were smashed by the waves in the crossing.

Two Policemen In Trial Accuse Kindleberger

He and Whitestone Refused to Hear Their Side of Assault, They Say.

Accusing two assistant District attorneys—one of them Karl Kindleberger, a recent witness before the House crime investigating committee—of refusing to hear their explanation, two Sixth Precinct policemen, facing a Police Court trial on assault charges, testified in their own behalf yesterday.

It was the third day of testimony before Judge John P. McMahon and Policemen Ernest T. Wessells and John I. Shotzberger were called to the witness stand to answer charges of beating Harrison M. Fuller, of the 300 block of Ingraham street northwest.

Shotzberger, first to testify, denied accusations of "striking and pummeling" Fuller in an alley at the rear of his home. Wessells admitted hitting Fuller in the mouth when the latter struck him as they were en route to the Sixth Precinct station house in a radio car. He hit Fuller, the policeman said, to maintain arrest and protect himself.

Bitter Testimony.

Both policemen were bitter as they told of a preliminary hearing before Assistant District Attorneys Kindleberger and Louis Whitestone. The alleged assault occurred when the policemen mistook Fuller for his brother, Allen Fuller, and attempted to serve a parking violation warrant February 20.

The following day, Wessells, Shotzberger and members of the Fuller family were called to Kindleberger's office, it was testified. Statements and charges were taken from Harrison Fuller, his brother and Mrs. Mytis Fuller, their mother.

But neither Wessells nor Shotzberger was allowed to make a statement or explain the alleged assault on Harrison, the Court was told. When they attempted to explain, the policemen testified, Kindleberger threw up his hands and said:

"We have a prima facie case against you policemen."

Assault Case Dropped.

Wessells said he asked what was to become of assault charges pending against Harrison Fuller and was told the case would be scheduled for the following Saturday. Appearing as directed, however, Wessells said he and Shotzberger found that charges against Fuller had been dismissed—marked "no papers."

The policemen testified that they went to the Fuller home to serve a warrant on Allen and were told he was in bed. They waited—one at the rear and one in front of the house—for Allen to appear. Shotzberger, at the rear, said he saw a man leave the house by a basement door. He accosted the man and asked his name, Shotzberger said.

"Try and find out," Shotzberger said the man retorted.

As the policeman stepped forward, the man, later identified as Harrison Fuller, struck him and knocked off his hat, it was testified.

Shotzberger said he and Wessells chased Harrison out of the alley to Eighth and Ingraham streets northwest.

Two Teeth Knocked Out.

There the fugitive was overtaken and placed in a scout car, the policemen declared. They said he cursed and swore, calling them "yellow cowards" and attempted to throw a stone at them.

It was in the police car that Harrison Fuller was struck and two of his teeth knocked out, the policemen said.

A surprise witness, Michael Van Horn, of the 700 block of Kennedy street northwest, who volunteered to testify after reading newspaper accounts of the trial, said he saw parts of the alleged assault at Eighth and Ingraham streets northwest.

He declared that the policemen at no time struck Harrison. On the other hand, he said, Harrison resisted arrest and battled the policemen.

Final arguments in the case will be heard Wednesday at 3 p. m.

Company to Pay $60,000 for Buses

Authorized to Buy Six for Takoma Park Line.

The Capital Transit Co. was authorized yesterday by the Public Utilities Commisssion to purchase six buses at a cost of $60,000 for use on the new express bus line from Takoma Park to the downtown area, which will start March 15.

As a preliminary to further rerouting orders, the commission directed the Transit company to make a series of track changes.

Construction of a track loop at Third and Indiana avenue northwest was ordered so as to serve the proposed municipal center.

Installation of trackage was ordered to connect southbound tracks, on Fifth street, north G street, with the tracks on same street south of G street.

A curve in the tracks at Seventh and K streets northwest to permit a turn into New York avenue, also was ordered.

Urges Business to Accept Works Plans

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Business Must Accept Works, Says Hopkins

Retailers Warned They May Lose the Government's Relief Patronage.

ministration would manufacture all the clothes and shoes needed and set up its own packing plants. He said the cost could be cut to $100,000,000 "by ignoring grocers, dropping work projects, setting up our own commissaries and providing no money to relief clients."

Retailers Warned.

"We could take these 20,000,000 persons and separate them from our own system under a collectivist type of economy," he stated. "I don't believe in that."

"We will stop buying from every retailer in the country," he added, "if we don't get the money to care for the unemployed."

Hapkins championed the President's social security plan, with its unemployment insurance, old-age pensions and housing program.

"Five billion dollars may be required, but why not carry them out?" he asked. "People are not going to tolerate the kind of poverty we had even in 1929. I do not admit our economic system can't provide these things out of the national income. We might as well make up our minds we will pay for it. It's going to be done."

Hopkins mentioned he had the responsibility of disbursing $3,000,000,000 during the past 18 months and praised the honesty, efficiency and effort of Federal relief officials. He added:

"The whole public service is giving you dollar for dollar."

Plans Drought Relief.

Meanwhile, a liberalized drought relief program, designed to carry farmers in the area blighted by last summer's sun through the next three months, was outlined by Hopkins.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration announced that the Government would waive past limits on feed loans and direct grants for feed purchase to agriculturists in drought-ridden States. The new program was made effective immediately. Each farmer will be treated as an individual case, Hopkins said, with the State Rural Rehabilitation Corporations administering to his needs. Officials of these organizations will determine how the borrowers are to repay their loans. The alternatives are cash or work or a combination of the two. Corporation executives will have authority to grant extensions.

Hopkins termed rehabilitation of the drought districts of "the utmost importance." He estimated 2,000,000 persons were added to relief rolls as a result of crop failures.

Mexican Workers Rap Illinois Legislature

Mexico City, March 1 (AP).—General confederation of city and rural workers of Mexico today adopted a resolution assailing "the attitude of the Illinois Legislature in condemning 'the campaign against religious liberty, liberty of the press and liberty of education'" in Mexico.

Terming the Illinois action "nothing more than a consequence of the filthy reaction among the American people and its institutions," the confederation called for an energetic attitude of President Lazaro Cardenas and the government toward the Government of the United States.

Jobless Insurance Bill Before Arizona House

Phoenix, Ariz., March 1 (AP).—An unemployment insurance measure was introduced today in the Arizona House of Representatives.

It provides that the employer shall pay 2 per cent of his pay roll toward the fund, starting in January, 1936. Employes would contribute 1 per cent of their wages.

Employer Goes to Jail To Test Tobacco Code

New York, March 1 (AP).—Morris Kaplan, 57, head of the M. Kaplan Tobacco Co., Inc., went to jail today to make a test of the wholesale tobacco code, which prohibits the selling of cigarettes below a minimum price.

Kaplan sold the cigarettes to Maxwell Siskind, code supervisor.

Police Arrest Alleged Agent Of La Fontaine

John Fitzgerald, 26, who police say is a numbers runner for James LaFontaine's Prince Georges County gaming clique, was arrested yesterday by vice squad detectives and charged with operating a lottery.

The arrest was made at Bladensburg road and Channing street northeast, where Sergt. George C. Deyoe stopped Fitzgerald, who was driving toward Maryland in his automobile. Deyoe had a warrant issued after an undercover man was alleged to have placed a bet with another numbers operator.

According to police, Fitzgerald was a collector who gathered up bets which were made with several other sub-collectors. A search of his automobile revealed several hundred numbers slips and more than $150 in money—the slips and money being grouped in nine different envelopes, indicating, police said, that he had collected from nine lesser bet takers.

Examination of the money, police said, revealed a marked 10-cent piece and a marked 5-cent piece which the undercover man had bet and also the slip he had filled in when he made the bet.

Fitzgerald gave his address as the first block of Fifth street northwest. He was released on bond of $500.

While LaFontaine's large gambling house on Bladensburg road at the District line is not operating, police say that henchmen of the gambler are conducting the numbers game through the city from a headquarters on Defense highway, a few miles east of Bladensburg.

3 Creditors Sue Hotel Corporation

Ask Court for Trustees to Manage Property.

Alleging that the bonded indebtedness of the Hilltop Manor Company, assignee of the Cavalier Corporation, owners of a hotel property at Fourteenth and Oak streets northwest, was $1,950,000, while the assets of the corporation were approximately $750,000, three creditors yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to appoint trustees to manage the property and submit plans for its reorganization.

Suits for foreclosure should be enjoined so that the reorganization can be effected, it was set forth.

Traffic Law Violators Made to Visit Morgue

Los Angeles, March 1 (AP).—Campaigning to reduce the death toll from automobile accidents, Los Angeles has decreed for traffic violators compulsory visits to the morgue—to view the mangled victims of careless driving.

Seventy-five persons have been forced to undergo this ordeal in recent days. Mrs. Florence Broderick, of Pasadena, shrieked and fainted when she was led through.

Justice Office Denies It Aims To Balk Probe

Crime Committee of House Determined to Press Garnett Inquiry.

surance, Representative Randolph said: "He told me he didn't like publicity and would prefer not to have his name mentioned."

Political Headsman.

Identity of the caller was admitted at the Department of Justice later, however.

Mr. Stanley undertook the job of political headsman soon after the present Administration took office. He turned down supporters of several Washington lawyers for the post of United States attorney and selected Mr. Garnett.

Behind the anxiety of Mr. Stanley about the committee investigation of the District attorney's office is reputed to be a long story of an involved political deal.

When he took office Mr. Garnett said he would occupy it only until such time as a vacancy occurred on the District Supreme Court bench. He had been promised a lifetime job on that bench, he said.

Who was to succeed him as District attorney is said not to have been definitely determined.

Meanwhile, it is reported, the plan for distribution of judicial political plums in the National Capital has developed ramifications. Mr. Garnett is said to have been grooming Karl Kindleberger, his assistant in charge at Police Court, for appointment to the Municipal Court bench. George E. McNeil, another lawyer, also is reported to have been slated for appointment to the same bench. James Crawford Biggs, at present Solicitor General of the United States, is to be named to the District Court of Appeals to get him out of his present post, according to the reports.

Disclosures Balk Plans.

Mr. Kindleberger would replace Judge George C. Aukam and Mr. McNeil would replace Judge James A. Cobb, it is said. Replacement of Judge Nathan Cayton on the Municipal Court bench also is reported under study. Another job is to be found for a deserving Democrat, when the term of Judge Isaac Hitt, of the Police Court, expires, according to the reports.

These plans, it was said, were threatened with serious embarrassment, by the disclosures regarding Mr. Garnett, Mr. Kindleberger and the District attorney's office before the House Crime Committee.

This was said to have prompted an official in Mr. Stanley's office to call on committee members on Thursday. He asked how far the committee intended going with its inquiry into the United States Attorney's office. He asked how long it would be before the trend of the investigation veered in another direction. He pointed out, too, that the results of the committee's inquiry had not cast any glory on the Department of Justice, by whom Mr. Garnett and his assistants were chosen, and which was responsible for conduct of the office.

Fitzpatrick Asked Aid.

Disclosure of this fact started the fireworks, which were reported still exploding and sizzling in private conferences among Justice Department officials and others long after the usual end of yesterday's business day.

Representative Randolph refused to go beyond his formal statement, saying he had received assurances the Justice Department would cooperate with the committee. During the conference with Mr. Stanley, however, it was learned that the Justice official was reminded the committee chairman had asked aid of the department before it began its inquiry. The department said it could not give the committee assistance of its investigating staff.

Another plea for cooperation of the Justice Department, inquiry developed, had been made by John R. Fitzpatrick, committee counsel, soon after he was named. The committee counsel refused to discuss this and referred all inquiries to Representative Randolph and other members of the committee.

Fitzpatrick Studies Records.

Mr. Fitzpatrick spent some time yesterday at the Police Court and at police headquarters poring over records. He refused to discuss his visit. Members of the committee, however, are insistent that Mr. Garnett be recalled. Those who have put themselves on record include Representative Theodore B Werner (Democrat), of South Dakota, Representative William T. Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, and Representative Ralph O. Brewster (Republican), of Maine.

Just when Mr. Garnett will be recalled is doubtful. Inspector Louis G. Stott, chairman of the Police Trial Board, has been summoned to appear before the committee at 1:30 p. m. on Monday. After him various captains of the Police Department are to be called to give their views on the department and law enforcement generally as well as to answer specific questions.

Judges of the Police Court are among those who are to be called by the committee. The committee also is seeking to get from the Department of Justice facts developed by the investigation of the Police Court now under way by 16 agents of the Justice Department.

Statue of Ingersoll Asked in Washington

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, yesterday reintroduced a bill authorizing the erection of a monument to Robert Ingersoll, the noted atheist, in Washington.

The bill, which was blocked in the House last session, would authorize the director of public buildings and public parks to select a suitable site and grant permission to the Robert Ingersoll Monument Association to erect the statue and present it to the people of the United States.

D. C. Promoter Eludes Police; Bond Forfeited

Layton, Backer of Tribute to Pershing, Fails to Appear in Court.

A $10,000 bond posted by Alfred M. Layton to insure his presence at a hearing in the District Supreme Court was ordered forfeited by Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

Layton, arrested many months ago when complaints were made that he had exceeded his authority in promoting the progress of the Pershing Memorial Bust Committee, was charged with using the mails to defraud.

After his arraignment before the United States commissioner he was indicted but when called for arraignment he was never apprehended. His bondsman, I. B. Jones, had sought and obtained numerous postponements of the arraignment.

Layton is charged with promoting the Pershing memorial idea far beyond the dreams of the original sponsors. He is said to have obtained thousands of dollars by approaching friends of the war-time commander with suggestions that they contribute to a memorial to him.

Moses Dykaar, internationally known sculptor, had done the bust of Pershing. He committed suicide in a New York subway station. It was the idea of the memorial committee that the bust should be presented to the Federal Government as a national memorial.

When postal inspectors and Federal officers raided Layton's headquarters in a downtown office building they stated they had learned that the money he had received had been expended with but a small exception. Layton has been traced to numerous Eastern cities, but he has never been apprehended despite an extensive search.

U. S. Holds Pair For Grand Jury In Auto Thefts

75 Cars Stolen Here Are Recovered After 'Ring,' Sales, Say Police.

Two men, alleged members of a suspected automobile theft ring, were held for grand jury action yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on charges of conspiracy to violate the motor vehicle theft act.

Investigation of the ring's activities led to arrest of the two men in Florida, police declared. The suspects gave names of Eddie Smith and Joe Curtice. A third suspect, Ernie Rodgers, arrested several weeks, ago, also faces grand jury action on a similar count.

A total of 75 automobiles, stolen in Washington within the last five months, have been recovered, police reported. Statesville, N. C., was described as the gang's "base." Stolen cars were taken to Statesville and sold, police said.

Although 43 stolen machines were found in the vicinity of Statesville, investigators declared, a number of others were recovered near Gretna, Va. Detective Sergt. Jake Wolf, of the local automobile squad, is in North Carolina, completing an investigation. It is expected that more than 100 stolen cars will eventually be recovered.

Coroner Holds Seneca Youth In Fatal Crash

Brakes on Bornman Car Deficient, Police Say After Tests.

Leroy E. Bornman, 22, of Senaca, Md., was ordered held for the grand jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Miss S. Edith Stevenson, 64, of 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest, who was fatally injured Wednesday night at Wisconsin avenue and Macomb street, when she was struck by a car allegedly operated by Bornman.

After police had reported that foot brakes of the car stopped it in 55 feet instead of in the required 40 feet, Charles L. Bornman, father of the young man, asked another test. The car was brought to the morgue and there the brakes only succeeded in stopping the car after it had gone 175 feet, police said.

In another traffic inquest the coroner's jury exonerated Arthur E. Byron, a Capital Transit Co. motorman, of blame in the death of James M. Dodson, 40, colored, of the 1700 block of Tenth street northwest, who was struck by a street car on February 23 at Fourteenth and Euclid streets.

An eyewitness at the inquest was Representative Charles W. Tobey, of New Hampshire, who said he was attending to obtain first-hand information on the working of District institutions. Tobey congratulated Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald on the manner in which the inquest was conducted.

Secret Strike Vote Is Called In Auto Trade

Action by A. F. of L. Union Climaxes Dissension With Labor Board.

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, March 1.—The National Council of United Automobile Workers called today for a secret vote among members of 176 American Federation of Labor locals in the motor car industry. The action climaxed growing dissension between the A. F. of L. and the National Automobile Labor Board.

Francis J. Dillon, A. F. of L. organizer, who announced the action, said the order did not necessarily mean a strike would be called, as only the federation's national officers had that authority. He intimated the order may have been issued in an effort to determine just how strong the federation is in the industry.

Dillon explained the step had been taken because of the federation's dissatisfaction with methods the Automobile Labor Board has used in conducting collective bargaining elections in automotive plants.

200,000 in Industry.

"Now is the time to find out whether the workers in the automobile industry want the American Federation of Labor," he said. "If they want the union, we will find it out through these strike votes. If they don't, well——"

Approximately 200,000 workers are directly employed in the automobile industry. The labor board has already canvassed 89,273 of these workers in collective bargaining committee elections, and found only 3,926 of them reporting A. F. of L. affiliation. The elections showed 66,821 reporting no labor union affiliation.

Dillon declined today to estimate the number of federation members employed in the industry. William Green, federation president, who was here last week, estimated the members in good standing humbered about 20,000. He claimed approximately the same number had fallen in arrears because of unemployment.

Comment Withheld.

Comment on the strike vote was withheld by both the Automobile Manufacturers Association and the Automobile Labor Board members here. Dr. Leo T. Wolman, chairman of the labor board, was absent from the city, and the other two members, Richard Byrd, representing labor, and Nicholas Kelley, representing the employers, declined to be quoted.

In Washington, President Green confirmed Dillon's statement that, regardless of what the vote might be, a strike could not be undertaken unless authorized by the federation's national officers.

Dillon, in his statement today said: "The present tense situation has been precipitated by the policy and tactics of the Automobile Labor Board."

Workers' Complaints.

Automobile workers, he said, "have for years complained of speed-up systems, bonus systems, merit systems, discriminations, intimidations, low wages and long hours * * * and the board has failed utterly to accomplish one single reform. The elections set up by Dr. Wolman represent nothing but the legalization of the company union."

Instructions to the locals make it clear that "collective bargaining" through President Green is the paramount issue involved. "Until such collective bargaining is achieved," said the circular to the locals, "all other issues should be subordinated to it."

The motor-car industry at present is engaged in its heaviest production program since 1930, with an indicated output for the year of at least 3,350,000 passenger cars and trucks.

Parkway Program Awaits U. S. Aid

Virginia Marks Time on Rights of Way.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., March 1.—Until assurance is received from the Department of the Interior that the Shenandoah-Great Smoky scenic highway will get Federal support, the State highway commission will make no further effort to acquire rights of way along the proposed route, Commissioner H. G. Shirley declared today.

Considerable time but "very little money" has been expended in obtaining rights of way between Jarmans Gap and the Peaks of Otter, Mr. Shirley said. A large number of options have been acquired at $1 each, but absolute title has been obtained in only one instance.

The commissioner reiterated his belief that Interior Secretary Ickes intends to have the parkway completed, but "can not do so until he has sufficient funds." Ickes disclosed Thursday that $6,000,000 earmarked for the project had been impounded for relief, pending passage of a new public works bill.

member, and is very happy here," he added.

It was believed probable that much of the King's property in Siam would be confiscated, and that this would cut his income sharply.

Many months of negotiations preceded the announcement of the King's secretary. A delegation of his countrymen held many conferences in an attempt to patch up the wide breach between the monarch, who felt his powers had been stripped from him, and his government at Bangkok. When the Parliament rejected his conditions, it was the final straw.

Two of the points were the monarch's demand for trial in an ordinary court for persons suspected of opposition to the government instead of summary judgment at a secret trial, and his objections to provisions specifying that half of the members of the national assembly shall be nominated by the government.

11-Year-Old Prince Due to Ascend Throne

Bangkok, Siam, March 1 (AP).—Prince Ananda, 11-year-old nephew of King Prajadhipok, probably will be named to succeed to the throne with the abdication of the monarch, an authoritative source said tonight.

Ananda is the son of the late Prince Mahidol, who studied medicine at Harvard University under the name of "Mr. Songkala."

Authoritative quarters said it was believed the government would accept King Prajadhipok's abdication and proclaim Ananda king under a regency.

Should this decision be made it was considered probably that the army would play the principal role in future administration of the nation.

Phya Bahol, prime minister and commander in chief of the army, and his chief lieutenant, Luang Bipul Songgram, generally determine the policies of the army. The army has played an important part in Siamese revolutions and was responsible for the maintenance of internal peace in the country since the first coup d'etat in June, 1932.

The constitution does not specify exactly the methods of succession in the event of an abdication. It broadly states that in case the king fails to appoint someone to perform his functions the people's assembly may act. The assembly is authorized to name the king's successor or substitute to carry on the affairs of state.

South Penn Power Cuts Rates by 10%

25,000 Yearly Savings Effected for Users.

By a Special Correspondent.

Waynesboro, Pa., March 1 (Spl.)—Effective today, the South Penn Power Company, a subsidiary of the Potomac Edison Co., announced a new rate schedule estimated to save consumers in excess of $25,000 yearly. This amount is approximately 10 per cent of the total gross revenue received from small power customers.

The new rates are effective with meter readings on and after today, thereby covering service rendered during February, the State Public Service Commission, with which the company filed its schedule, announced.

Most of the customers of the South Penn Power Co. are in Waynesboro and surrounding territory. The reduction also will apply to those of the company's customers in Adams, Bedford, Fulton and Somerset counties.

Winchester Boy Hurt By Car; Driver Freed wealth to a book value of approximately $97,000,000 by the end of the year.

The Government contends that many of these were only "purported" gifts and that fictitious losses were set up in "shadow sales."

That Mellon lost heavily during the stock market crash was evidenced on the basis of many figures introduced by Johnson.

The original Coalesced Co., a holding concern organized in 1929, contained stock with a market value of more than $9,500,000, and in December, 1931, this had shrunk to $3,139,000, the figures showed.

Similarly his holdings in Pittsburgh Coal, which had cost him more than $6,000,000, was sold to the Union Trust Co. for $500,000—a sale which the Government claims was a subterfuge, because the reorganized Coalesced Co. purchased the stock back at an increase of less than $20,000 in price.

Court Puts Off Alienation Suit

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Danville, Va., March 1.—The $100,000 heart balm suit filed by Richard B. Thomas, former Yale star swimmer, against Dr. Henry J. Langston, of Danville, was abandoned so far as the present term of the Federal court is concerned.

Another case continued to be heard and with adjournment set for noon tomorrow, Judge John Paul ruled the alienation case could not be undertaken. Lawyers and witnesses scattered.

The finale was preceded by a sharp legal spat on the subject of a wanted telegram in the files of the Western Union Telegraph Co, sought by the plaintiff.

The files were subpenaed, but J. E. Carson, manager of the company, stood on legal ground and claimed he could not be called on to surrender the message until the case is called.

Twice a marshal was sent for Carson. The telegram was finally produced and given to Judge Paul. Plaintiff's lawyers copied the contents, handed the original back to Carson and left the courtroom.

Rudolf Hess, Hitler party lieutenant, and Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, addressed the throng, but it was the speech of the Reichsfuehrer which brought the Saar enthusiasm to fever pitch.

The bands struck up "Deutschland Ueber Alles," and the throng responded with mighty cheers and thunderous singing. The Horst-wessel was sung, and the celebrants marched through the streets, moved to emotional heights. Hitler left this evening.

Textile Strike InDixieBlamed On 'Speed' Plan

Labor Warns Inauguration of System Will Bring Nation-Wide Fight.

By the Associated Press.

La Grange, Ga., March 1.—Organized labor served notice of a Nation-wide fight on a French system of speeding up textile mill work today as six mills here ran with reduced crews due to a walkout in protest against the system.

The number on strike remained in doubt. Cason Callaway, president of the Callaway chain of mills, said "about 80 per cent of the operatives" had returned. Labor leaders said only one-fifth to one-third of the workers were on the job. The six mills normally employ about 3,000.

Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, said in Washington that organized labor was determined to fight the institution of what is known as the Bedeaux work assignment system whenever it occurs in this country.

Gorman blamed the strike here on institution of the system which, he said, was "damnable" and "puts a premium on over-exertion."

Callaway said there had been no increase in "work-load" and that the walkouts which occurred yesterday and today were due to a misunderstanding about initiation of a reduced wage schedule which he said had cut the pay of workers about 8 per cent. He said the Callaway mills had been "unable to produce goods at a cost at which they can be sold" under a schedule of wages "approximately 16 per cent in excess of code requirements" and that a reduction was ordered last Monday.

Wife Shooting Case Deferred by Court

Richmond Man to Remain in Jail Until Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., March 1.—William F. Whiteside will remain in jail here until March 27 when he will be given a hearing on felonious assault charges in connection with the shooting and wounding of his wife here February 2.

The hearing was set for today but a continuance was asked after a conference between attorneys for Mrs. Whiteside and Commonwealth's Attorney Haddon. Officials desire to postpone the hearing until Mrs. Whiteside, under treatment in a hospital, is able to attend or is out of possible danger from the wounds.

Mrs. Whiteside, a music teacher, was shot as she was playing in a dance studio and witnesses said the four shots were fired by her husband, from whom she had been granted legal separation.

Fewer Arrests Are Reported In Alexandria

Police Reveal 83 Charged With Drunkenness in February.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Police Captain John S. Arnold of the Alexandria Police Department reports there were 16 fewer arrests in February than in January, with a total of 260.

The report of Detective Sergeant Edgar Sims and Detective J. P. Butler shows property stolen during February was valued at $563.85 and of this amount $299.85 was recovered.

Other data in the report shows one murder; one robbery, cleared; three felonious assaults, cleared; 10 burglaries, five cleared; one grand larceny, cleared; 14 petit larceny, with four cleared; two stolen automobiles, recovered; and three sudden deaths investigated. There were 83 arrests for drunkenness, 33 for disorderly conduct and one for vagrancy.

Dr. W. T. Sanger, president of the Richmond Medical College, and also president of the Virginia State Parent-Teacher Association, was the speaker at the meeting of the general Parent-Teacher Council held on Thursday night in the Alexandria High School auditorium. Mrs. W. C. Kidd, president of the Parent-Teacher Council, introduced the speaker.

The Rev. Dr. William B. McIlwaine, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. E. W. Aaron, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, have been named from the Alexandria Ministerial Association to arrange for a three-hour service on Good Friday.

Mrs. Araminta Miller, 88, widow of Henry D. Miller, died yesterday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. C. J. Page, 620 King street. She is surviver by three sons, Elbert T. Miller, Henry D. Miller and Ivison T. Miller.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Monday, at the Demaine funeral home, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Cumberland Hits Back at Governor For Bench Choice

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 1.—Rebuffed by Gov. Harry W. Nice in his appointment of Mrs. Mary C. Lammert, of Frostburg, as judge, the mayor and council today approved a bill to be sent to the Allegany County delegation in the General Assembly, which, if adopted, would put the whole cost of maintenance of the juvenile court on Allegany County.

Under the present law, the City of Cumberland pays one-third of the salaries outright and about two-thirds of the remainder of the cost through its proportion of county taxes. For that reason the city authorities thought the judge should be a resident of Cumberland.

Gov. Nice in reply to the protest of the city authorities said:

"The action of the city council of Cumberland requesting reconsideration of the appointment of Mrs. Lammert distresses me very much indeed. I wish I could make clear to you, gentlemen, that this is one personal appointment, other than a coroner in Baltimore, which I have made since being Governor and I do think I am entitled to at least that consideration. I do hope that even in the face of the argument, from your standpoint most just—that the City of Cumberland is entitled to have one of its own residents—your request will be set aside in deference to my personal commitment. With me this is a matter of honor."

Rifle Team Picked By 116th Infantry

5 at Winchester to Shoot in Indoor Matches.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Winchester, Va., March 1.—Capt. Paul R. Hartman and Sergeants Glenn Seabright, Edwin Smith and Raymond Golightly and Private J. P. Blount have been designated members of the 116th Infantry rifle team which will compete in the indoor matches sponsored by the National Guard bureau. The matches are expected to be held either in Charlottesville or this city during the week of March 17.

Other members of the team are Maj. H. B. Jordan, coach, and Sergeants W. S. McIlhenny, Louis A. Ham and S. W. Dinwiddie, of Company K; First Lieut. John R. Pugh, Company B; First Lieut. James L. Patterson and Second Lieut. William B. Johnson, Company A.

The riflemen are all members of Company I, 116th Infantry. They won the national indoor rifle championship last year.

Liquor Law Discontent Noted by Virginia Dry

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Mar. 1—The Rev. E. J. Richardson, superintendent of the Virginia Antisaloon League, today said the State's liquor control situation is causing "an increasing dissatisfaction."

Undercurrents now running strongly among the Virginia electorate are causing uneasiness to political groups, he claimed.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Front Royal, Va., March 1.—Berlin Eye, supervisor of the Northwestern District, Virginia Forest Service, stated here today that the Green Hill C. C. C. Camp, near here, which has been unoccupied for almost a year, will be reopened about April 1, probably as a junior C. C. C. Camp. It will continue to be under the supervision of the State Forest Service.

Submarine in Flames Races For Port; 2 Destroyers Crash

By the Associated Press.

Valetta, Malta, March 1. — The British submarine Oxley, with fire in her control room, raced for Gibraltar tonight as the British navy counted three damaged ships as a result of maneuvers of its Mediterranean fleet.

In addition to the Oxley, the destroyers Witch and Whished were damaged in collision at sea and returned to this port.

The fire in the Oxley's control room brought orders to two other vessels to stand by. Later the submarine was instructed to try to make Gibraltar.

No casualties were reported in either accident. The destroyers were slightly damaged.

Collision of two big British ships of war, H. M. S. Hood and H. M. S. Renown, January 23, brought court-martial this week for three British naval officers.

The Renown's commander, Capt. H. R. Sawbridge, was deprived of his command and reduced to half-pay, while Capt. F. T. B. Tower, of the Hood, the world's largest fighting ship, was cleared of blame. Also cleared was Rear Admiral Sidney Bailey, commander of the squadron while it was maneuvering off the coast of Spain.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 1.—The British merchant fleet will cooperate with the navy in fleet maneuvers starting March 8, when the home and Mediterranean fleets will wage "war" as "red land" and "blue land," it was announced today.

British merchant ships, which come into the zone of operations, numbering to 45, will belong to one side or the other and aid warships in reporting the sighting of "enemy" vessels.

Helena, Mont., March 1 (AP).—The State Senate concurred today in a House measure providing for the substitution of the lethal chamber for the gallows in Montana.

Pastor's Salary Boosted by Will

Mrs. Davis Also Gives Fund to Winchester Hospitals.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Winchester, Va., March 1.—The will of Mrs. Ellen Moore Davis, admitted to probate here, provides funds for the assistance of crippled children and needy patients in two hospitals, and an increased income for a pastor of a church she once attended, it was learned today.

A total of $8,000 was bequeathed to the three institutions. The Harrisonburg Protestant Episcopal Church trustees were bequeathed $2,500 to be invested, the income to be added to the salary of the rector. University Hospital was given $2,500 for treatment of crippled children. Charles Town, W. Va., Hospital was bequeathed $3,000.

Another Charles Town institution, the public library, received all the books in Mrs. Davis' public library. The bulk of the estate is to be held in trust for a brother.

Convicted Killer Faces Jail Term of 16 Years

Staunton, Va., March 1 (AP).—Jesse Jackson, charged with killing Ernest Sprouse last November 1, today faced a 16-year sentence in the State Penitentiary as the result of a verdict returned by a jury in circuit court here late yesterday. Jackson was tried on charges of shooting Sprouse to death in Sprouse Hollow, near Craigsville.

During the three-day trial Jackson defended the shooting on the ground of self-defense, defense witnesses declaring that Sprouse was a "dangerous man." Other witnesses for the prosecution, including County Supervisor W. L. Bashaw, said that Sprouse's reputation was "splendid."

Czech Officials, Three Germans Jailed as Spies

10 Held by Own Government Accused of Espionage for Austria, Reich.

By the Associated Press.

Praha, Czechoslovakia, March 1.—Czechoslovakia threw ten high officials into jail today as investigation of the arrest of three Germans last night led to the very doors of an alleged espionage ring.

Three of those arrested were described as personages of the ministry of war.

Although authorities refused to reveal the names of the officials held, they indicated their belief that an "espionage syndicate" existed. The ten, together with the three Germans, were said to be spying for Austria and Hungary.

The arrest of Fritz Kamm, Nazi German student leader, was the key to the alleged spy ring. A midnight search of the German students' organization, of which Kamm was formerly president, followed, and two other Germans, Adolf Borstendoerfer and Milos Meixner, were seized.

Borstendoerfer claimed to be correspondent for the Munich edition of Hitler's official newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter. Meixner, 32, son of the former secretary of the minister of defense, has been known for Nazi activities since 1926.

THREE MEN AND DIANA
By KATHLEEN NORRIS

● Nothing mattered to Diana except that Bruce didn't return her love.

"People don't die of this, you fool!" she told herself. She could not breathe; she could not endure the agony of it.

Everything said "Bruce" to her. Somehow the days followed one another—but there was no relief. How will it end?

Throat Ailment and Heart Disease Prove Fatal to Washingtonian.

Henry K. Bush-Brown, one of the Nation's foremost sculptors, died yesterday in his apartment at 1760 Euclid street northwest. Mr. Bush-Brown, who was 77 years old, had been ill about two weeks. A throat ailment and heart disease caused death.

A former president of the Arts Club, Mr. Bush-Brown had resided in Washington for more than 20 years. He was a nephew and pupil of the late Henry Kirke Brown, the sculptor. A painting of Mr. Bush-Brown, executed by his wife, Margaret W. Lesley Bush-Brown, now hangs in the rooms of the Arts Club.

Recently the House Library Committee reported favorably on a resolution authorizing the erection of one of his works, "Buffalo Hunt," on a spot to be designated by the National Commission on Fine Arts.

Compiled Uncle's Letters.

Versatile as he was gifted, Mr. Bush-Brown recently completed a compilation of letters written by his celebrated uncle during the Civil War period.

Inspiration for much that is beautiful in the Nation's Capital came from the letters, which were from the pen of Henry Kirke Brown. Many of the beauty spots and boulevards, the circles and works of fine art were inspired by the suggestions in the letters.

The compilation occupied Mr. Bush-Brown's time for several years.

Born in Ogdensburg, N. Y., on April 21, 1857, Mr. Bush-Brown studied art at the National Academy of Design after being graduated from Siglar's School, in Newburgh, N. Y. He was then the pupil of his uncle. Later he studied in Europe, principally in Paris and Rome.

His Famous Works.

Among the most famous works fashioned by his skillful hands are the equestrian statues of Gen. G. G. Meade and Gen. John F. Reynolds, at Gettysburg, Pa.; statues of Justinian, in the Appellate Court, New York; the Indian Buffalo Hunt; a group representing Truth; a memorial tablet at the Union League, in Philadelphia; decorative figures in the Hall of Records, New York; an equestrian statue of Gen. Anthony Wayne, in Valley Forge, Pa.; a memorial arch at Stony Point, N. Y., the Spirit of '61, at Philadelphia; the Mary Jamison statue; the Lincoln Memorial at Gettysburg, Pa.; the Union Soldiers' Monument, at Charleston, W. Va.; the statue of Gen. John Sedgwick, at Gettysburg; a portrait bust of Henry Kirke Brown, for the Hall of Fame, University of New York.

Mr. Bush-Brown was a member of the National Sculpture Society, the Architectural League and the Mayflower Society. He belonged to the National Arts Club, of New York, and the Cosmos Club.

Surviving Mr. Bush-Brown are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Francis Head, of New York, and two sons, Harold Bush-Brown, of Atlanta, Ga., and James Bush-Brown, of Philadelphia.

Funeral services will be held today at Gawler's undertaking establishment at 3 p. m. Burial will be private.

Copeland Won To Amendment On Pension Bill

Will Allow Commissioners to Fix Amount of Payments Here.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, (Democrat), of New York, yesterday indorsed an amendment to the Norton old-age pension bill for the District authorizing the District Commissioners to fix the amount of pension, and predicted that hearings will be started shortly on the Senate bill.

"I think Mrs. Norton has the right idea," Senator Copeland said, "and I don't see why we can't go ahead and put a similar bill through the Senate without waiting until the national social security legislation is enacted."

A sub-committee of the House District Committee will meet at 10 a. m. today to consider the amendments offered by Representative Mary T. Norton to her own old-age pension measure.

These amendments are designed to tie in the District bill with the national program. Besides eliminating the $35-a-month maximum carried in the original bill, the amendments cut down the residential requirement from ten to five years and provide for reimbursement to the Federal and District governments of pensions if the pensioner leaves any estate.

Proponents of the District old-age pension bill are afraid that unless Congress acts early on the bill no provision will be made in the pending District supply bill or in subsequent appropriations this session to meet the cost of this additional welfare item.

The act would become effective 90 days after passage by both Houses, but unless an appropriation is made it would be ineffective.

Sister Paulina's Rites Are Held At Georgetown

Author, Instructor Paid Tribute at Convent She Served 68 Years.

Funeral services for Sister Mary Paulina Finn, of the Visitation Order, for 50 years head of the English department of Georgetown Visitation Convent, were held at the institution she served for 68 years yesterday. Rites were conducted by the Rev. William Finn, of the Paulist Order. Sister Paulina died Thursday.

An author of renown, Sister Paulina, who was 93 years old, wrote "Sacred Poems," "Alma Mater and Other Dramas," "John Bannister Tabb—the Priest-Poet," "Gen. John Bosco, Apostle of Youth," and "A Glory of Maryland."

Sister Paulina, who was a native of Boston, numbered among her more prominent students Eleanor Mercein. She assisted Agnes Happlier in embarking on a literary career.

Soon after the close of the Civil War, Sister Paulina entered the convent. She retired as head of the English department more than 20 years ago, and continued to reside there, counseling and advising students, who loved her.

Virginia Loses U. S. School Aid

$710,000 FundTerminates for Counties at End of Present Term.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., March 1.—Virginia's counties need not expect aid from the Federal Government in operating their schools after the end of the present term, Department of Education officials have concluded after studying a communication from Dr. John W. Studebaker, Federal Commissioner of Education.

Termination of Federal aid, which amounts to $710,000 for this scholastic year, will not affect the emergency education program by which 1,300 unemployed Virginia teachers are at work, but the State must keep its regular schools open with its own resources, Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State Superintendent of Public Instructions, said yesterday.

Dr. Hall interpreted the move as an effort by the Federal Government to "taper off" school aid this spring and end it altogether when the next term begins.

Dr. Studebaker's letter pointed out that the legislatures of 44 States are in session and provision could be made by them for all school needs. However, Virginia's assembly does not meet until January 1936, leaving the question of school finances in doubt until that time.

Cumberland Mayor To Greet Woodmen

By the Associated Press.

Cumberland, Md., March 1.—Mayor George W. Legge of Cumberland will welcome the delegates to the State convention of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle at its opening session Monday.

Response will be given by Mrs. Fannie Kolb, of Washington, D. C., president of the State organization. The convention will continue through Tuesday.

After a banquet Monday, a demonstration of ritualistic work will be given by Queen City Grove, No. 11, of Cumberland, with Mrs. Edna V. German as guardian. The drill team, captained by Mrs. Lydia Biller, will assist.

Captain Who Rescued Byrd Dies While at Sea

Lynn, Mass., March 1 (AP).—Frederick C. Melville, 54, captain of the City of New York when that ship rescued Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic five years ago, died today aboard the freighter Angeles, 24 hours out of Boston, en route to Philadelphia. On his return from Philadelphia he was to have undergone an operation for a stomach disorder, which caused his death.

Oh, Surely Not Patronage?

Congress ordered a study of the Virginia-District boundary dispute with the clear intention that the investigating commission should complete its report by March 1, 1935. Whether or not that body has spent its time and its appropriation wisely, it is to be noted that both have been exhausted while the work remains unfinished.

The commission has been functioning for nine months. That should have been more than time enough for presentation of all the evidence both the Department of Justice and the State of Virginia have assembled. Unfortunately, however, this commission was assigned a double function—to provide patronage as well as to adjudicate a boundary dispute. No doubt that accounts for a good deal of its dilatory procedure.

The political facet of the commission is sharply emphasized in a bill introduced by Senator Robinson to extend its life for nine months. He would allow the commission $30,000 (more than double its expenses during the last nine months) and increase the salaries of members from $15 to $25 per day, in spite of the fact that its work is nearing completion. If the patronage racket had not been so strongly denounced by the Administration, one might suspect that the Senator from Arkansas is chiefly interested in preserving the job and raising the salary of the former Governor of Arkansas, who is chairman of the commission.

Be that as may be, it is important that the work of the commission be completed. Without increasing its remuneration, Congress should order the commission to conclude its hearings and submit its report within a brief period. Fortunately there are some prospects of an agreement between the Department of Justice and Virginia authorities that may hasten settlement of this ancient controversy.

The Backward Filipinos.

The Governor of the Philippine Islands, the Hon. Frank Murphy, has come to Washington to discuss the impending freedom of our Far Eastern wards. They are ready for independence, he declares. In an interview he is quoted as saying that the islands' budget is balanced "not by some trick of bookkeeping, but actually balanced." They have paid for the functions of government without increasing the tax burden. They have built up a cash surplus and large reserves. They are "sold on a pay-as-you-go policy." In sum, the governor announces, "their outlook is thoroughly sober * * * idealism is tempered by habits of realism."

The islands are scheduled to sever themselves from us approximately ten years after the establishment of their provisional government, which appears ready to be inaugurated within a few months. Under the circumstances, this can not be a day too soon. Even as it is, unless the Filipinos are extremely careful the influence of our example will creep in to blast their simple, provincial, antiquated conception of how a full-fledged, grown-up government should be conducted.

Local Security Bills.

Measures enabling the District to take advantage of the Administration's social security program, if, as and when enacted, are being actively sponsored by the House District Committee. Hearings on the old-age pensions bill introduced by Mrs. Norton, chairman of the committee, are expected to get under way today. A special subcommittee will likewise begin studying the Ellenbogen unemployment insurance bill next week.

Hostility to a reasonable local old-age pensions measure seems almost nonexistent. No further filibuster from Representative Blanton is expected. And members of the District Committee who are especially interested in this legislation are manifesting a commendable spirit of cooperation with the aim of drafting a workable measure. Representative Ellenbogen is so anxious to preserve a united front that he has decided to submit his own "model bill" on the subject to Mrs. Norton for study in connection with the committee measure. Such subordination of personal advertising to constructive legislative procedure is all too rare on Capitol Hill.

It may be unwise to enact these local economic security measures until Congress has given more definite shape to the national program. But the timely consideration accorded them by the House District Committee will be much appreciated by local residents. Moreover, the States are watching carefully the type of legislation proposed for the District. Systems of unemployment insurance and old-age pensions which may be established by Congress for Washington will be of more than local importance.

Where The Blame Lies.

Responsibility for breaking the legislative deadlock over the public works resolution has been shifted to the White House, where it belongs. Administration leaders who originally proposed the expenditure of nearly $5,000,000,000 on undefined projects can not escape blame for what has happened by criticizing Congress. The results of inadequate planning have simply gone home to roost.

The notorious joint resolution No. 117 was never anything more than an impossibly slipshod authorization to spend money. Any experienced politician should have known that it could be passed only under the pressure of emergency. The Administration seems to have counted upon the exhaustion of relief funds and its own popularity to secure a rubber-stamp approval from both the House and the Senate. But those days are fortunately of the past.

When the Senate insisted on knowing how the Executive proposes to spend the vast sum requested, the legislative inadequacy of the anonymous resolution became clearly apparent. The Senate had the alternative of closing its eyes to the gross defects of the measure, thus abdicating its constitutional responsibility, or of scrutinizing and amending the measure in the hope of evolving a practical work relief policy. It chose the only reasonable course. But the Senate did not have information from which to develop a comprehensive plan for the rational employment of 3,500,000 men. Consequently, the measure was soon bogged down with extraneous issues.

Proponents of the resolution now intimate that a vital part of the recovery program is being held up by recalcitrant Senators. Actually the confusion which has frustrated approval of this measure is a result of muddled thinking and inadequate planning before the program was submitted to Congress. The Senate has merely recognized and exposed the profound confusion of the original measure. It is entirely proper that it should refer the imbroglio back to the White House.

There is no hope of satisfactorily ironing out this situation through a compromise. The weaknesses in the public works resolution are organic. If the underlying objections of the Senate to this measure are to be overcome, it must be redrafted after a definite program of economically sound projects has been worked out. Instead of continuing to flounder in indecision, the Senate should instruct the executive authorities to draft a work-relief bill worthy of its consideration.

In the meantime relief must be afforded. Having exhausted its own funds, the FERA is drawing from the PWA money already allotted to specific undertakings. The effect is to curtail job-creating projects, to upset construction plans that have been in course of preparation for many months, and further to derange budgetary accounting.

Appropriation of funds to supply immediate relief needs and repay the advances from the PWA is imperative. Enactment of a bill for that specific purpose would not only break the legislative deadlock. It would also shift full responsibility for development of a practical work-relief program to the Executive, where, we repeat, responsibility belongs.

After The Saar.

A sort of Banquo's ghost appeared at the Saarlanders' banquets as they celebrated the formal transfer of the territory to German sovereignty. While the world looked on in benign approval and while German officialdom rode in triumphant procession to the jubilant huzzahs of the repatriated populace, foreboding signs of military activity developed on the eastern frontier of the Reich.

The posting of five Lithuanian regiments on the German border somewhat took the edge off the words of the German minister of the interior, who was at that very moment hailing the solution of the Saar problem as "an important step toward improvement of the general European situation and the peaceful collaboration of nations." For it is apparent that the maneuvers of Lithuania spring from a not altogether unjustified apprehension of German interest in its domain.

Memel, where German culture undoubtedly predominates, apparently has become the next objective of the hyper-nationalism of the National Socialists in Germany. Balked in Danzig, where the League of Nations controls, and wary of further rebuffs arising from any immediate move toward the incorporation of Austria, certain German elements seem anxious to test the comparatively insignificant strength of Lithuania. It is not to be forgotten, however, that the Memel autonomy convention is guaranteed by the great powers of Europe.

Pylons And Kiosks.

It requires no expert knowledge of municipal organization to understand the somewhat choleric attitude of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission toward the Treasury Department.

The latter's procurement division recently let contracts for the erection of ornamental pylons and kiosks in the downtown area of Washington without so much as a by-your-leave from the commission. Inasmuch as the chief purpose of the commission is to supervise the orderly development of the city by coordinating what may be called the embellishment activities of the Federal offices here, some understanding had to be reached.

In a memorandum, the commission chairman states that the pylons and kiosks are objectionable as hazards both to pedestrians and motorists and urges that some method be devised to require plans for construction in public streets and on public lands to be submitted beforehand to the commission. To which the public, somewhat taken aback by sudden talk of pylons and kiosks, and quite unable to visualize what sound like atrocities, will append a heart-felt "Amen."

Investigating The NRA.

"Full, open and complete hearings" into the practices of the recovery administration and the operation of the codes is promised by Senator Harrison, chairman of the Finance Committee, which has been charged with the conduct of the investigation. The vehemence with which certain Senators have called for a thorough inquiry into the activities of the NRA seems rather curious, in view of the vast amount of information already at the disposal of Congress.

The late but not lamented Darrow board of inquiry was supposed to provide material which would serve as a guide to legislative revision and changes in administrative practice. In spite of the biased and intemperate character of its report, that body undoubtedly revealed the existence of certain abuses. But it was chiefly valuable for the opportunity which it gave to NRA officials to offer a defense of their practices. Both the charges and the rejoinders are, however, available as guides to legislators seeking light on the desirability of extending the present law either in its present or in a revised form.

In addition there has been a vast amount of uncoerced testimony from representatives of industry, labor and the general public, presented in hearings conducted by the recovery administration. That and the vast masses of explanatory, approving and hostile literature dealing with the subject of NRA provide superabundant material for congressmen seeking enlightment on the subject. If the Senate committee really wishes to learn what the NRA has accomplished, and in what respects it is deficient, it can do so without spending a great deal of time in inquisitorial probings intended either to discredit or to uphold the recovery administration.

Should the investigation be conducted with a view to acquainting Senators with the extraordinary complexity of the problems that confront the NRA, instead of furnishing ammunition for assaults upon certain aspects of the recovery program, it will serve a highly useful educational purpose. If, on the other hand, the inquiry is permitted to degenerate into a mere fault-finding expedition, it will not afford needed guidance for future action.

On the contrary, it is apt to do great harm by encouraging Congress to introduce into the recovery legislation hard-and-fast prohibitions aimed at specific abuses that can only be dealt with effectively under flexible laws giving adequate scope to administrative discretion.

Explanation Overdue.

The order of Secretary Ickes making a grant of PWA funds to New York City conditional upon the resignation of Robert W. Moses from his position as member of the Triborough Bridge Authority, or as park commissioner, has at last aroused former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to come to the defense of Mr. Moses. He also asks the reasons behind the order. Mr. Smith's request can hardly be ignored in view of his intimate knowledge of the excellent work done by his former Secretary of State in planning a coordinated system of parks for the metropolitan area.

So far Secretary Ickes has merely affirmed and reaffirmed his intention to withhold PWA allowances unless his order is obeyed. As the funds of the Triborough Bridge Authority are almost exhausted Mr. Smith has chosen a strategic moment to present his eminently reasonable request. The issue, however, does not concern New York City alone, even though the now famous Order 129 appears so far to have affected nobody except Mr. Moses.

If no satisfactory explanation of the effort to dislodge an able municipal official from the positions he occupies is forthcoming, and if the city administration should shamefully decide to sacrifice Mr. Moses to secure needed funds from the Federal authorities, Order No. 129 will become a most dangerous precedent. In the future it might easily be employed to justify Federal interference in the affairs of a municipality for any reason, or for no reason.

Consequently, if Secretary Ickes is desirous of avoiding suspicion of a desire to employ the power of the purse to interfere in the conduct of local self-government, he will change his mind about responding to Mr. Smith's challenge. If he gives no explanation the inevitable interpretation will be that his side of the case will not stand the light of public examination.

"Training Schools In Crime."

From the Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

Fagin's private tutoring school for young pickpockets and thieves always shocks readers of "Oliver Twist." It is easy to forget that practiced criminals and all contented victims of vices teach their tricks and their views of life to those who come in contact with them.

What would a central jail farm substitute for these antisocial lessons at public expense? It would provide a diagnostic and readjustment center. It would serve as a permanent custodial home for some, but for the great majority it would give an opportunity for medical treatment, work, both for its own physical and mental benefits and as training for self-support after leaving jail, and for psychiatric, educational, religious and recreational assistance. In other words, these active classes in work, health and community life would help combat not only the evil taught by jail companionship but the handicaps of past environment, health, idleness and failure.

Seek Free College.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the setting in of the economic crisis in 1929 conditions in the field of education have been steadily worse. It has become increasingly difficult for thousands upon thousands of students to obtain a higher education.

Those who formerly depended upon parents no longer in a position to put them through school; those who relied on either full or part-time jobs no longer available to them; those who never had the opportunity to use their earnings for purposes of education—those young people have the right to expect, nay, demand that their government, which could appropriate over a billion dollars for war purposes in the last year, furnish them with the means of acquiring a higher education.

In most large cities in the United States there are free colleges of one kind or another. Washington, too, could have such an institution if parent-teachers' associations, student clubs and civic organizations would cooperate toward this end.

The National Student League is initiating such a campaign through a questionnaire which is being circulated among students in high schools and colleges to determine how many of them are actually in need of such aid.

All organizations interested are requested to discuss the question and address all communications to the National Student League at 532 Seventeenth street northwest.

Communism In China.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post of February 23 carries a dispatch, bearing the (AP) mark, and dated February 22, from Ningtu, Southern Kiangsi Province, purporting to give the information that "the Soviet republic of Central China, until recently the strongest bulwark of Communism outside of Russia, has been crushed." The dispatch goes on carrying a lot of obviously colored details as to the situation in South China. This dispatch is a paraphrase of a somewhat longer dispatch from Ningtu dated January 27, credited to the Associated Press, and published in The Post January 28. Both dispatches line up closely with an earlier one under date of January 18.

Several of the earlier dispatches admitted that 200,000 Communists had invaded the great Province of Sze-chuan, north of the Yangtze River, and that Chiang Kai-shek was moving against them with all his forces. I have not seen a single line since that earlier date in confirmation of the claims that Chiang Kai-shek had carried out his boast that he was going to crush the Communist movement entirely. On the contrary, this military dictator of North China and of the Peiping central conservative government has been lingering around the capital city now for nearly a month trying to engineer a deal with the Japanese government for money, arms and equipment to combat forces too strong for him to overcome.

No Charity Proposition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Money is cheap, the papers tell us. Banks have been obliged to cut interest rates down as low as 3 per cent. The Government is lending through the Federal Reserve money at a similar rate.

I am a World War veteran and when the war was on I protected myself with a $10,000 insurance policy that the Government issued to me for an annual premium not a lot different from that charged by commercial concerns. A couple of years ago I got pressed for money and had to borrow on this insurance policy and ever since the Government has been charging me 6 per cent interest on the loan. My case is typical of thousands of war veterans.

If the Government can not secure more than 2 or 3 per cent for its other loans, and only receives a similar amount on issuance of its bonds, it seems to me Uncle Sam is charging war veterans too much interest on the loans of Government insurance policies. This is no charity proposition, as some of those against the bonus claim it is, but a business proposition. We pay adequately for our insurance and we should not be made to pay excessive interest rates on loans.

It seems to me that the Veterans' Bureau might get busy on this matter immediately, providing it really has the welfare of a class of war veterans who ask nothing but that their business affairs with the Government be regulated in accordance with interest rates of the day.

GEORGE MASON.

National Land Tax.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reference to the tinkering with the currency problem at Washington a recent suggestion that the motto on the coin of the realm be changed from "In God We Trust" to "We Hope That Our Redeemer Liveth," would seem to be very much in order.

With competent bankers all over the country stating that they know very little concerning the currency problem, and the Supreme Court almost exactly divided upon a most important phase of it, we can not view with complacency the solution of this problem by politicians who have made no real study of the matter.

When it is realized that under ordinary circumstances the bulk of the Nation's business is transacted by the use of drafts and checks based on personal credit, it will come to be understood that the money question has, perhaps, been magnified out of all proportion to its real importance as related to the industrial depression. Tolstoy has said that we are ready to do, everything for the poor man except get off his back.

In line with this idea, our legislators at Washington seem to be ready to do everything else excepting the one vital thing, namely, the untaxing of the American people who are now being taxed nearly to death and are threatened with still greater burdens. These legislators should understand that it is up to them to stop the leak in the ship of state instead of devoting all their energies to "bailing the boat."

It is time to call in for consultation graduates of the Thomas Jefferson school of democracy who would presumably recommend the abolition of all other taxes in favor of a national tax upon ground rent.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.
Wichita, Kans., Feb. 27.

The Other Side.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the various discussions noted in the newspapers with regard to increased cost of living, the viewpoint alone of Government employes has been stressed. There is another side to the question and, that is the position of those who make a living by keeping boarders.

Before the "cut" the average amount paid for room and board was between $40 and $45 per month. With the institution of the 15 per cent reduction in salaries Government workers demanded lower rates for room and board. In consequence, the average cost per month has dropped to from $30 to $35.

With a restoration of two-thirds of the "cut" and a promise of the original salaries within a short time, Government employes do not wish nor intend to pay more.

To add to the usual trials of those who keep boarders rents have increased and the cost of food is advancing daily. There must be an increase in the rates charged either through the formation of a protective union of those keeping boarders or by a great decrease in the number of the same due to the survival of the fittest.

It would be interesting to have the opinion of an authority as to just what proportion of a monthly salary should set aside for room and board. ENOCH STRONG.

Japan's Enjoyment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The alarming decrease of United States exports to Germany proves the boycott of German goods in this country a destructive game of colossal folly. An eye for an eye. Japan is enjoying the game from a seat in the grandstand. JOHN MEYERS.

Ideas First, Words Chase After

The British government's announcement that in the near future it intends to set up a national system of television has done more than make television front-page news. It has induced doubts about the English language.

These began with the word "television" itself. This term, it has been widely pointed out, is a hybrid of two foreign languages, Greek and Latin, masquerading together as English, a form of linguistic copartnership in deception which it is felt is really not done in the best literary circles.

Centuries ago the poet Marlowe declared there were some thoughts that could not be digested into words. But if they could have been so digested, the words would have been comprehensible to ordinary people. Today's difficulty is not quite the same. The speculations of modern discovery can, indeed, be accurately set down in words and symbols; but they are technical words and symbols that are incomprehensible to the average man.

Herein lies the hope that this state of affairs is only temporary. Technical terms have in time a way of working themselves into the texture of the language, and so of becoming familiar to ordinary people. The modern pace of discovery has been a little too fast for non-technical English to keep up with it. But sooner or later, English, enriched from these sources, will catch up; and all will be well again.

Eighteen score and five days ago, our fathers-in-journalism ordered forth in this space a new Column, conceived in a certain amount of liberty and rather dedicated to the proposition that all men (perhaps even all women) would be equally able to read it.

So, on March 2, 1934, was the Post-Impressionist born.

Now he is about to engage in a great celebration of his first columnar birthday, which, involving absence from his job, will test whether this Column, or any Column the birthday whereof is celebrated in like manner, can long endure.

He is walking out of the office to that celebration. He is going to observe the remaining portion of the day as a day of rest for himself—who has given a good many more hours than the NRA ought to allow that this Column might endure.

And he thinks that it is altogether fitting and proper that he should do so.

As, however, for the Column itself—to which he still cherishes some hope of returning on Monday—its birthday, though synchronous, he can not, in a larger sense, celebrate.

The efforts of those brave male (and fair female) contributors who have helped to fill it when the weary Post-Impressionist's brain boggled, or his fingers faltered, or his typewriter-ribbon snarled: those contributors have made this Column celebrated far beyond his poor power to add or detract.

He little notes (you may have guessed) nor long remembers (you may not have surmised) what he writes here.

But he can never forget what they wrote here—and he published for them.

Therefore does he himself here highly resolve upon a rededication:

Thanking each and every one of those contributors the mere mention of whose names would overflow to the Page Opposite—and keep the Post-Impressionist tapping the keys until it was too late to celebrate anything at all—he now invites them to send in more material than ever.

He promises to see that, in future, no one—well, almost none, anyway—of their contributions shall be made in vain.

In short, he asks them to do for him every bit of his work which it is intellectually possible for them to do, in order that a Column of the people, for the people, may also be by the people—and in order that the Columnist may not perish from mere worth.

Munitions Control In France.

Following are excerpts from recent remarks of M. Flandin, president of the Council, as reported in Le Temps.

It is very difficult to distinguish between industries of war and industries of times of peace. How can we know whether the cloth manufactured by a certain factory is destined for the normal needs of the people, or to cover certain airplanes?

I am the first to believe that, if the world could be wise enough to turn aside these profits from the daily life of the people, we should run and could run fewer risks in the future. But were it brought about only in France, in French industry, this means does not seem to me to be just.

At the present time, if France is led, in spite of herself, to make a new effort toward national defense, this does not mean that she has not made every effort in the past toward the limitation of armaments.

But what it is not in our power to control is that a great power, of which we have known three invasions in one century, is buying material for war at the cost of 60 to 100 millions of francs a month. We are obliged, alas, to count first upon ourselves for our security.

We shall neglect nothing that this organization of peace which is carried on at Geneva may remain the future of international relations. We shall continue to work at this task. But at the same time, we must take into account realities, and it is for this reason that we demand credits which will be the shield of our country against external risks.

Opinion remains with us unanimously and passionately attached to peace. It puts its hopes in the good sense of the peoples, who must realize that war never pays, and that it will pay less than ever tomorrow. But it requires also that, in a question like that of national defense, all Frenchmen be united to avoid tomorrow the catastrophes of yesterday.

Geneva Apprehensive As Saar Joins Reich

By Stephan Botchev.
Special Correspondence of The Post.
Geneva, Feb. 23 (By Mail.)

WITH the settlement of technical questions relating to the return of the Saar to Germany, the last contingents of the international police force will have left the territory the first of March, and on that day the Saarlanders will wake up within the Reich. As this question draws to a close, attention in Geneva is turning away from its final phases to consider what will happen afterward. What will be Germany's next move toward the realization of her other territorial claims, Danzig, Memel, Austria? In Germany these three problems became the subject of a certain agitation on the very morrow of the plebiscite, and in direct connection with it. For the idea has been launched of extending this same plebiscite procedure to other regions, including the three mentioned.

There were those who thought, or rather made a pretense of thinking, that once the Saar question was settled favorably to Germany, there would be an end of other German territorial claims, that by some mysterious process, these would fall into oblivion. It seems superfluous to enlarge on the inaccuracy of this idea; for Germany, the great success in the Saar is only a beginning, a brilliant start toward the destruction of the Versailles map of Europe.

Thus, as the Saar returns in triumph to Germany, those other claims become more vigorous than ever. The question before Germany as to Memel, Danzig and Austria is not the existence of the claim, but what the action is to be. There has been much discussion as to the authenticity of an alleged speech of Herr Doktor Goebbels, the text of which was published in certain French and Italian newspapers around the first of February.

In this speech Dr. Goebbels is said to have referred to the political period to follow the victory in the Saar as a period in which Germany should open a systematic and persistent campaign against the territorial status quo imposed upon Germany by the treaty. According to the papers which affirm the authenticity of the text, Dr. Goebbels enumerated the three claims, Austria, Danzig and Memel, and indicated the last-mentioned as the next objective of German territorial policy.

AS a matter of fact it makes no great difference whether this speech was actually made or not. Whether or not the text published was authentic, it expresses adequately the state of mind in Germany on this subject. The question presents itself in various aspects: is the time ripe? Are circumstances favorable? And if so, where, and above all, how is action to begin? The question of method is certainly the most interesting and at the same time the most difficult side of the problem.

After the plebiscite there began talk here and there of other plebiscites—Danzig, Memel, even Eupen-Malmedy, to say nothing of Austria! Since then one hears more and more of this possibility, especially in regard to Danzig, where a campaign toward that end seems to be in formation, if one accepts the reports in the Polish press, especially the Illustrowany Kurier Codzienny. As for the German press, there is mention of the possibility of a plebiscite in the Memel district, and it is said that one of the conditions which Germany sets to her adhesion to a guarantee for Austria is the admission of the possibility of a plebiscite in that country.

It is easy to talk of a plebiscite and to protest loudly in its favor, but it will be difficult, if not impossible, to attain. For it will be remembered that each of these three regions has a special international status. The first, the free city of Danzig, has a government subject to the supervision of the league, and the constitution of the free city is guaranteed by the league. Austria has a curious position, for she herself signed, in 1922, a protocol in which she undertakes to abstain from any action tending to alienate her own independence. As will be recalled, it was on the basis of this protocol that the Permanent Court of International Justice condemned the Austro-German customs union announced by the two countries in the spring of 1931. As to Memel, its form of government is fixed in an international convention of 1924, which gives organs of the League of Nations power to appoint certain important officials in the Memel district.

OF THE three regions, only in Danzig do Germans faithful to the Reich hold the power. At Memel, where the governing body is a directory, the German Volkspartei refused to participate in politics under the conditions of inferiority proposed by the Lithuanian parties, and it is therefore the latter who are in power. As for Austria, the very last thing of which the Federal Chancellor Schuschnigg and his government dream is a plebiscite on the question of "Einschaltung," the joining of Austria to the Reich.

Thus, as a result of the particular circumstances of an international character surrounding all three regions and also, in Memel and Austria, from the point of view of internal politics, it is really difficult to see how, by regular methods, the plebiscites of which there is so much talk could be effected. Certainly, conditions in Danzig seem the most favorable of the three. Not only is the vast majority of the population German, but the Senate of the Free City is pro-Hitlerite. The president of the senate, Herr Greiser, who is the head of the Danzig government, is a confirmed national Socialist; he is strongly in favor of the idea of a plebiscite and, as he has declared to this correspondent, "All that the Germans of Danzig ask is return to the Reich."

• • • •

BUT, although the internal situation at Danzig would facilitate a plebiscite, the international aspect is anything but favorable. To be precise, if the senate of Danzig wanted to organize a plebiscite, the affair would immediately be brought by the league's high commissioner in Danzig to the attention of the league's council. Needless to say, it is inconceivable that the council should give any such project its benediction!

But there is another possibility—what if the Danzig senate, exceeding its powers, went on regardless of the council toward the accomplishment of its plan. It would then become a question of forcing the Free City to respect the council's decision, and immediately the situation would acquire exceedingly dangerous complications.

Thus at the moment when the gates of the Reich close on the Saar and the question passes from politics into history, there is at Geneva, along with a general sigh of relief, a new center of attention, the disturbing rumors that Herr Hitler contemplates further tasks for the specialists of the excellent plebiscite commission.

Right's Force Before Wrong Pulpit Theme

Bible Narrations by Dr. Miller Continue in Christian Church.

"When Right Disarms Wrong" is the topic of the 10:50 a. m. sermon tomorrow by the Rev. Raphael H. Miller, pastor of the National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle.

Continuing his evening sermons with narrations of familiar Bible stories, Dr. Miller has selected for his sermon subject "The Girl Who Risked a Throne for an Ideal."

The H Street Christian Church, Sixth and H streets southwest. The Rev. C. N. Williams, pastor.

Bible school will meet at 9:45 a. m. At 11 a. m. the Lord's Supper will be observed and the pastor will preach on "The Story Ever New."

Along The Potomac

With Carlisle Bargeron

Hapless Mr. Ickes.

WITH so many things to occupy our minds of recent—the gold decision, the lower courts bowling over some of the Administration's best plans and whatnot — we have entirely lost sight of Mr. Ickes. We have forgotten about him at a time when he is very likely going through the most nerve - racking period of his Washington career.

BARGERON.

What brings him back to my attention, in fact, are his little statements saying his funds are being exhausted. There have been a series of these little things with the plaintive note becoming more pronounced in each one. First, there was a little statement, as if simply to serve as a reminder, that the PWA was giving the FERA funds because the $5,000,000,000 works bill was tied up. Then a few days later came another little statement, more emphatic in its plaintiveness, saying some more money had been given given to the FERA because the works bill was still tied up. There have followed in order statements relating the necessity of curtailing certain PWA activities because of having to give the FERA money. I believe the Housing Administration, for one thing, had to slow down.

• • • •

There was the suggestion a day or so ago that lack of funds would prevent the completion of some projects already started. The point is the statements are getting bolder and bolder. I expect any time for Mr. Ickes to break out with a loud wail and say the country is headed right to the dogs if the works bill isn't quickly passed.

Outwardly, at least, Mr. Ickes seems to be worried about the fate of the bill more than Mr. Roosevelt. It apparently hasn't cost the latter any loss of sleep. The frequent little statements show a growing and almost pathetic concern on the part of Mr. Ickes.

• • • •

When one looks at the whole story the pathos is accentuated. More alternating emotions could hardly be crowded into such a short space than Mr. Ickes has experienced since this works bill first began to be discussed. When it first came up he had the right, of course, to assume he would administer it, at least, the major portion of it, and no one could have been more active in running around digging up little ways in which the money could be spent.

Then there came talk he would have nothing at all to do with it. The House, in fact, before passing the bill demanded and was given assurances he would have nothing to do with it. Those who talked with Mr. Ickes about this time got the impression there was nothing he had less concern in than the works bill.

• • • •

When he appeared before the Senate committee his listlessness touched the senators' hearts. When one or two senators suggested informally that it seemed a shame not to let a man administer the bill who had an organization already set up, he leaned forward in his chair and showed the most animation he had shown in weeks.

So accommodating was he to the senators, such a willingness did he show to try to tell them how some of the money might conceivably be spent, that the senators decided they would insist he have to do with the administration of the bill. Mr. Ickes was now his old up and going self.

Now you can imagine how he must feel when after going through all this and apparently coming out on top the possibility should arise that there will be no works bill after all.

• • • •

It's enough to make a strong man sick of heart. Gosh, here is defeat, success and defeat again crammed right on top of one another within the period of a few weeks. It's more than we should expect Mr. Ickes to bear. Personally, I don't. I expect at most any time a statement from him confessing that all of the projects started under the original $5,000,000,000 are incompleted and up in the air, that there simply must be the $5,000,000,000 to finish them.

Books Of 1919

By
Wm. Lyon Phelps

IT IS often either absurd or disheartening, or both, to look back a dozen years or so, and see the titles of books that had just appeared, read the praises of the book-reviewers, and then make the observation that every one of these important books is totally forgotten.

Well, five minutes ago I happened to find an article I had written for the Yale Alumni Weekly of December 19, 1919, on recent books that seemed to me important; and I am honestly amazed to find that most of them really were and are. It encourages me considerably.

• • • •

Here are the 14 points I made:

"The Education of Henry Adams," and the fact that it became a best-seller has not ceased to arouse wonder.

"Reynard the Fox," by John Masefield. Surely one of the best long poems he ever wrote.

"Free Air," by Sinclair Lewis. This came one year before "Main Street" astounding the world. I called it a delightful novel, told in the vernacular of the twentieth century.

"Songs of the Cowboy and Cattle Trail," by John A. Lomax. This has become a classic. "Including Horace," by Louis Untermeyer. These are some of the best parodies ever written in America.

"The Arrow of Gold," by Joseph Conrad. I said, "The heroine is unlike the modern debutante, which is a little unfair to those who read our popular magazines."

"Eminent Victorians," by Lytton Strachey, who is gone but not forgotten.

"The Roll Call," by Arnold Bennett. This contains the best description of musical comedy I have ever seen.

"A Daughter of the Land," by Gene Stratton Porter. If she could always have written novels as good as this, she would have had fame as well as popularity.

"The Plays of J. M. Barrie." He was the last of modern playwrights to publish his plays.

"The History of Henry Fielding," by Wilbur Cross. A work that immediately took its place as the best book ever written on the great novelist, and which will have to be consulted by all future writers on him.

"The Moral Basis of Democracy," by President Arthur T. Hadley. Addresses to students.

Britain Concentrates On Slum Elimination

Private Enterprise Proves Unequal To Housing Needs Of Workers.

By Frank Darvall.
Special Correspondence of The Post.
London.

THE present British government, though it has been more cautious and economical in the matter of housing, as in other matters, than opposing parties and a large section of the public would have wished, can not be accused of having been unwillingly and tardily pushed into its present activity in the matter. It is nearly 18 months since it announced its great slum clearance campaign, which is intended within five years to remove from the face of Britain every block of buildings now officially classed as a slum. It is several months since it foreshadowed a similar move against overcrowded houses, many of which are actually, though not technically, slums. Throughout this period it has encouraged local authorities and private enterprise to prepare for these tasks, and also to take advantage of the unusually cheap and plentiful money recently available to solvent borrowers.

Indeed, it is largely because of the existence of this volume of cheap money, and in order to encourage private enterprise to take advantage of it, and supply itself the nation's housing need, that the national government held its own hand in the matter of housing and announced the withdrawal of the subsidies available under former acts of parliaments (particularly labor acts, the Wheatley, 1924, and Greenwood, 1930, housing measures), believing that these latter had actually operated to force up the price of housebuilding.

The government had also, of course, during its earlier years of office, the feeling that it must economize in every direction, including housing, and it still has the conservative view that state expenditure, even on valuable social amenities such as good housing, is not a safe or successful method of climbing out of a depression.

• • • •

SUCH stringent economy is, however, no longer thought to be vital, there having definitely been a steady upturn in trade (except international), since the winter of 1932-33. And in the absence of an expanding foreign market, and with general capital expenditure to some extent still hanging fire, the stimulus to internal trade, and to the heavy industries, which great building activity might set in motion, is regarded even by the government as worth attempting.

The government has, moreover, having given private enterprise two years to shoulder the burden, and having seen that, at least in respect of cheap houses to let, it was only very partially doing so, come at length to the conclusion that private enterprise alone never will solve this particular problem.

For more than a year now a slum clearance program, financed in part by government subsidies, has been under way. Every local authority has been compelled by the Ministry of health to survey its area, to determine the number of houses which must be classed as slums, and to present a program for pulling these down and replacing them with fit houses and (or) flats, within five years. It has been estimated that 280,000 houses must be destroyed, or reconditioned, and 1,250,000 people rehoused between September, 1933, and September, 1938.

UNFORTUNATELY so far the actual fulfillment of this program has been falling behind schedule. In the first 11 months only 12,789, or about 25 per cent of the scheduled number of houses needing to be replaced in each 11 months of the five-year period, have in fact been cleared and rebuilt. Even as late as August, 1934, nearly a year after the campaign had been officially launched, only 1,683 slum houses a month were being replaced, as against a needed monthly average of about 4,800. It is hoped, however, that the rate of replacement will progressively increase as the five-year period continues.

Now that plans have definitely been made, and work started on this abolition of the worst slums, the government has felt free to turn to the hardly less urgent problem of overcrowding, an evil which soon turns even good houses into slums. On Thursday, January 17, 1935, a bill was announced to deal with this matter also.

A national standard of overcrowding is to be established. In general this is to provide that the number of occupants of any house or flat be small enough to allow the proper separation of sexes, apart from husband, wife, and children under 10. Subject to this the following number of persons, and no more, will be permitted to inhabit any house or flat, two in a one-room dwelling, three in two rooms, five in three rooms, seven and one-half in four rooms, ten in five rooms, and an additional two persons above ten for each additional room above five. Rooms to count in this connection must contain at least a defined minimum cubic capacity. Children under 10 are to count as half a person, children under 1 to be ignored.

The prohibition of overcrowding is to be enforced on occupier, owner and local authority when adequate, alternative accommodation is available for displaced families.

THE provision of such accommodation will involve a vast building program. It will be the duty of each local authority to set in hand the necessary measures without delay. They have first to survey their districts and to report to the minister of health. The latter will set each authority a time limit for the submission of its report and for the completion of its resulting program.

To help them to fulfill their new responsibilities the local authorities are to be given new powers for the compulsory purchase, and the complete replanning, of central areas needed for the erection of this alternative accommodation. Generous exchequer grants are also to be available, at the rate of not more than £6 per flat or house per annum for a period of 40 years, subject to the provision of at least half as large an annual appropriation from the local rates.

To help poorer tenants all subsidies, new and old, are to be pooled, an economic rent apart from subsidy being assessed on all houses or flats, and charged to tenants who can afford it, and the subsidy pool is to be used to reduce this economic rent to poorer tenants.

The chief purpose of the whole program, to provide adequate housing for the wage earners at rents of not more than 11 shillings per week, should thus be realizable.

• • • •

TO ASSIST the ministry of health in this matter a housing advisory council is to be created. To help the local authorities local house management commissioners and officers may be created.

To prevent undue hardship being inflicted on private landlords who have tried to provide good housing, and to keep their houses in good condition, more ample compensation is to be given to such owners of demolished, or certified property, as can prove themselves deserving of it.

It is impossible as yet to say how many houses or flats will be planned under this scheme, or how rapidly it will proceed. It is, therefore, impossible to say exactly how much it will cost the nation, or how soon it will succeed in removing from it the running sore of bad and insufficient housing. It is clearly the most ambitious attempt yet made in Britain to tackle such a social evil. And it involves two embarrassing admissions, that wages under existing conditions are two low for poorer workers to afford adequate housing without state aid, and that private enterprise is unequal to the task of providing Britain with one of her most essential needs, adequate shelter for all her people.

What Religion Means to Me

By William Millan.

President of the Washington Sunday School Association.

"You are writing a gospel, a chapter a day,
By the things that you do and the words that you say;
Men read what you write, whether faithless or true.
Say! What is the gospel accordnig to you?"

In that branch of the church with which the writer of this article is connected it was the practice, formerly, to hold what were called "experience meetings." Generally they have gone out of fashion.

In such meetings those who spoke were supposed to lay bare their inmost thoughts; to explore and lay open the deepest recesses of their spiritual experiences and thinking. They seldom did.

This failure was not due so much to lack of sincerity or lack of an honest effort to be definite and exact, as to an inherent reluctance to expose and make public thoughts, feelings, emotions and aspirations that are intimate and personal. The result, usually, was a resort to conventional generalities. I find it difficult to resist that tendency.

My religion is something that is to me very vital and real which I very consciously feel in my daily life, but which I can not easily or accurately describe.

In my daily life my religion means this to me:

1. It is the thing that stands first. It would be easy to prove by my neighbors and close associates that my life lacks a great deal of being the ideal Christian life. The fault is not with religion; it is with me. My omissions and failures of today do not cause me to lose fath in it nor prevent me from trying to do better tomorrow.

2. It enables me to face tomorrow with confidence and without fear and, particularly, in these troublous times, to say "Sufficient for the day is the evil thereof."

3. It takes me to some study each day, much or little, according to circumstances, of the Bible, the storehouse of the world's best literature and a guide to life that is neither old nor outworn.

4. It keeps before me certain great Bible texts—enough of them to regulate conduct in every relation of life—and encourages me to keep on striving to attain to the standards of those texts.

It may be that, so far as membership of churches and participation in their operations and worship is concerned, many are falling out of ranks or wholly failing to enlist. That does not mean that religion is fading out of their lives. They are simply failing to participate in certain activities of religon.

I answer the queston, "How do you think religion should stand in a business man's everyday life?" by saying it should stand first and control all his thought and action and following with the assertion that if he puts it first his chances for material success will be best.

THREE MEN AND
KATHLEEN NORRIS
Three men—solid, red-headed Peter, who was studying law and worshiped Diana across the dining table of her grandmother's boarding house. Neal, with his irresistible charm, who had played "Young Woodley" in stock and had Hollywood ambitions. And finally, Bruce Palmer—wealthy, cosmopolitan, the perfect gentleman. With which of these will Diana find happiness?

What Today Means

"Pisces."

IF MARCH 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. and from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.

Do not let the holiday spirit of Saturday cause you to do anything which you know is indiscreet. You will display wisdom if you do not take promises, made on the spur of the moment, too literally, for disappointment may result through the inability of the person to live up to them.

A friend may try to argue you into doing something you do not wish to, and you will probably have reason to rejoice if you are firm in your refusal. At any social gathering do your share to be entertaining, and help make the party a success.

Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have just about reached a perfect understanding, will show tactful judgment if they forego throwing cold water on any enthusiastic proposal made regarding something for their mutual pleasure.

If a woman, and March 2 is your birthday, do not let your love for literature, lectures and other means of gaining knowledge, cause you to ignore the claims your family and friends have for some of your personal attention. Learn that there is a time to play, just as there should be a certain amount of time set aside for work or study.

Marriage should help you in many ways, especially in the way of helping you to be happier, as well as contented. Should you seek a business connection; real estate and insurance brokerage, tea room management, teaching, or work of a demonstrative order, may prove advantageous from a financial viewpoint.

If a man, and March 2 is your natal day, regardless of what your natural inclination might be, you will be wise to force yourself to mix with people, and to take an active interest in current events. Printing, commercial advertising, publicity work, as well as acting as an industrial sales engineer, may offer you the right field in which to labor.

Jane Bartleman's Sheraton Bureau Antedates the Revolution.

By Virginia Lee Warren.

WASHINGTON gained one of its finest collections of American antiques this winter when Jane Bartleman, writer of children's stories, packed the family heirlooms and brought them from the old Bartleman home in Bethlehem, Pa., to the Capital.

Now, in old-fashioned, high-ceilinged rooms at 1711 I street northwest, a Sheraton bureau the Bartlemans acquired before the revolution, an ancient iron coffee roaster which looks like something between a corn popper and an uprooted lamp post, a Hepplewhite highboy of butternut wood, and literally hundreds of other precious old things are jumbled together.

And about the only bit of furniture in the apartment in I street that isn't at least 100 years old is a low-slung wicker chair Miss Bartleman had in her rooms at Oxford when she studied English there several years ago.

Able to Avoid Bridge.

Having a houseful of antiques simplifies one's social life wondrously, according to Miss Bartleman. She never needs to drag out bridge tables or parlor games to entertain her guests. The minute somebody sits on a chair Miss Bartleman can give him a complete history of it. When someone chances to pick up a quaint little object Jane Bartleman can reel off a story that makes the little object seem exciting and alive.

There's the rattler of a rattlesnake upon which Jane's grandmother cut her teeth; seems that all the best families of that day had a rattler for infants to chew upon. Then there's the handmade corset of heavy handwoven cotton which Jane's great-great grandmother wore when she marched in George Washington's funeral cortege at Allentown. Down the front of the basque-shaped corset is a board. Not a piece of whale bone, but an actual board!

Miss Bartleman considers one of her most interesting possessions a miniature newspaper, the last issue of the Daily Citizen of Vicksburg, Miss., dated Thursday, July 2, 1863. The editor of the little paper tried to hearten the war-weary Confederates by printing fiery stories in which the casualties of the Union Army were probably magnified at least five times their actual number. The poverty of the South at that time was proved by the little newspaper which was printed on the back of wallpaper.

American history is more than a printed chronicle of events to Jane Bartleman. Members of her family were actually present at every important event; they knew all the famous figures that have become almost legendary to most young people of today. Her grandmother danced with Lafayette. Her father was a close friend of Edgar Allén Poe.

Jane herself is the seventh generation of the family to live on a land grant from William Penn situated at Bethlehem. Most of the fine Bartleman furniture was made from wood grown on the Bartleman place.

In addition to her American treasures Miss Bartleman has some rare Chinese rugs, an exquisite India shawl and a Paisley shawl. The rugs, at least 700 years old, were bought by her father while the Boxer Rebellion was raging in China. One is the precious imperial design, meant to be looked upon only by emperors.

Shawl Conjures Up Tragedy.

The Paisley shawl is a reminder of a tragic episode in the Bartleman family. The day her grandmother, then a lively young woman, received the Paisley as a gift from her husband, she went to call upon some friends. While she was draping the beautiful shawl about her so it could be properly admired, word was brought to her that her husband had been killed by his favorite horse.

Jane's grandmother never wore the shawl again. It was kept, however, and when Jane was born years later she was wrapped in the Paisley in keeping with an ancient custom.

In spite of the tragic associations some of the antiques possess, it's grand to live among old things that have belonged to your people for generations, Miss Bartleman said yesterday. She isn't troubled with persons trying to buy them. Everyone, it seems, learned long ago that Jane Bartleman's things aren't for sale. She never has time to worry about any of them being stolen. Besides, they are heavily insured.

About the only time she's been worried over the precious pieces of furniture was a few weeks ago when she invited sports writers of the Capital to meet a visiting athlete.

"When I saw those big husky men leaning back in my spindly little chairs I couldn't help wincing," laughed Jane Bartleman. "I gradually shooed them over to the sofa. It's almost as old as the chairs. But it's a lot stronger."

Ambitions Ranging From Knitting to Flying Are Voiced by Camp Fire Girls at Rally Here

First Lady Will Escort Group Through the White House.

LANDING in the Nation's Capital for the first time, seeing Congress in action and meeting the First Lady. That should be thrill enough to last the lifetime of an ordinary American girl. But it isn't the end of ambition for the 25 Camp Fire Girls who arrived yesterday from the four corners of the country to hold a two-day citizenship rally at the Mayflower Hotel.

The delegates, averaging 16 years of age, and selected from the torch-bearer (highest honor) class in Camp Firedom, aspire to be everything from champion knitters to crack aviation pilots.

"I'd like to be a dietary director for a group of Government nursery schools," declared wide-eyed, smiling Mary Frances McCarthy, high school student and Camp Fire torch-bearer from Visitation Convent, St. Paul, Minn. And if her past record means anything, Mary Frances should be in a fair way of getting what she wants. She won her Camp Fire medal in leadership, having acted for the last nine months as assistant guardian of her troop.

"A renowned anthropologist or the champion skiier of the world," is the way Leah Hayward, from the University of Washington at Seattle, stated her twofold ambition.

"I'd like to be leading lady in the first television dramatic stock company," declared pretty, blue-eyed Phyllis Wermuth, senior at the Immaculata High School in Chicago. Phyllis, who has her heart set on the stage, has played leads in several school plays.

The honor of having her prize-winning collection of trees (big trees, too, mind you), plants and seeds exhibited at the World's Fair, has not in the least influenced the future ambitions of Jean Bohnen, senior at the University of Chicago High School. In spite of it, Jean wants to be a lawyer.

Piloting a mail plane would suit Janice Huchins, high school senior from Des Moines, Iowa, for a career.

Plant experimentation in the Government laboratories would fulfill the ambitions of Carol Irving, of the Lewis and Clark High School form Spokane, Wash., and Edith Tallman, high school senior of Providence, R. I. Edith has received several awards for her experimental work from the Rogers Williams Park Museum. Carol has been honored for her outstanding wild flower collections at the national hobby show.

"I would like to sketch for a medical technician," declared attractive Helen Carkin, high school senior of St. Paul, who has won camp fire awards for her skill in handicraft, modeling and painting.

The highlight of the Camp Fire Girls' stay will be their visit to the White House at 11 o'clock today. Mrs. Roosevelt will receive them and act as their personal guide through the various rooms. Yesterday afternoon they attended Congress, escorted by Mrs. Arthur Vandenburg, wife of the Michigan Senator.

SHADOWS in PARADISE

By INEZ WALLACE

THROUGH the dullness that follows a sleeping powder, my telephone was ringing. No, it was the doorbell.

Over the banister I could hear Lawson's voice and someone who sounded remarkably like Jim Nelson. Then they were both in my room and Lawson was talking in his low, even tone.

"Take it easy, now, Helen, and don't get excited. Jim and I've had a tough night and we can't stand any more. I guess you know that Ralph Nome started to leave town last night——"

"Started?" The word stuck in my throat.

"Yes, they never reached the airport. Some complication at the last minute about his leaving the hotel—got going too late—tried to make it—a collision with another car."

"Is he——?"

"No, not that. But it's pretty bad, Jim and I've been at the hospital all night. Mrs. Nome died before they could get her there—never knew what happened. Ralph's unconscious but every so often he comes to for a minute and yells his head off for you. You dress now, honey, quick as you can—just a blouse and skirt. We're taking you over there. If anything happens—well, you know we've got to give him a break. Folks that are hurt bad always get everything they want. So there's no regrets afterward, just in case."

With a tweed skirt over my riding shirt, I pulled on a beret and was ready, almost before they got downstairs.

Around 7 o'clock Ralph started to moan and the nurse called me over to his bed. He opened his eyes for a minute and recognized me, but all he said was, "It almost was heaven, sweet." Then he was gone again and she took me away.

Jim Knew All.

When the doctor came around at 8 he sent us all home. Lawson came to my house for breakfast, but we dropped Jim at the club because he had to go to work. As he got out of the car he said, taking hold of my hand: "Lawson's told me everything, Helen, at various times during the night. I just want you to know that anything you want to do will be jake with me."

I said, "Thanks," not having the foggiest idea of whether he meant Lawson had told him about Ralph or the baby, and afraid to say anything for fear it would be wrong. But as the car started again:

"You didn't tell Jim about the baby, Lawson?"

"Yes, I've told him. This thing's getting too thick. He'll have to know sooner or later and this is a show-down, right now. You may as well get it all settled at once. I've always known you couldn't keep that baby hidden forever. Jim's wedding isn't far off now and it's considered a safe bet if you're going to spring any unknown babies to bring them in before a wedding and not after it. I'm not at all sure, Helen, that Ralph will get well. The whole thing's a muddle and all we can do is let it untangle itself. I only hope I can stay out of an asylum till we get it straight. In the meantime tell your cook to fix plenty of bacon and eggs and black coffee. I'm starved."

During the next few weeks all I could think of was a book I had read, "Roads of Destiny," where each one found himself doing what fate decreed—and in no case was it what any of us had intended. Ralph Nome still lay in the hospital, suffering from a broken left arm, minor bruises and a bad case of shock.

"Maid of Lyons" was a smashing success. Coming at the time of Jim's divorce from me and with talk of his approaching wedding, everything was swell for the newspaper critics.

Lawson, in spite of my protests, had started on a new production and his theory that hard work will cure anything was in a fashion proving true. Driving around to see the baby every morning on the way to the studio, working every day, and then to the hospital at night, made a schedule that would wear out any woman. But it wasn't the work which caused me to lose weight at an alarming degree. It was the worry. How was I to tell Ralph Nome, who thought he knew "the secrets of my innermost soul," that I had a baby over a year old?

The answer to this, like my other problems, was suddenly taken out of my control when Lawson informed me that we couldn't "fake" the New York stuff and we must leave next day for the East to finish the picture.

Off to New York.

I don't know what I expected of New York City, but whatever it was, it didn't materialize. Rain and cloudy days held up our schedule till Lawson was "fit to be tied," and the theaters and shops so intriguing from the other side of the continent, didn't seem to interest me.

We were at the office building and in a packed elevator. Over the sea of fedoras I recognized a cameraman who used to work for us. From his conversation with Lawson, he had evidently just come in from the coast.

I heard Lawson say, "How's everything in the City of Lost Angels?"

"Fine. Ralph Nome's back on the job, knocking 'em cold with his arm in a sling. Pretty good, eh, when you can slay 'em with one arm tied behind you? Too bad about his wife, but I guess he won't be in circulation long if this popularity keeps up. Helen Burn's better be getting back to the West Coast if she still wants her handsome hero——"

"Shut up, you sap; she's right behind you."

Nothing went right the rest of that day, and when Ralph called that night an uncontrollable coolness had crept into my conversation. He was calling me every night, yes. But he had called his wife every night in New York, too—almost putting me out of his arms to do so. How could I know this wasn't some more of the same?

Dining the next night with Lawson, I told him of my fears.

"Don't start crossing bridges," he advised. "That cameraman's a fool. He likes to hear the sound of his own voice. You know how gossipy Hollywood is. It's natural Ralph would be a hit again. Why not? He was a moneymaker before, and now, with 'Evening Song' behind him—well, use your head! And for heaven's sake stop worrying! It's time enough for that when he stops calling you."

Ralph Came Calling.

Well, as Lawson said, maybe I was worrying needlessly. Ralph had never really asked me to marry him. Perhaps, with this new freedom, he never would. Men often think they want a woman till she is actually available——

I wondered if he would come out the first night I was home—without being invited. We kept the time of our arrival secret and phoned him only when we were unpacked. That was about 6 o'clock and both Lawson and Vera were there. At 9, promptly after the dinner show, Ralph walked into my living room—the same carefree swagger, the same twisted smile. I wanted to dash over and throw my arms around him, but I got a nice tight grip on the library table with my hand behind me and just said, "Hello, Ralph."

"Hello, sweet—how's my child?" and kissed me just like nothing had ever happened, no tragedy, no separation.

"Hey, sweet, what's the matter with you? Unlax. You're home. You're among friends. If this is what New York does to you, no more sprees with that Lawson man——"

Jim Came, Too.

"Sprees?" from Lawson. "You mean nightmares, don't you? I'm cured of Eastern exteriors. From now on we shoot right here in sunny California—if I have to build all the sets myself."

Vera was smoking like a chimney in the corner and saying nothing and Ralph was deep in the explanation of a new song hit, when Perkins announced Jim Nelson.

"Hello, folks," Jim said, quietly, including all of us in his greeting, "Guess I'm a little premature, Helen, with this call. Just heard you were home."

"Not at all, Jim. Come on in."

"Well, I'll tell you. I did want to talk to you but it can wait—it's sort of a business thing and daytime probably would be better. You're so darn hard to reach, though. I'll see you tomorrow——"

"Just a minute, Nelson," Ralph spoke up so suddenly it scared me. "You needn't run off. We'll go. There's only one thing. If you're going to talk about Lamb Pie, I'd like to stay."

Child Chats

By Alice Fox Pitts.

AS WE GROW older and life holds fewer thrills, we are likely to forget the things that lent inspiration to us in our younger days. But stop a moment and consider the stories, the heroes, the tales of achievement that inspired you in your childhood, and you will realize the importance of such influences on youthful lives.

It may take the form of a book, "Lives of Great Americans," that will catch the child's fancy. It may be a lecture by an intrepid adventurer. It may be a visit to some celebrity whom you have the opportunity of meeting in person. There is no telling just what will pique the interest or fire the ambition of any particular youngster. But there's always something. Give him enough opportunities and he will stumble on one that holds him spellbound. The effect of such impressions is indelible and far-reaching.

Political Field Beckons Women, Legislator Says

There is no such thing as a "masculine" or "feminine viewpoint," declares Mrs. Gladys Berger Stewart, only woman member of the Missouri Legislature.

Feminine Lawmaker of Missouri Says Prejudice Is Disappearing.

THE HIGHEST compliment a man can pay a woman, in recognition of her successful career, is to say, "She has a masculine mind," or a "man's point of view."

"Yet to imply men and women have different types of intelligence and viewpoints is ridiculous." An attractive woman who has already won an enviable place in the political and professional life of her State was speaking.

She was Mrs. Gladys Berger Stewart, now in Washington representing the Missouri Legislature at the Interstate Assembly at the Mayflower Hotel.

Yesterday between committee meetings, she told of her experiences in the two campaigns she has made in an Ozark district of Missouri. To begin with, she frankly admitted she had encountered some discrimination against her because she was a woman.

Prejudice Still Exists, She Says.

"In the light of what women have accomplished in public life, it seems unbelievable such prejudice still exists," she said. "But it does. I have had a number of men tell me quite frankly they were going to vote against me simply because they thought a man should have the job. I noticed much less evidence of this in my last campaign, however. I believe, in fact, the prejudice against women's holding public office is less than it was two years ago."

Elected to the Missouri House of Representatives last term, Mrs. Stewart won over an opponent who defeated her in the previous election by only one vote.

"Both campaigns were packed with incidents I shall never forget," she said. "And both were enjoyable although each entailed many hardships. I drove my own car to every township in those five counties, and you have to know how bad roads can be in the Ozarks to appreciate what that means," she laughed, her dark eyes twinkling.

Spoke Eight Times a Day.

"Sometimes I spoke as many as eight times in one day," she went on, "and often at the same meeting where my opponent spoke."

In this connection she mentioned that a woman who runs for office in Missouri is still something of a trail blazer, since many women, particularly in her section, have not been interested in politics. She is convinced, however, a number of women who formerly never thought of going to the polls are now becoming "political minded," and are as interested in elections as their husbands.

"Which is certainly the way it should be," said Mrs. Stewart. "I have little patience with women who sit back and express their citizenship and their patriotism solely through their husbands."

Mrs. Stewart is convinced, also, that the traditional prejudice against women in public life is fast disappearing, and she believes women have more opportunities in the professional world than ever before.

Has Practiced Law.

The only woman member of the Missouri Legislature, Mrs. Stewart has taken an active interest in State and national politics, having been a delegate to each national Republican conventon since she has been old enough to vote. Yet her activity has not been confined exclusively to politics, for she has practiced law for six years and has been assistant United States attorney in Kansas City. Last year she was special circuit judge, the only woman in Missouri ever to sit on the bench.

But despite her political and professional career, Mrs. Stewart (who might well pass for a college girl) is not "all business." She is an accomplished aviatrix, horsewoman and swimmer.

Related to the Richardsons of Maryland and Virginia, Mrs. Stewart and her 13-year-old son spend much time in Washington between sessions of the Missouri Legislature.

"Being interested in politics, I naturally enjoy observing at close range happenings on Capitol Hill," she said.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Is a woman a fool to try to improve her appearance by dyeing her hair. I am 42, and if it were not for the fact that my hair is getting an ugly streaked gray I would not look more than 35. I have a smooth, clear skin, and until recently my hair was a nice dark brown. But not it has begun to fall out and the new hair is coming in in all shades of gray.

* * * *

I have thought of having it touched up, but my sister, ten years younger than I am, says I would be a fool to do it. She says I'll only make myself look older and "cheap," and that I'll fool nobody but myself. I would appreciate your opinion. Sincerely, WINCHESTER.

It All Depends.

DEAR WINCHESTER: When a woman dyes her hair the artifice is usually apparent to the discerning eye of other women, but even so the effect can be quite pleasing if artificially done by a skillful operator. However, the ruse occasionally fails of it's purpose, when the purpose is to subtract years from the lady's appearance.

* * * *

In the first place, the woman who begins a candid retreat from the approach of age by dyeing her hair is calling attention to, rather than deflecting notice from, her cumulative birthdays. Feminine nature being what it is, other women are apt to begin avid speculation as to just how old she is, with her dyed hair and all. And women are seldom known to subtract, in such informal surveys, from the actual age of the woman under discussion. Their estimates are apt to veer toward and beyond the half-century mark, rather than away from it.

* * * *

In the second place, it's my opinion that hair beauty depends more on care than upon color. Hair systematically brushed and shampooed, kept lustrous and pliable and becomingly arranged in accordance with the demands of one's type and features, is bound to be a beauty asset regardless of color.

* * * *

Yet, in the final analysis, the answer to the question, to dye or not to dye one's hair, must be found in the consciousness of the individual concerned. Self-adornment serves two purposes. One, which I have already discussed, is to convey an impression to beholders, and the other is to add to the self-esteem of the person adorned. If you will be happier with hair dyed instead of hair gray, then yours is the privilege of dyeing.

Guiding Advocated In Child's Reading

Dr. Chase Stresses Need of Proper Teaching.

Teaching persons to read doesn't always pay, in the opinion of Chancellor Harry Woodburn Chase of New York University.

Talking recently to the New Rochelle (N. Y.) Mothers Club of the First Presbyterian, Dr. Chase said: "The ability to read and write is not necessarily a step to better citizenship."

The type of reading that will be done should also be taken into consideration in estimating the value of teaching this subject, Dr. Chase said.

"I sometimes wonder if socially we make any advance by teaching to read that portion of our population whose reading is confined to types of publications we all know about," he said.

Charming Spot Helps Women Forget Cares

oft Music With a Background of Silhouettes Is Provided.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

THERE COMES a time in every woman's work-a-day week when she'd like to escape om her four walls to some charming little spot where she can enjoy a repast or a cocktail; where she may listen—not to the exciting rhythm of a jazz band — but to soothing, familiar melodies played by some one who seems to caress the keys of a piano.

All this is so easy to find, if you now where. So difficult, if you on't. Next time you're driving own Connecticut avenue and ou're just a bit below Dupont ircle, look for an inviting window ne floor above the street. You're kely to see a table there, one perpn on either side, and the soft low of a center lamp.

Below there's a door, iron-grated, nter here—and up one flight—or ke the elevator if you prefer . . . nd you're there! Overstuffed side enches arranged in curved alyes; soft lights, blue silhouettes gainst the wall; tables covered ith blue-checked cloths; attentive aiters; the low hum of conversaon blending with melodies from he piano. But where the piano, here the player? You peep into room which opens off this one, room where the wall panels are evoted to caricatures of people ou know . . . and don't know . . . nd here sits a young man playing t random, old music and new, orks of masters, songs of modern omposers.

Here you can enjoy a cocktail—r a glass of beer, a sandwich, or a upper. And you'll think: "Isn't it rand to know of a place like this!"

There's no dancing except on unday nights and then it's from 0 to 2—with a minimum charge of 5 cents.

Georgette Pleating Shown.

If you don't know what kind of ollar to buy for your new dress, r if you want to perk up an old ress with a new collar, why not onsider some of the georgette 'eating featured in a downtown ore?

This has a black satin ribbon wn through beading, leaving one e of long pleats and one side of ort ones. Wear it as a ruffling ound your neck and be just too, Regency!

It costs $2 a yard, but it only kes half a yard to make a collar—nd a half a yard more for cuffs.

Lotion Banishes Pimples.

Adjectives fail! What can you ay about a lotion that actually anishes pimples? No invectives eem strong enough when you speak f pimples. Regular nuisances they re! Surely every woman knows what it is to feel one coming on ust on the eve of some big party.

However, this pimple lotion is a odsend. You put a little on a piece of cotton, touch this to the ncoming pimple, and go to bed vith your mind at ease. Next norning, you can give vent to your ratitude, for the pimple will have anished entirely!

A New Bath Powder.

You wouldn't think to look at a ertain coarse-grained powder that t could do so many things—and o them well. Just one tablespoonul—or two if ou like—in a ub of water nd you've the proof in front f you. First of ll, it perfumes he bath with a elicate, hauntng fragrance. econd, it softens the water nd makes your ath just ten imes pleasanter. Third, it acts with the soap o make chasing dirt the simplest ob in the world.

And the grand part is: It's so odestly priced. You can buy a in of it for as little as 20 cents, r as much as 90 cents.

Ivory Jewelry at $1.

Something else to be excited bout! This time, it's genuine ivory ewelry which costs only $1. What's more, you may buy it in sets, necklaces, bracelets, clips, pins and button earrings, just the ideal bits of "setting off" you'll need for your new print frock!

If you've never worn ivory jewelry you have a treat in store for you. It suits any dress and is good for any occasion. You'll unanimously vote it the handiest jewelry you've ever had the pleasure to buy, and the most useful jewelry in your whole jewel box!

Lacquered Ware From Poland.

All the way from Poland to Washington comes the gayly colored lacquered woodenware displayed in the gift section of a large F street store.

There are some candle-holders that are a mixture of strange designs and vivid colors. Matching these are cigarette boxes, candy jars, and other little odds and ends.

More subdued are models of this same woodenware, which is a creamy white trimmed with fantastic bright-colored flowers.

Sachet Packets for $1.

Those who love lavender fragrance will be especially fond of the lavender sachets which have been reduced to $1 a box in a downtown store. There are three large sachets to a box, each one ample to perfume a closet or a dresser drawer.

Few fragrances are more delicate and subtle than those left by a sachet.

Pattern No. 820.

A WELL-CUT pajama in a sturdy flannel or broadcloth can be very inexpensive, if you'll sew. This pattern for girls includes a slip-over blouse (no buttons to come off, no buttonholes to sew) and straight trousers cut comfortably through the crotch. There is a choice of long or short sleeves.

The large instruction chart, plus the real simplicity of the design, make this pattern an excellent one for the young girl or novice to make. It is cut in sizes 6 to 14. Size 10, with long sleeves, requires 3 yards of 35-inch fabric and ⅜ yard for contrasting band.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Vaccine Prevention in Poliomyelitis.

NO little public attention has been directed toward poliomyelitis because of the recent birthday fund collected in honor of President Roosevelt, a victim of the disease.

Poliomyelitis occurs in varying degrees of severity. Those children who show paralysis following the infection constitute, in all probability, but a small fraction of the total number who have had the disease. In some the symptoms may be so slight that they are practically unnoticed. A child with a cold or an infection of the air passages may actually be suffering from poliomyelitis. The reason paralysis does not follow is that the resistance of the child is high or that the virus causing the infection is of low power (toxicity).

Because of the disabling and sometimes fatal character of the disease in its severe form, medical scientists have been searching for a vaccine that would protect against the disease and a serum that would cure. In 1910 Simon Flexner and P. A. Lewis announced that they had produced poliomyelitis in monkeys by inoculation with infected materials.

This discovery was followed by the introduction of the convalescent serum treatment of acute cases of poliomyelitis by Prof. A. Netter, of Paris.

Culbertson on Bridge

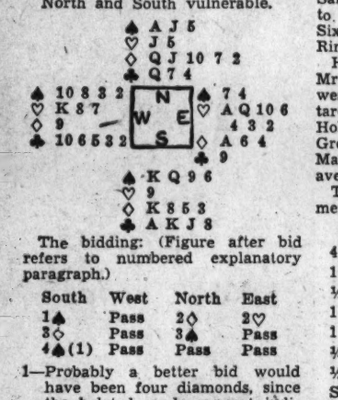
Inviting an Adverse Ruff.

One of the marks of the expert bridge player is the ability to manage carefully a trump suit in which the combined hands of declarer and dummy have only seven cards. Good bidders, of course, rarely bid very high unless the combined trump suit is at least eight cards in length. But since the best bidders sometimes go astray, they must know what to do when holding a short trump suit. In today's hand the South player demonstrated his skill by nursing the hand along until he was out of danger.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figure after bid refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2◇	2♡
3◇	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠(1)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Probably a better bid would have been four diamonds, since the belated spade support indicates a three-card holding in the North hand. Game at diamonds would have presented no problem.

The Play.

West opened the King of hearts and continued with a low one, which declarer ruffed. A low diamond knocked out the Ace, and a club return was taken by declarer. The Ace and King of trumps were led, followed by a diamond.

At first glance it may seem strange that declarer should invite an adverse ruff, but South realized that if either opponent held four trumps, to draw another round would be fatal. If anybody ruffed a diamond, a heart return could be ruffed in dummy, while any other return could be taken by the declarer and the last trump drawn, after which the rest of the tricks could be won. Had the diamonds been split two and two, declarer could have effected the same trump safety play by discarding on the second heart lead instead of ruffing. This would have lost the game for declarer, since the West player would next have led his singleton diamond and obtained a ruff for the fourth and setting trick.

West ruffed the second diamond lead after which declarer had no trouble in running the rest of the tricks. West could have given declarer a much greater problem by discarding clubs. South must then cash his club tricks after the fourth diamond gets by in order to insure making the contract. It would merely mean running the clubs to invite a ruff instead of the diamonds.

Revival of Heroes In Classics Urged

Heroes and heroines of child literary classics should be revived through the medium of screen and radio as an aid to character education of children, according to the Auxiliary of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children.

At a recent meeting of the auxiliary one of the members said:

"Hero worship is a great educational force. Children of today need wholesome but spirited heroes for the sake of health as well as for the sake of character. None could be more acceptable in their influence or appeal than the beloved fictional characters which helped mold our own childhood."

Blarney Stones Chosen for First Award In St. Patrick's Day Recipe Contest

Mrs. Dodd, of Alexandria, Takes Prize in Weekly Competition.

By Dorothea Duncan.

SOME OLD IRISH recipes found their way into The Post's contest for St. Patrick's Day recipes this week. First prize, $3, is awarded to Mrs. Clifford E. Dodd, 76 Duncan avenue, Alexandria, Va., for her recipe for Blarney Stones. Second prize, $2, goes to Mrs. George Canalle, 371 Charles street, Winchester, Va., for St. Patrick's Sandwich Loaf, and third prize, $1, to Mrs. E. Garrett Gummer, 917 Sixth street northwest, Spinach Ring.

Honorable mention is awarded Mrs. J. Hutter, 206 E street northwest, for her recipe for Mint Custard Delight; to Mrs. A. E. Fletcher, Holly Lane Farms, Waldorf, Md., Green Pepper Salad, and to Miss Marie E. Moran, 2416 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Emerald Punch.

The recipes follow in the order mentioned above.

Blarney Stones.

4 eggs
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
1 cup cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Separate eggs and keep one yolk for icing. Beat 3 yolks of eggs with rotary egg beater until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually, beating continually. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to egg mixture alternately with boiling water. Blend in vanilla and beat to mix well. Fold in egg whites, which have been beaten stiff, but not dry. Pour into greased and floured pan, 12x8x2 inches high. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Cut into squares and cover with icing.

Icing.

½ cup butter
2½ cups 4 x sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg yolk

Cream ½ cup butter and egg yolk together. Gradually blend in sugar and cream until soft and smooth. Blend in vanilla. This icing, of course, can be tinted green and chopped nuts can be sprinkled over icing. Or, for a fancy "Blarney Stone" a shamrock can be made by using 3 green life savers and stem and leaf of dark green icing.

St. Patrick's Sandwich Loaf.

1 loaf sandwich bread
2 packages cream cheese
¾ cup grated Roquefort cheese
3 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
1 cup shredded red salmon
1 cup grated American cheese
3 tablespoons pickle relish
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1½ cup mayonnaise dressing
¼ cup chopped green pickle
Salt and pepper

Remove all crust from bread. Cut in four lengthwise slices. Combine American cheese, pickle relish and chopped pimiento. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing and spread on 1 slice of bread. Cover with second slice. Combine salmon and chopped green pickle. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing and spread on second slice. Cover with third slice. Combine Roquefort cheese and chopped olives and moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Spread on third slice and cover with fourth slice of bread. Mash cream cheese and tint with green food coloring, season with salt and moisten with mayonnaise. Spread over entire surface of loaf. Place in refrigerator over night. Garnish top and sides with thin slices of stuffed olives, strips of green pepper and sweet pickles. Place on large platter and garnish with hearts of lettuce and watercress. To serve cut in slices.

Spinach Ring.

2 pounds spinach
4 tablespoons butter
3 eggs
½ cup bread crumbs
Salt and pepper

Steam spinach, chop and add beaten eggs, bread, crumbs and butter. Season with salt and pepper. Turn into a greased ring mold and bake at 400 degrees Fahrenheit for 15 minutes or until firm. Turn out on a plater, fill center with pimiento buttered potato balls and place a ring of buttered carrots decorated with parsley on the outside. Serve a well-seasoned white sauce with spinach. This makes a good all-in-one dish for the buffet party.

Mint Custard Delight.

Mint Sauce.

Beat together 2 eggs with 1 cup of sugar, and add 1 pint of milk (including the top). Add a pinch of salt and 2 tablespoons of cornstarch thinned out with water, flavored with julep leaves. Cook to the right consistency, add a dash of nutmeg and serve cold.

Emerald Punch.

½ cup water
1 cup lemon juice
1 quart ginger ale
1 cup sugar
½ cup grapefruit juice
Ice cubes
2 cups pineapple juice
½ cup lime juice
Creme de menthe cherries.

Boil sugar and water together to smooth syrup. Add fruit juices. Chill several hours in refrigerator. Place a cherry to freeze in each ice cube. Have it whole or clip into petals for a shamrock.

Recipe Contest Will Consider Lenten Season

THE COMING LENTEN season again demands that the housewife use her ingenuity when planning her menus. Meat will be taboo at least two days out of every week during this time. The Post's recipe contest for next week will be devoted exclusively to meat substitutes.

The meat substitute will have to be an intriguing dish to satisfy the whims of your family. You must have at least one recipe that will have a chance of winning a prize in The Post's contest.

Send your recipes to Dorothea Duncan, Home Economics Editor of The Washington Post. Three prizes will be awarded: $3 for the best recipe, $2 for the second and $1 for third. Only one recipe from each contestant will be considered for prizes.

Type your recipe if possible. If not, write it neatly in ink. Check all recipes carefully for omissions and make them understandable. These two points are important, because in the past one or the other has made it impossible to give an interesting recipe a prize.

The name and address of the sender should appear on each sheet submitted. All recipes should be received by Thursday of next week.

Democrats Propose Aid To Veterans

Bill for Service Officer Opposes Nice Plan in Assembly.

Sponsors of Measure Contend It Will Save $28,000 a Year.

By Francis O. White, Jr.,
A Staff Correspondent.

Annapolis, Md., March 1.—The Maryland General Assembly, before adjourning today for the week-end, received among other proposals a bill, sponsored by the Democratic majority, in direct opposition to the administration plan of Gov. Harry W. Nice.

It deals with the appointment of a State service officer whose duties would be to press claims of disabled veterans, and whose salary and expenses would not exceed $6,000 annually. Sponsors of the bill claim that it will save the State $28,000 annually, compared to the Governor's proposal. Appointment of the officer would be made by the adjutant general.

The measure was presented in the Senate by Miss Mary Risteau, Harford County, and in the House, jointly by Representatives Claude A. Hanley, Baltimore County; John E. Clark, Harford County; William G. Gassaway, Howard County, and Dr. Charles V. Hayden, St. Marys County. It was referred to the fiscal committees of the respective houses.

Praised by Mullikin.

Representative Kent R. Mullikin, Prince Georges County, chairman of the ways and means committee and Democratic floor leader, declared it is a "fine bill." Mullikin, who is a member of the American Legion, and represents his post on the Maryland Council, said, "If Maryland is to have a service officer, I think the bill is a step in the right direction. If we are going to have an assistant adjutant general—a bob-tailed brigadier general or colonel, running around to banquets and speaking for the Governor, and receiving pay out of funds dedicated to the relief of needy veterans—then I think the Democrats are justified in looking for a constructive plan."

Gov. Nice, in submitting his budget, set aside $120,000 annually for the veteran's relief commission. Of this amount, $20,000 was designated for salary and administrative expenses of the proposed service officer, who he plans to appoint.

Under the Democratic proposal, the total expense for the next biennium would be $12,000 compared to the Governor's $40,000. Although it was pointed out at recent committee hearings that plans contemplated by the administration were broader in scope and that costs necessarily would mount, feeling was expressed that $20,000 annually was too high. Spokesmen for the administration asserted that the Governor was entitled to representation in the military department, and that naming a service officer offered the solution.

Nice Bill Approved.

The first administration bill to be approved by either branch of the Assembly was adopted in the Senate today, and sent to the House. It eliminates the annual license fee of $3 charged automobile chauffeurs, and permits them to use regular operators' licenses.

A State-wide measure that received Senate approval was the bill exempting certain ships of coastwise and transoceanic traffic and all aircraft from State taxes. This action merely extends provisions of existing law.

New bills offered in the Senate include:

By Senator J. Allan Coad, St. Marys County—Regulating small loans issued by credit unions.

By Senator Harry LeGore, Frederick County—Changing the date for auditing books of Frederick County offices from the second week in July to the fourth Monday in February, and those of the county board of education from August 1 to March 1; and authorizing the commissioners of Frederick County to borrow $50,000 on promissory notes to pay interest on outstanding bonds.

The House passed a group of bills embracing local legislation for Annapolis. They provide for extending the terms of the mayor and aldermen, abolishing the post of city counsellor, now elected by the voters, and providing in lieu thereof for appointment of a city solicitor, who would not be entitled to vote in the council; empower the council to fill vacancies in its membership caused by death, resignation or otherwise; and permitting the municipal government to retain liquor license fees.

The House killed, by adopting an unfavorable committee report, the bill by Representative Moore, Harford County, that would have required insurance companies to publish abstracts of their annual statements in at least two county newspapers.

Sunday Movies Asked.

Sunday motion pictures would be permitted in all sections of Prince Georges County under terms of a bill presented by Delegate John S. White. Hyattsville and Mount Vernon are the only sections of the county where Sunday movies are legalized.

Other new legislative proposals included a bill by Senator Stedman Prescott, Montgomery County, to extend the boundary lines of the Chevy Chase Fire Department taxing area to include North Chevy Chase. The measure authorizes the county commissioners to levy a tax against the new addition at 15 cents on the hundred dollars.

Delegate Ruth E. Shoemaker sponsored a bill to increase the number of sergeants of the Montgomery County police force from five to seven, and Delegates Joseph A. Cantrel and Walter M. Magruder sponsored a proposal to reduce the number of deputy sheriffs in Montgomery County from two to one. This measure would save the county $2,700 annually, as the bill also eliminates the $080 allowance for an automobile.

Annual license fee of $25 for catching soft crabs in waters of the Patuxent River with a net or seine other than those having a handle attached is provided in a bill by Senator James B. Latimer, Calvert County. Violation of the proposed act would be punishable by a fine of $25.

Richmond Body Indorses Dr. Hall

His Reappointment to State Hospital Board Favored.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Richmond, Va., March 1.—The board of the Richmond Academy of Medicine has written Gov. Peery indorsing Dr. J. K. Hall for reappointment to the board of the Central State Hospital, Petersburg, it was learned today from Dr. Fred P. Fletcher, jr., president of the academy.

The Governor had requested the society to nominate four Richmond physicians suitable for the place on the board.

Relief Fund Nearly Spent In Maryland

Only Another Week's Cash on Hand; U.S. Not Heard From.

By the Associated Press.

Annapolis, Md., March 1.—With funds at hand sufficient to carry on Maryland's relief work for only about a week, State officials tonight had heard nothing from Federal officials regarding any Federal allotment for March.

Although there is a total of $1,281,936.79 in the treasury alloted for relief, most of that money already has been committed.

Committees of the General Assembly, which has completed two-thirds of its session without advancing any plan for meeting relief problems, plan to get to work early next week. The legislators have said they could make no definite relief plans until Federal plans are completed.

Senator J. Allan Coad (Democrat), of St. Marys, chairman of the Senate finance committee, today said he would not favor any proposal for meeting relief needs for a period longer than the remainder of this calendar year. Coad feels that $3,000,000 yearly is about the maximum the State can raise for relief and intimated that local units might be called upon to bear their share of the burden.

State Relief Administrator Harry Greenstein conferred with Senator Stedman Prescott (Democrat), of Montgomery, chairman of the sub-committee named by the Senate finance committee to study the relief problem. Prescott announced his sub-committee and that from the House ways and means committee would meet "early next week."

The $1,281,936.79 in relief funds in the State treasury today was divided as follows:

Rural rehabilitation	$ 1,140.49
Cattle	139,033.86
Professional program	86,986.00
CWA material	234,616.06
Waterman's program	8,378.81
National relief census	2,107.54
College students aid program	19,441.09
Adult education	82,920.52
Transients	96,259.68
General relief	611,052.79

All the money is allocated to State relief projects under the supervision of Greenstein and does not apply to Baltimore. Funds of the Baltimore emergency relief commission are handled by that office in Baltimore and vouchers do not return to the State comptroller's office here for payment.

Recreational Project To Total 8,081 Acres

By the Associated Press.

The Relief Administration said yesterday that the Chopawamsic recreational area in Prince William and Stafford Counties, Va., would total 8,081 acres and would cost $86,000.

The area is to provide an all-year outdoor playground for residents of northern Virginia and the District of Columbia. On it will be camp sites, picnic areas, swimming pools and hiking and riding trails.

$10,000 Asked in Suit For Child's Injuries

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 1.—Benjamin Mowbray yesterday filed suit in the Circuit Court against Richard F. McMullen and William A. Gunter, receivers, of the Cumberland Motor Express, Inc., for $10,000 damages for alleged injuries to his baby daughter.

He charges an end gate of a truck opened and a steel drum fell, striking the child and breaking her leg. Negligence is charged. Estel C. Kelley is attorney for the plaintiff.

33 Postoffices Closed in State

Receipts Drop Below $100 Annually; Six New Offices Opened.

By the Associated Press.

The Postoffice Department said yesterday 33 postoffices in Virginia have been closed since last June 1. Six new offices were opened in the same period.

For the most part, the department said, the postoffices, all of them small, were closed because their receipts had dropped below $100 annually. Others were discontinued because the department determined better service could be rendered from another postoffice or by extension of rural service.

The new postoffices are Blue Ridge Academy, Farmers Store, Hollins College, Hornets, Port Conway and Roseann.

Those closed were Albin (Ararat), Beahm, Blackwell, Blenheim, Buckles, Cedarmers, Clam, Clancie, Carnation, Cromwell, Dandy, Dilbeck, Drenn, Fruitplain, Farrington, Holly Corner, Lady, Mableton, Millington, Monrovia, Main, Naylors, Peeds, Pelton, Prim, Salt Creek, Sittlington, Stewartsville, Tower Hill, Vulean, Walnut Point and Willow.

The department said 33 closings was "average" since the depression. In the nine-month period from June 1, 1933, to March 1, 1934, 35 offices were closed in the Old Dominion.

125 Rotarians Hear Ex-District Leader

Clubs of Virginia Attend Inter-City Session.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 1.—One hundred and twenty-five Rotarians from Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Warrenton, Culpeper and Leesburg attended an intercity meeting here last night under the direction of the Rev. H. A. Donovan, of Fairfax, group leader.

C. K. Brown, of Staunton, past governor of the Fifty-sixth District, was the principal speaker. He discussed the "Individual in Rotary." He stressed the Rotarian's love of service, tolerance, lack of criticisms and efforts to destroy false standards of living.

The speaker was introduced by Stilson H. Hall, a past president of the local club. The Rev. G. Payton Craighill, president of the Leesburg Rotary, presided. Each of the clubs present supplied a musical number on the program.

5,000 Letters Await Elkins Air Inaugural

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Elkins, W. Va., March 1.—Postmaster T. W. Stalnaker today estimated he has more than 5,000 "first flight" letters, sent here by philatelists, to be mailed on the first planes next Monday at the beginning of air mail and passenger service from Elkins.

On each letter will be stamped the special cachet prepared by the Post Office Department in connection with the beginning of the new service. The cachet is a photographic representation of the gateway to Monongahela National Forest.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 1.—John Galleher, of Leesburg, Va., president of the Young Democratic Club of Virginia, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the State organization Wednesday in Richmond to fix the time and place of the 1935 convention.

Other members of the executive committee are the vice president, Francis B. Waters, of Norfolk; Fred B. Greear, of Wise; Lester D. Arnold, Winchester; Mrs. George T. McDaniel, Lynchburg; secretary, C. Pembroke Pettit, of Fairfax; treasurer, T. Frank Osburn, Leesburg, and national committeewoman, Mrs. Galleher.

Rush Holt Leaves For Speaking Tour Of Several States

By the Associated Press.

Deprived by his age of the right to speak in the Senate, Senator-elect Rush D. Holt, 29-year-old West Virginian, has left on a speaking tour which will carry him into several States.

Holt is waiting until June 19, when he reaches 30, the constitutional minimum, to take his seat.

Meantime, he is pursuing the work usually done by Senators—except that he can't speak on the floor or vote.

He finds plenty of routine to do in Washington and is swamped with mail—thousands of letter were awaiting him when he arrived in January and he only recently caught up on the replies.

Body Recovered From Chesapeake

Believed to Be Hunter Who Vanished December 1.

By the Associated Press.

Elkton, Md., March 1.—The body of a man, possibly that of one of three persons who were drowned in the upper Chesapeake Bay late last year, was recovered today near Grove Point, Cecil County.

State's Attorney Edward D. E. Rollins said he felt confident the body was that of either Harry A. Porter or A. Ross Garey, who disappeared while hunting in a small boat in the Susquehanna River flats last December 1.

The body was found by Frank Hines, of Earlville, who called the State's attorney. Coroner Rodney Frazier and a representative of the sheriff's office were ordered to the scene to examine the body.

Greenleaf, Cue Star, Fights Property Sale

Eaton, Md., March 1 (AP).—After listening all day to testimony presented at the hearing of an effort of Ralph Greenleaf, former pocket billiard champion, to block the sale of his property at Bozman, Judge Owen Knotts gave attorneys until March 15 to file briefs. The judge made no decision.

Greenleaf objected to confirmation of the sale by claiming it was not legal. He said it was made on a Thursday and not on a Saturday as had been customary.

Anglers Ready For Shads Run

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leonardtown, Md., March 1.—Water-front men n the vcinity of the famous Airedale fishing grounds on the Chesapeake Bay near here were reported today to be in readiness for the first run of the seafood epicure's choice delicacy—the shad.

For the last few weeks fishermen have relaxed their efforts on tonging and oyster dredging to make nets, poles, and other equipment to snare the early shad arrivals into the Potomac.

Packing houses in the vicinity anticipate a fine season, notwithstanding the recent cold weather. Although low temperatures are said to hold the fish back temporarily, they come in greater numbers when the season gets well under way.

310,731 Acres Bought For National Forests

The purchase of 310,731 acres of land to be added to the national forests was announced yesterday by Secretary of War Dern acting as president of the National Forest Reservation Commission. The total cost was $1,243,895.73.

A total of 31,941 acres was purchased in the Monongahela and George Washington National Forests in Virginia and West Virginia.

Answer Is Filed To Plea of Writ For Maj. Kent

Reply Submitted Too Late by 21 Days, Defense Counsel Says.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., March 1.—An answer from Philip Kohen, Botetourt County Commonwealth's attorney, to a petition for a writ of error for Maj. Robert C. Kent, jr., convicted of kidnaping Mrs. Mary J. Hastings, was filed with the Supreme Court of Appeals today. The matter has been twice argued and submitted.

Edward T. Haynes, counsel for Kent, today said the answer was filed 21 days too late under the court's rule prescribing that answers to petitions for writs of error be filed within 21 days after service of the petition. He said under circumstances he will ask Justice Browning, before whom the petition for a writ of error was last argued, to direct that the answer be returned to Mr. Kohen.

Maj. Kent is now in the State Penitentiary under a 13-year sentence of the circuit court of Botetourt County. The evidence in the case was to the effect that Kent and Mrs. Hastings, a Blue Ridge Springs hotel operator, traveled by automobile to Washington, and several days later Mrs. Hastings body was found near a roadside in the vicinity of Stroudsburg, Pa. Kent asserted he had not seen her since they parted in Washington.

More Funds To Be Asked By Loudoun

Board Adopts Plan to Seek $1,500 Extra From VERA.

Expansion of Relief Work During March Approved.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 1.—The proposal to ask an increase in the quarterly grant to widen Loudoun County's relief program for March was accepted by the board of supervisors meeting in special session here today.

The meeting was called to reconsider the action of the board Monday when members refused to apply for $13,317.49 of VERA funds for the county in March. It was pointed out today that an error had been made in the amount to be requested and that the county should ask for only $1,500, which was the sum requested.

There was a tie in the vote, Coleman, Whitmore, and Baker voting in favor of the appropriation, and Rogers, Grubb, and Leith against. Judge W. A. Metzger, also a member of the rehabilitation committee, favored the project. The amount requested provides for additional administration costs for a farm foreman, home-maker and garden director.

Meeting with the group were A. W. Petersilia, of Alexandria, project officer for the Manassas relief area; H. S. Barksdale, district supervisor of rehabilitation work, and Mrs. Mary L. Thompson, from the Richmond office.

After the meeting Rogers, a member of the rehabilitation committee, resigned from that committee, stating he was not in sympathy with the work.

Liquor Commission Members Approved

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Charleston, W. Va., March 1.—Acting promptly in executive session after receiving Gov. H. G. Kump's appointments, the State Senate this afternoon confirmed the following as members of the new State Liquor Control Commission:

D. H. Stephenson, of Clendenin, former sheriff of Kanawha County, Democrat; A. Spates Brady, of Elkins, former president of the State Board of Control, Republican, and John B. Wilson, Wheeling attorney attached to the Department of Justice in Washington during the Wilson Administration, Democrat.

Stephenson was named for the four-year term and designated chairman, Brady for the three-year term and Wilson for the two-year term. All terms hereafter will be four years.

"Parade of Hits" Forms to Swing Across Earle Screen During Month of March

Strong Line-up Announced for Current Weeks

New Musical Is Included; That Universal Puzzle; Amusement Memos.

By Nelson B. Bell.

"The March Parade of Hits" is the manner in which the Warner Brothers executives in Washington characterize the succession of feature pictures scheduled for presentation on the screen of the Earle Theater during the month that begins today.

I had just got around to this item, graciously prereleased to me by John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner interests in the Washington territory, in last Wednesday morning's broadcast through WJSV when the alert Mr. Warren Sweeney, a part of whose Wednesday drudgery is putting this column on the air, waved me down account of because only about 50 seconds of my 15 minutes remained. So I got no farther than mention of "Living on Velvet," which opens today at Thirteenth and E streets, and "Gold Diggers of 1935."

With a few more minutes at my disposal, I should have gone on to say that following "Living on Velvet," in which Kay Francis is supported by both Warren William and George Brent, the Earle will present "The Whole Town's Talking"—and practically the whole town is, about this one. It is the picture in which Edward G. Robinson stars for Columbia and assumes the dual role of a timid little clerk and a hard-berled gangster who changes the whole course of his double's life. It is being bruited about that this is one of the best things either Columbia or Mr. Robinson has done—which is high praise, in view of Columbia's cleanup of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award last Wednesday night.

Critics Will Eat!

This is the subject in honor of which the Warner forces are tossing a luncheon in the Warner Club quarters in the Earle Theater Building on Saturday, followed by a comparatively private preview of the film for the local drama desks. Perhaps we will know more about it after this levee has been written into the past tense.

Holding third place in the line of march of the ditto "Parade of Hits" will be "Gold Diggers of 1935," the big musical concerning the national release date of which—tentatively set for March 16—there seems to be just a shadow of doubt, unless the boys are kidding in their trade paper advertising. Dick Powell, Gloria Stuart, Adolphe Menjou, Alice Brady, Hugh Herbert, Joseph Cawthorn, Frank McHugh and Dorothy Dare are the hot "names" in this number, with Busby Berkeley in the role of director.

Charles Laughton's first out-and-out comedy for the screen, "Ruggles of Red Gap," is next on the list. In this transplanted Harry Leon Wilson story, the star will have as his associates in hilarity such noted comics as Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Roland Young, who has just turned in such a fine performance as Uriah Heep in "David Copperfield;" ZaSu Pitts, Maude Eburne, Lucien Littlefield and Leila Hyams.

"Let's Live Tonight," another Columbia production, also is included in the "Parade," with Tullio Carminati—Grace Moore's mainstay in "One Night of Love"—and Lillian Harvey sharing costellar honors. This little thing was directed by Victor Schertzinger, who also composed a theme melody for the picture that is said to have an important bearing upon its developments.

In conjunction with these major screen attractions, outstanding personalities of stage, cinema and radio are being recruited for the accompanying vaudeville programs presented as living entertainment on the Earle stage.

Headed by Mrs. Campbell Pritchett, Miss Helen Wardman, Mrs. Jasper Dubose and Mrs. William Cushman, the 22 Washington women selected as the Capital's best-dressed by the fashion editors of the local press have been invited by Zone Manager John J. Payette, of Warners, to be guests of honor at the Earle tonight to see Kay Francis in "Living on Velvet." Miss Francis, variously denominated the best-dressed woman in pictures, one surmises, lives both in and on velvet. At any rate, Orry-Kelly, famous stylist for the screen, created 30 different costumes for Miss Francis to wear in this production. They are reputed to provide an authentic forecast of spring styles in feminine wearing apparel.

Thirty costumes! How's about borrowing your old sweater for a few days? I want to dress up!

"Who Killed Cock Robin?"

Papa Carl Laemmle's categorical denial of any intention of selling Universal Pictures Corporation to anybody whomsoever now, on the eve of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the present Universal City on the West Coast, or any other time, emblazoned in this space yesterday, has stirred up more counter-rumors than a small boy could stir up stings out of a hornet's nest.

What should come splattering into the loudspeaker last night but the flat statement from a radio movie commentator that Universal positively has been sold, but to the Warner Brothers instead of John Hay (Jock) Whitney!

If Papa Laemmle heard that one, he would be tearing his hair long before this—that is, of course, if Papa Laemmle had any hair left to tear.

The local reactions to the story of sale and its prompt denial also have been many and diverse.

What of the Rialto?

For example, it is divulged on excellent authority that while Universal's lease on Tom Moore's Rialto Theater, at Ninth and G streets, has approximately another year to run, the complete rental price stipulated in the lease has been paid, some time since, and the house probably will not be reopened as an outlet for Universal film product.

This is tacitly borne out by the fact that Universal Pictures now are being given an outlet in Washington for a specified number of weeks a year on the screen at RKO-Keith's Theater under contract.

Even with the rental paid, it has been the recent experience of Universal in operation of the Ninth street "Temple of the Muses" that the operating overhead could not quite be met at the box office.

With these circumstances more or less an open secret in Washington, rumbles of a "sports center" project are beginning to be heard. Why not boxing and allied sports in the Rialto, now that fisticuffing has become legalized in the District and the spots where it can be successfully promoted seem to be startlingly few and remarkably far between?

Obstacles to Be Overcome.

An enterprise of this kind would take a bit of doing, but probably could be swung by the right parties. There is the matter of the Universal lease, to be sure, that still has a year to run and contains a clause prohibiting the lessee from subletting. If Universal wishes to keep the Rialto idle for the duration of its lease, it probably could do so by merely sitting tight. So what?

So if some reliable sports promoter comes along, with money to lay on the line, as we say in the back room, why not?

Or has "Jock" Whitney, the Warner Brothers, John Doe or Tessie Zilch really bought Universal?

Quick, boy, the smelling salts and a stiff jigger of soda pop!

Pictures of the running of the Santa Anita Handicap in Los Angeles last Saturday, in which Azucar, with Jockey Woolf up, emerged winner after a thrilling stretch run, are currently on view at the Metropolitan Theater. The pictures were made by Universal Newsreel and show the complete running of the mile and a quarter distance, with Azucar, a slow starter, coming away at the end to win by two lengths. They are said to be the best ever made by a newsreel of the actual running of a bona fide race.

Incidentally, that horse's name is pronounced "A-soo-car," with the accent on the second syllable—not "As-you-car," with the accent on the last. As Mr. Haight, The Post's air-minded race writer, has already pointed out, it is the Spanish word for sugar—which is probably why Mrs. Baldwin carried a bag of it down to the winner when he came back to the judges' stand for his wreath of roses, pats on the nozzle, and all that business.

Dates Are Changed.

From Apartment 921, the Kennedy-Warren—that would be Ruth Perrott—comes the announcement that the Drama Guild's production of "Harbor Light" will be presented in the Wardman Park Theater on March 8 and 9, instead of March 7 and 8, as originally announced. The change is made necessary by matters that concern the theater management rather than the Drama Guild.

Miss Perrott goes on to say this may or may not be a news item:

"I am directing Philip Barry's play, 'Holiday,' for the Alexandria Little Theater, and it is to be presented on April 12. We did a group of three one-acts a couple of weeks ago and about 400 people turned out. I was quite surprised, but, who knows, perhaps our eventual Civic Theater may grow out of Alexandria."

It might, at that. Certainly it is not hurrying any on this side of the Potomac, more's the pity.

Toothsome Morsel Note.

Dr. Ben Paul Sandy, dentist, has been appointed chairman of the Maryland censor board by Gov. Harry Nice.

This is a Nice piece of humor concerning which you are invited to step into the drawing room and extract your own biting satire!

Their Shadows Are on View Today

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Concert by the National Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the Washington Choral Society, in Constitution Hall; Hans Kindler, conductor. All-American program: "Chanticleer" Festival Overture (Daniel Gregory Mason), Symphony No. 2 (Randall Thompson), Chorale for Strings (Roy Harris), "Joe Clark Steps Out" (Charles G. Vardell), "The Chambered Nautilus" (Deems Taylor).

In selecting this program, Hans Kindler doubtless had in mind the important function of the orchestra as an expositor of contemporary music. It is only through the cooperation of conductors that our composers can hope to have their larger works presented to the public, and one would scarcely expect them to labor over an orchestral score with no likelihood that it would ever be performed. As for the public, its only opportunity to know what our native writers are doing is provided by concerts of this character, and that knowledge every intelligent lover of music wishes to acquire.

As a whole, the program was one to stimulate and hold the attention. Not everything was novel and fresh from the mint of the composer's mind, for Mr. Taylor's cantata is 20 years old and does not express his current phase. It is representative, however, of the eclecticism which characterizes all his music. His assimilative ability exceeds his creative power, and he has never succeeded in acquiring a style—that is, in impressing upon any work the seal of his individuality.

In "The Chambered Nautilus" he showed skillful craftsmanship in both choral and instrumental writing, yet invented no melodic strain to haunt the memory. The setting of the text is sensitive in harmony and judicious in accent, with the exception of the line, "Wrecked is the ship of pearl," which fails of its effect because of the tessitura. The cantata has dignity and poetic flavor. One enjoyed hearing the Washington Choral Society repeat the composition which they sang last May—this time with the advantage of an augmented chorus and full orchestral support.

Mr. Mason's overture, a younger of six, is more talkative than eloquent. Its excitement is out of proportion to what it has to say, yet strangely enough, its prattling is scholastic. The composer knows his harmony and counterpoint thoroughly, but his science in this case leaves one emotionally unmoved. The overture may have had its origin, as the program note of Edward Waters informs us, in certain passages of Thoreau's "Walden," but Mr. Mason's idea of Thoreau will not be shared by all admirers of that rebellious spirit.

Randolph Thompson's symphony has the merit of continuous interest both in ideas and instrumentation. Abounding in vitality, it impresses one at the first hearing by its structural symmetry, its clarity of exposition, its thematic invention and its restraint in emotional expression. There are passages that seem at the moment to be exuberant, but they are actually held in check by the economy of the scoring. A second hearing will make more apparent the personality behind the music, a personality of taste, culture and wit.

The chorale of Roy Harris was welcome in its new investiture of full string choirs. One has heard it before as a part of his string sextet, and its impressiveness has been increased by the gain in tonal volume. One's belief that Mr. Harris is one of the most significant of our young composers grows with every extension of acquaintance with his music, which is strikingly autochthonous and underivative. His independence and sturdy forthrightness should carry him far.

Mr. Vardell's dressing-up of the American folk tune, "Old Joe Clark," is clever and entertaining. The scoring is consistently neat and effective and the humor is without exaggeration. One compliments the composer upon the skill with which he has made modal cadences sound as fresh as atonality.

Baldwin Bondholders Form Committee for Protection

A protective committee for holders of the Baldwin Locomotive Works five-year 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds due 1938 has been formed at the request of holders of substantial amounts of these bonds. Announcement being made by the committee states that a deposit agreement providing for deposit of bonds and issuance of certificates of deposit will be prepared in due course, but, for the present, deposits are not invited and will not be accepted. Meanwhile, holders of the bonds are requested to send to the secretary of the committee their names and addresses and a statement of the amount of their holdings. The announcement adds that corporation of holders of the bonds for the protection of their interests is imperative.

The committee is composed of Edward Hopkinson, jr., of Drexel & Co., chairman; Robert H. Colley, treasurer of the Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia; Carl W. Fenninger, vice president of the Provident Trust Co. of Philadelphia; John J. Rowe, president of the Fifth Third Union Trust Co., Cincinnati, and William J. K. Vanston, White, Weld & Co., New York. Edward Starr, jr., Fifteenth and Walnut streets, Philadelphia, is secretary of the committee.

Baldwin Locomotive Works on February 25 filed in the Federal court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania a voluntary petition under Section 77B of the Federal statute providing for the reorganization of corporations. An order was entered by the court approving the petition and continuing the company in possession of its properties pending a hearing to be held March 22 at which it is understood the company will ask for an extension of the order during reorganization.

Canada's Bond Sales Up Tenfold for February

New Canadian bond issues offered during February amounted to $30,034,700, against $3,350,654 in February, 1934, according to figures prepared by Dominion Securities Corporation. These figures do not include an issue of $18,700,000 Dominion of Canada treasury bills dated February 6 and due May 1, 1935. These treasury bills were sold through public tender on a 2.05 per cent basis.

The largest issue sold during the month consisted of $20,000,000 Province of Ontario two-year 2¼ per cent treasury bills. In addition, the Province of New Brunswick offered $800,000 five-year 3½s and the City of Three Rivers an issue of $1,294,700 4½ per cent serials. All of these issues were payable solely in Canadian funds and were placed entirely in Canada.

Banking Group Offers Hoboken Bond Issue

A banking group headed by Lehman Brothers is offering today an issue of $2,597,000 City of Hoboken, N. J., 4¾ per cent serial funding bonds, issued under Chapter 60 of the New Jersey laws, at prices to yield from 3.75 to 4.75 per cent for maturities ranging from 1937 to 1955.

Associated with Lehman Brothers in the offering are J. S. Rippel & Co., Phelps, Fenn & Co., Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., Adams & Mueller, C. C. Collings & Co., Hannahs, Ballin & Lee, Lobdell & Co., H. L. Allen & Co. and B. J. Van Ingen & Co.

The Dollar Abroad.

By the Associated Press.

The dollar was strong in terms of leading non-gold currencies in foreign exchange markets today.

In London the American unit gained nearly 1½ cents, closing at $4.83 15-16. In later dealings in New York the British currency was unchanged at $4.83⅞.

In Paris the dollar also was a trifle higher at an equivalent of 6.643 cents to the franc, and in New York francs eased .01 of a cent to 6.64½ cents. Dutch guilders, Belgian belgas and Swiss francs also were lower.

Broadway

By Ed Sullivan

Broadway Skyline.

Contributing to Broadway's skyline effects, and the most important, certainly, when day is succeeded by night, are the giant electric signs that blaze from the Stem rooftops . . . Probably the most famous of these outdoor advertising symbols was that which featured the dancing gnomes of that gum company . . . These little men, atop the former Putnam Building at Times Square, did a little jig step nightly that attracted thousands of out-of-towners . . . Then progress, in the form of the demolition of the Putnam Building and the substitution of the Paramount cathedral, gave these little jigging gnomes the hook . . . Now they are up the street in an electric sign that is not so pretentious . . . A toothpaste sign, since removed, was one of the marvels of the Broadway skyline up until a few months ago . . . This sign, 55 feet by 49 feet, was composed of 7,620 individual bulbs embracing six colors, green, red, yellow, orange, brown and cerise and outdoor advertising men came from all over to view it in operation . . . New York, Atlantic City and Chicago offer the greatest electric displays, according to the experts in that field . . . In the Broadway belt, four service men patrol the street every hour of the night . . . They are bulb-watchers . . . The minute a bulb, or a sequence of bulbs, goes out, they rush to the rescue.

• • • •

Beauticians of the Broadway skyline, not often mentioned in a column of this type, are the sandblasters . . . Like Broadway columnists, the sand blasters and the water vapor cleaners of buildings work entirely at night . . . You see their trucks and motors in the streets occasionally, and high above you see the scaffold hands, their eyes protected by goggles, working behind the canvas screens which prevent the cleaning sand from deluging the passers-by below . . . The Capitol Theater, when it decided to have its face cleaned, chose the water vapor method . . . The most famous job, according to the sand blasters, was that done on the Park Row Building . . . Thirty tons of sand were required to wash and iron it . . . Something which never occurred to me, but which the sand blasters know, is that the taller a building, the less it needs washing . . . The higher a building pokes its head into the sky, the clearer the air becomes . . . How much does it cost for a Broadway skyline building to have itself washed? . . . About $5,000.

• • • •

Included in any New York skyline must be the elevators, those iron cages in which passengers are lifted from the sidewalks of New York to the offices which are perched in the clouds . . . Funny how a veteran New Yorker comes to accept elevators as trifling incidents of daily life . . . Then an elevator strike is threatened, we are compelled to walk and elevators assume their rightful importance in the daily scene of things . . . There are approximately 31,000 elevators in this huge city . . . 19,000 of them are passenger elevators . . . Speediest of them all are the 75 elevators in Radio City . . . The "highrise" cars of this group, those which shoot from the first floor to the sixty-fifth in one leap, are the Man o' Wars of the trade . . . They make the trip in 39 seconds Next to them in sheer speed, would be ranked the speed cars of the Empire State Building . . . The battery of Radio City elevators, Murray Martin tells me, runs up a total daily mileage of 2,200 miles.

• • • •

So far, this season, the Broadway skyline has been singularly free of one menace to aviation—the flagpole sitters. . . . No longer do searchlights reach through the night to spotlight the figure of a Shipwreck Kelly hanging desperately but determinedly to the topmost rim of a flagpole. . . . Probably the inclement weather has had a great deal to do with the temporary elimination of this strange and curious clan which insists on sitting and sitting and sitting, at dizzy heights. . . . The last time I saw Shipwreck, he visited me for a long conversation. . . . He desired, at that time, to dive from the parapet of Washington Bridge. . . . I said to him: "But what purpose will it serve, Kelly?" . . . He said, and there was a hint of moroseness in his tone: "I'd do anything to break the monotony of my work, Ed." . . . And he meant it.

• • • •

Haven't seen any riveters at wodk in the clouds recently, either. . . . When the Empire State Building and the Washington Bridge were under construction, the riveters formed part of the breathless daily matinee in this town . . . Boy, these are he-men and I'm not clowning . . . They come from all over the country for the big jobs of construction and are rated on the jobs they've worked on, the higher the better . . . They tell me that every now and then, one of them loses his superb nerve while high above the ground . . . On such occasions, the victim, in the intensity of his terror, fastens his grip to the girder or catwalk on which he happens to be, with such dreadful force that it requires almost superhuman efforts to unloose his fingers and drag him to safety . . . I can understand that . . . I don't feel too good even on a high roof.

Oil Stocks Decrease.

The Bureau of Mines reported today that stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum on February 23 totaled 321,367,000 barrels, representing a decline of 856,000. Domestic crude decreased 545,000 barrels and foreign crude 311,000.

Social and Club Notes

Of Towns and Cities in Nearby States

By Elisabeth C. Taylor.

An exhibition of water color paintings by Virginia artists and a display of photographs by the Norfolk Camera Club will be sponsored jointly by the Women's Club of Hopewell, Va., and the Hopewell Chamber of Commerce for a showing from 3 to 7 p. m. tomorrow in the armory. Previous to its showing at Hopewell the exhibition has been at the State Teachers College at Harrisonburg, Va.

The showing was arranged through the Virginia Art Alliance, of which Thomas C. Colt is secretary. The exhibition committee, headed by Mrs. George Juer, includes as chairmen of subordinate committees Mrs. Herbert Ford, decoration; Mrs. L. R. Boswell, arrangements; Mrs. Burton P. Short, refreshments, and Mrs. E. Hartzell, publicity. The Women's Club will serve tea during the exhibition.

The Dramatic Club of Warrenton Country School, Warrenton, Va., will present a play entitled "Old Lady 31" at the parish house this afternoon and evening. The play is given through the courtesy of Mlle. Lea Bouligny and Mrs. Lindsay Fitch for the benefit of the public health nursing service, Fauquier chapter of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was the guest of the Womens Club of Charles Town, W. Va., yesterday.

Mrs. Helen Page Wodell will speak this morning at a meeting sponsored by the Federation of Garden Clubs at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond. Her topic will be "Flower Shows."

As a community as well as a patriotic idea the Clemmer-McGuffin Unit, No. 13, American Legion Auxiliary, has originated the idea of planting a memorial avenue of trees between Lexington and Staunton, Va., the home of the organization. It has been planned to start with 1,500 trees, representing the number of men who enlisted from Augusta County during the World War. It is expected that work will be started as soon as weather permits.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Orange, Va.—At a meeting held in the James Barbour High School a D. A. R. Chapter for Orange County was organized. The chapter adopted the name of "The Golden Horseshoe D. A. R. Chapter of Orange County."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. A. Woodroof, of Barboursville, organizing regent, assisted by the regent of the William Boyd Chapter of Richmond. Mrs. Charles Keesee, State regent, stated the object of the meeting and conducted the business of organizing.

The following officers were elected: Regent, Mrs. J. A. Woodroof; vice regent, Mrs. J. H. Hume; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Holladay; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. P. Scott; treasurer, Mrs. J. T. Walker; registrar, Mrs. C. M. Crafton; historian, Mrs. D. N. Davidson; chaplain, Mrs. E. B. Graves. Charter members of the chapter in addition to the above named officers are Mrs. Marcia Scott White, Mrs. Guyon Grattan, Mrs. W. G. Christain, Mrs. Charles E. Neale, Mrs. George Schlosser, Mrs. Ralph Rainey, and Miss Anna Goodwin Smith.

Mrs. Crist Named Head of P.-T.A. at Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md.—Mrs. L. V. Crist was elected president of the Washington County Council of the Maryland Council of Parents and Teachers, which was organized here by a group of parent-teacher associations.

Other officers elected were Mrs. John Dunn, first vice president; Mrs. M. D. Moore, second vice president; Paul Miller, secretary; Miss Eva Huyett, treasurer. The State organization was represented at the organization meeting by Mrs. M. D. Moore, of Hagerstown, second vice president of the Maryland Council.

Harris Singles Out Four Rookies, Including Diggs, Scrivener

Youngsters Catch Eye Of Pilot

Coppola and Petticolas Rated Equal Chance of Getting Job.

Manager Believes Four Display Promise of Big Leaguers.

By Shirley L. Povich.
A Staff Correspondent.

BILOXI, Miss., March 1.—The appraising eyes of Manager Bucky Harris swept the rolling plains of Biloxi's vast playing field today and singled out as worthy of continued notice four youths among the small army of rookie pitchers who are being boarded here by the Nats.

Attired in baseball shoes and panties topped by a white sweat shirt, Harris plunged into the management of the Nats again after a six-year lapse that saw him serve at Detroit and Boston before being recalled to the scene of his former triumphs by Owner Clark Griffith. Today he was separating the chaff from the wheat with the practiced eye of a veteran manager.

Harris, himself, was the smallest man in uniform on the field, but even in his sweat shirt, his was the unmistakable bearing and carriage of a big-leaguer as contrasted with the awkward gait and stance of the rookies. He was not long in coming up with his decision that only four of the rawest rookie pitchers were displaying sufficient talent to recommend them for future consideration.

Capture Harris' Fancy.

The quartet who captured the fancy of Harris in his brief two hours of inspection this morning are Reese Diggs, Henry Coppola and Frank Petticolas, right-handers, and Archie Scrivener, the diminutive southpaw who graduated to the Nats from the sandlots of Alexandria and the varsity of George Washington University.

Only they displayed the first requisite of a big league pitcher, described by Harris and Owner Clark Griffith as proper "action." In the manner of their delivery, they impressed both Harris and Griffith in contrast to the other hopefuls whose style of pitching embodied from one to a half dozen fundamental and rudimental flaws.

In this latter group are Dick Lanahan, the former Eastern High School and NRA star, and the other former sandlotters, Hugh Mulcahey and Robert Etts. A lack of freedom in Lanahan's motion was easily visible and his short stride also caused Harris and Griffith to put him under the wing of Coach Nick Altrock.

Coppola, Petticolas, Scrivener and Diggs are classed in the second flight of rookies as distinguished from the first flight comprised of such as Syd Cohen, Leon Pettit, Orville Armsbrust and Ray Prim, who have seen much service in the minor leagues.

Cohen, Pettit, Armbrust and Prim can hardly be regarded in the light of regular additions to the Nats' staff in view of their records, but the four youngsters who impressed Harris today can not yet be catalogued in view of their meager experience, and if the Nats are to produce a young sensation

Cunningham Vies At 1,000 Yards

Meets Dawson, Brown at Kansas City Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, March 1.—Three leading middle-distance stars—Glenn Cunningham, Glen Dawson, of Tulsa, Okla., and Elton Brown, of Pittsburg, Kans.—will meet in a 1,000-yard race at the Kansas City Athletic Club's winter track and field carnival tomorrow night.

A three-quarter-mile duel had been arranged between Cunningham, holder of the world mile record, and Charles Hornbostel, Indiana half miler. Club officials cancelled this, they said, because Hornbostel was "not in good enough condition."

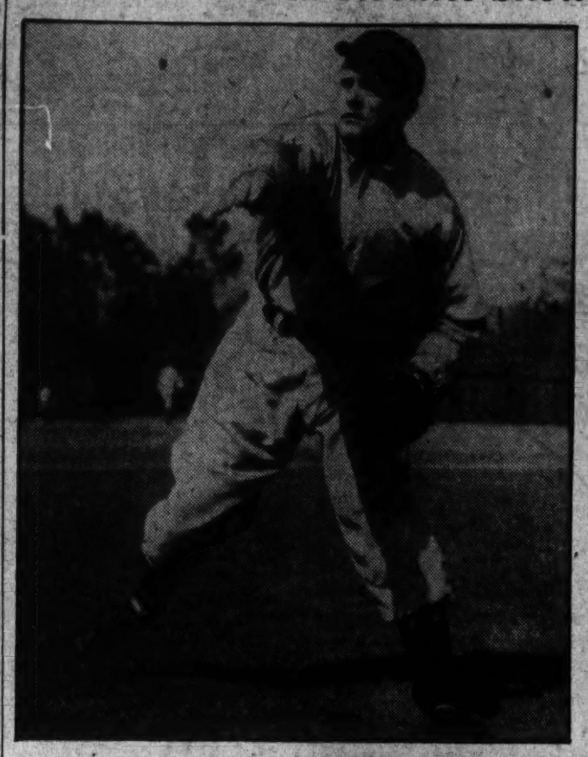
Nat Rookies Show Pep in Workouts



Stewart Now No. 1 Holdout Of Nats

Pitcher Fails to Report; Disregards 2 Offers; Burke in Fold.

By a Staff Correspondent.

BILOXI, Miss., March 1.—Pitcher Walter Stewart has projected himself to the forefront of the Washington club's hold-out brigade by the simple expedient of doing nothing.

Whereas Earl Whitehill is believed to have virtually capitulated to a $9,500 offer and Stewart is maintaining an ominous silence at his Crossville (Tenn.) home.

He has already refused both the original and a second salary offer made by Griffith and the Nat owner's latest overtures have met with no answer whatever. Stewart's last reply to Griffith two weeks ago was a curt, "I want more money."

Being a pitcher, Stewart is in a better position to make demands upon Griffith. Despite his poor season last year, which ordinarily would hasten him toward signing a 1935 contract, Stewart recognizes the Nats need all the pitching talent they can muster and is operating from that vantage point.

Fails to Appear.

With the other veteran pitchers, Stewart was ordered to report today, but failed to put in an appearance, lending credence to the probability that he is a full-fledged hold-out and thus subject to fine and suspension.

Bobby Burke managed to arrive here tonight just before the dining room closed and before the evening was over had signed his 1935 contract.

Griffith left a profitable pinochle game to point out to Burke the wisdom of signing and the pair were closeted only for a few minutes before the pact was consummated.

As usual Griffith refused to divulge the salary terms, but admitted it was "close to $7,000." That figure represents Burke's top salary during his nine-year career with the Nats which has seen him slide as far down the wage scale as $4,000 in poor years.

Only Two Missing.

With Jack Russell among the late arrivals and Irving Hadley, Ed Linke and Alec McColl expected hourly, the only two pitchers now A. W. O. L. are Whitehill and Stewart.

The Nats' owner says he is not alarmed at the delay in receiving the signed contracts of Shortstop Lyn Lary and First Baseman Joe Kuhel, who are not subject to penalty unless they fail to report on March 10.

The boys are beginning to get a bit more action into their endeavors at Biloxi as candidates for this year's Senator squad find muscles responding more quickly to the demands of the diamond. Above, left, is Orville Arbrust, hurler from Chattanooga, testing his good right arm. At his right is Jack Redmond, rookie catcher, participating in "pepper" drill. Below, Frankie Baxter is being taken for a ride——but it's all in fun—with Bob Etts and Hughie Mulcahy doing the propelling.

Grant Will Meet Hall For Bermuda Net Title

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 1 (U.P.).—Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, diminutive Atlanta tennis player, and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., today advanced to the finals in the singles of the Bermuda championships.

Grant defeated R. D. Murray, Montreal, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2. Hall defeated Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

Steal Show at Lexington, Sending 5 Men Each Into Finals.

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 1.—Washington and Lee and Virginia Military Institute stole the show here tonight in the semifinal bouts of the Southern Conference wrestling tournament, and as a result each of the Lexington schools will have five men in the finals tomorrow night.

However, both of Duke University's two men, Stevenson at 118 and Ardolino at 145, won their bouts and will compete for final honors along with two from N. C. State, one from Virginia Tech and one from North Carolina University.

Rowland Thomas, of the Generals tonight took a comparatively easy fall from Chambers, of Virginia Tech in 4 minutes and 51 seconds, the second time today he pinned an opponent.

Victor Over Bell.

Going into the tourney as titleholder in the 118 class two years ago, he gained a speedy fall over Bell, of North Carolina State this afternoon in the preliminaries.

Stevenson, of Duke, struggled to a scant time decision over Umstead in t18 class tonight for the only upset, other favorites winning.

The matches tonight were unusually evenly balanced, with Arenz, of Washington and Lee getting the heaviest advantage, piling up 9 minutes 31 seconds over Travis, of Virginia Military.

Champion Below Form In U. S. Bird Dog Trials

Grand Junction, Tenn., March 1 (AP).—Noria's Annie started well and finished in fine fashion, but her three-hour performance in the national bird dog championship field trials today was below that which won the title for her in 1934.

The little black and white pointer from the kennels of W. C. Tagle, New York, had her last year's handler, Chesley Harris, Hayneville, Ala., but she gave him trouble.

Intercollegiate Track Meet Tonight Rated Open Affair

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—One of the closest fights in years for individual titles and team points was forecast tonight as 250 Eastern college athletes put in their final training licks for the fourteenth annual intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor track and field championships in the Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

No less than six teams are given a chance to rush off with the championship won by Manhattan last year in a surprise upset of a favored Yale array.

The Kelly Green Shirts, with a well-balanced squad again, are listed as a leading contender this year with Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Yale and N. Y. U. not far behind.

Cornell has only met Yale in dual competition, with the big red team the victor, but the stars of the other schools have had warm-up races in the big indoor fixtures of the winter, especially Manhattan. It is estimated that anything over 20 points should win.

In the race for individual titles, favorites are established only in the pole vault, the sprint and the 1,500-meter run. Ben Johnson and Sam Maniaci, of Columbia, are figured to run one-two in the 50-meter dash, Keith Brown is the class of the pole vaulters and Gene Venzke is a hot choice to take the 1,500. Venzke, if he is pushed, is capable of lowering the meet record of 3:57.4 set by Bill Bonthron in winning last year. Brown will be shooting for his own meet mark of 14 feet seven-eighths inch.

Henry (Monk) Little, William and Mary's sole entrant, in the broad jump, and big Henry Dreyer, of Rhode Island State, in the 35-pound weight throw, also are favored to defend their I. C. A. A. A. A. indoor titles, but by no wide margin. The relays, the high jump, 3,000 meter run, shot put and hurdles are figured to be wide open.

The hurdles field is one of the fastest in years, with Walter Merwin, of Cornell, surprise winner last year, faced by such outstanding timber toppers as Pessoni, of Manhattan; Green and Hayes, of Harvard; Good, of Bowdoin; Fatseas and Noerager, of N. Y. U., and Henderson, of Northeastern.

New track arrangements have been made, the confusing "double" track of last year having been replaced by a broad board saucer 150 meters round and 18 feet wide. A staggered start will be used for the relays and the 1,500 and 3,000 meter races to avoid crowding at the turns.

Londos Fails to Meet Foe and Is Suspended

New York, March 1 (AP).—Jim Londos, generally recognized as the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, today was suspended indefinitely by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The suspension was in line with the recent action of the California Commission, which set Londos down for failure to go through with a match last Wednesday.

Reds' Holdout Worries Eased as Two Sign Up

Frisch Due Today.

Bradenton, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Manager Frank Frisch will lead his St. Louis Cardinal batterymen into town tomorrow morning and spring practice will start.

Boxing Is Crooked From Top To Bottom—Unlike Others

By Paul GaHico.
A Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A gentleman who used to promote fights and I were fanning the other afternoon, and he expressed himself as puzzled over the essential crookedness of the box fighting business. It always has been crooked and always will be. But apparently the beauty of boxing's crookedness is that it isn't just crooked in one or two departments such as fixed fights, or an occasional fixed referee, but it is crooked usually right from top to bottom.

My friend admitted that the phenomenon really puzzled him. He pointed to the banking business, for instance where 1,000 or so men will be employed handling millions of dollars. And the cheat or the crook is an exception. In professional boxing, apparently it is the honest man who is the exception. The boys begin the practice of larceny right at the top, and it runs in many cases right down through the organization to the doorman and ticket-taker.

There is, for instance, in operation in a neighboring State one of the most complete systems in vogue I have ever heard of. The outfit begins by chiseling the Federal Government of as much of the tax money as it can. The State is next

Gomez Back, Yanks' First Holdout

Offered $13,500, Same as Last Year; Irked, He Asks $27,000.

Barrow Boosts Figure, but Fails to Get Slab Star to Sign.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Vernon (El Goofy) Gomez, ace southpaw of the New York Yankees, came back from a world tour today, glanced at the figures in his 1935 contract, rushed down town for a heated session with Ed Barlow, business manager, and then proclaimed in purest Castillian that he is the spring's first Yankee hold-out.

Last season Gomez received $13,500 for leading the American League pitchers, both in games won and lost and general effectiveness. He was offered the same salary to try and repeat this year.

The pow wow with Barrow got him nowhere, he said, and he has definitely canceled his plans to go South for spring training until some sort of an adjustment is made.

Asked for $27,000.

"I asked for a two-year contract at $27,000 a year," Gomez said, "and they turned me down. I don't know what the next move is. I may have to go to Col. Ruppert. I haven't had a raise in three years and I feel I've got a big one coming. If I don't get the money when I'm going good, when can I expect to cash in?"

After talking with the lean portsider for 30 minutes, Barrow announced:

"I have made him a mighty good proposition. He is going home, talk it over with his wife and let me know tomorrow."

Will Decide Himself.

To which Gomez snorted:

"I am the pitcher in the family—not my wife. And as long as I'm doing the pitching I'll do the deciding for myself."

Barrow's offer is understood to include a two-year contract at between $15,000 and $20,000 a year. At any rate, Gomez said it was not big enough and he has no intention of accepting it. It is believed his lowest figure is $20,000 for a two-year stretch.

The Yankee ace is 15 pounds heavier than when he left on a barnstorming tour with the other big league stars last October. He had planned to leave Sunday with Mrs. Gomez, the former June O'Dea, for the Yankee camp at St. Petersburg.

Ruth Busy With Taxes.

Meanwhile, Babe Ruth, who leaves Sunday to take up his manifold duties as vice president, assistant manager, outfielder and general big shot of the Boston Braves, spent a hectic day surrounded by tax experts getting his income taxes in order.

The great man leaves Sunday for St. Petersburg to report to Manager Bill McKechnie. He said his tremendous reception in Beantown yesterday gave him one of the greatest thrills of his long career.

Jones and Burke Win Golf Match

Defeat Horton Smith and Laffoon by One Up.

By the United Press.

Bellaire, Fla., March 1.—Bobby Jones paired with Billy Burke in a four-ball exhibition match here today against Horton Smith and Ky Laffoon and won, 1 up, when Smith missed an 18-foot putt on the last green for a half.

The match was a curtain raiser for the annual West Coast Golf championship which starts tomorrow.

Jones and Burke had a best ball of 68, while Laffoon and Smith had 69. Jones had an individual score of 74, Burke 71 and Smith 73.

Marian Miley to Play Jean Bauer for Title

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Marian Miley, Lexington, Ky., and Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., play 18 holes of golf tomorrow for the South Atlantic women's title, which Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, did not defend this year.

The Kentucky champion gained the final by a 5-and-4 victory over Mrs. William Hockinjos, Lake Hopatcong, N. J. The Rhode Island star eliminated the Georgia State champion, Mrs. S. B. Lippitt, Albany, by the same score.

Ruth's Transfer Finest Move In Baseball, Says Col. Huston

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, March 1.—The deal that sent George Herman Ruth to the Boston Braves is "the finest thing that could happen to baseball, especially the National League," says Col. Tillinghast L. Huston, the man who put a Yankee uniform on the Babe.

Col. Huston, who has retired to his estate on Butler Island, near Brunswick, Ga., was instrumental in getting Ruth with the New York Americans from the Boston Red Sox when he owned a half interest in the Yankees.

"The greatest thing that ever happened to baseball," said the colonel, who is here attending a meeting of vegetables growers, "was our purchase of Ruth in the fall of 1919. He never would have developed as he did had he not been in New York.

"Had you noticed one little feature?" asked the colonel. "Ed Barrow, who really influenced the Yankee owner to let Ruth go, was the manager of the Boston Red Sox when we bought Ruth. So, really, he let him go twice.

"They talk about Babe Ruth's value to baseball. This is an illustration. If he can play 100 games this year he will help all National League clubs to make money.

Louis Begins Work For Barry Battle

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, March 1.—Joe Louis, dusky Detroit Negro who hopes some day to jar Max Baer loose from his crown, began training today for his ten-round bout next Friday with "Red" Barry, Washington (D. C.) battler.

The occasion attracted a capacity crowd. The newest heavyweight notable put on a pleasing performance to give the impression Barry is due for a tough evening a week hence.

W. & L. Defeats Duke, 31-27, In Tourney

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 1.—Washington and Lee's Generals, defending champions, advanced to the final round of the Southern Conference basket ball trounament by defeating the Duke Blue Devils here tonight, 31 to 27.

The Generals will meet North Carolina's White Phantoms, winners in the semifinal round by a 30-to-28 margin over North Carolina State's Red Terrors, tomorrow night for the title.

Washington and Lee got away fast and held the lead throughout the first period. Duke started its shock troops, but the regulars went in after eight minutes with the Virginians leading, 6 to 1.

The Blue Devil passing was at times erratic and the Generals battled every minute for the ball. During the first half, which closed 16-10, the Generals ran in six field goals and four fouls, while Duke was getting four from the floor and two from the free stripe.

Duke put on a charge as the second half opened and pulled up into a 17-17 tie five minutes later. The Duke regulars were put back in after nine minutes of play, but the Generals matched them in every way and went ahead on field baskets by Pette and Fields.

Sir Malcolm Ready for Test Run

By Edward J. Neil.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 1.—The tension is off Sir Malcolm Campbell, for he's driving Bluebird on the racing sands tomorrow.

The beach is smooth again. While he's about it, he'll probably shove the throttle to the floor and shoot for fulfillment of his racing dream—300 miles an hour.

But for the two persons closest to him, the pressure is only starting. Lady Campbell, his wife, is taut, nervous. Little Jean, their daughter, 11 years old, drops her cards as she plays rummy in the hotel lobby with the grandfatherly old Odis Porter, the official timer, who has taught her this strictly American game in the month they've been waiting.

Moods Are Reversed.

For the past month it's been Sir Malcolm, the 50-year-old titled Englishman who can't get speed out of his blood, who has been nervous, restless, taut as a string on a fiddle. Lady Campbell has sunned herself on the corrugated beach, has been swimming daily, has played bridge nightly, enjoying to the utmost the second visit she has made here with Sir Malcolm.

Little Jean, pert, freckled, friendly, has concentrated on her rummy lessons, her table tennis, at which she beats most of the men she plays, and learning American slang and idioms. She has developed amazingly at all three.

Now, with the next three days almost certain to hold the answer to Campbell's hopes, even his life, as he sends the 2,500-horsepowered rebuilt Bluebird thundering down the sands after his own 272-mile-an-hour record, Sir Malcolm is easy. The waiting, the daily examinations of a hopeless beach that stubbornly refused to give in to him are over. All he has

Abel's St. Moritz, $7.10 Shot, Wins by Two Lengths at Hialeah

Victor Never Seriously Periled

Billy Bee Runs Second; All But One Entered in Florida Derby.

By the Associated Press.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., March 1. St. Moritz, which Owner-Trainer-Rider A. J. "Whitey" Abel thought well enough of to make a supplementary entry to the Florida Derby after his last race, gave his owner considerable satisfaction in wininng the Fort Dallas Park Purse here today. The gelded son of St. James—Feminist led from flagfall to finish of the 1-mile distance, scoring, without being fully extended, by two length in 1:38 flat.

The Detroit-owned Billy Bee, from the Bomar Stable, was just as easily second over Sun Fairplay, representing the Fairfields Stable of Mrs. W. S. Kilmer. Of the six starters, all but Beaver Dam were named for the local Derby. St. Moritz was third choice to Sun Fairplay and Billy Bee in a close betting affair, paying $7.10.

Abel hustled St. Moritz into a daylight lead and then sat still, never being seriously menaced thereafter. Sun Fairplay and Lady Wisdom were closest in pursuit until Billy Bee was rushed up by Wayne Wright rounding out of the back stretch. The Detroit hopeful was unable to make up an inch on the winner although obviously next best.

Crowd Gets Scare.

The crowd received a scare before the running of the first race, for 2-year-old platers at three furlongs. J. P. Ebelhardt's filly, Mary Carmen, got loose on the way to the post and ducked through the outside rail, which enforced the withdrawal of the horse. Jockey Bobby Merritt, complaining of his left side hurting, canceled later mounts but it was believed that no serious injuries were suffered. The horse being in the hands of the starter, no money could be refunded to holders of tickets on Mary Carmen.

The winner turned up in Deliberate, not to be confused with the unbeaten Deliberator, which took a quick lead and drove home by a length and a half to pay $9.60. The colt was coupled with Wise King. Two Edged, a field horse, earned second money by a like margin over Victorious Ann.

Four Noses Apart.

Four horses finished noses apart in the second event. The judges gave Impromptu, the $4.40 choice, the nod, with Walkalong, River Rose and Dancing Lady following. Walkalong, which paid $26.90 for place, appeared from the press box to have gotten up on the outside. Impromptu wore down Dancing Lady, one that stole a wide early lead, and just lasted to survive the hectic finish.

That grand old plater, Judge Shilling, still giving his best at the tender age of 10, showed that he had another winning effort in his system in the six-furlong third race. With Wayne Wright to guide him, the gelded son of Hand Grenade was up to beat the good thing, Prince Comixa, by a length. Romola was a lightly regarded third. Prince Comixa, making his first appearance since last June at Aqueduct, ran into an apparently safe advantage over the old Judge, but faltered in the closing strides as his aged rival gamely drew away to pay $8.50.

Cristate Is Winner.

Cristate, claimed out of his last race from the Greentree Stable for $2,500 by G. W. Ogle, hooked up with his former stablemate, Currants, and easily led the latter home in the fourth race. Wayne Wright made it two in a row astride the winner, which scored by five lengths at the short odds of $3.20 for $2. Dancing Spirit lost the place by three parts of a length. Wayne Wright rated Cristate off Currants' pace to the head of the stretch. The favorite then galloped into a commanding lead.

Stickhandle, a 4-to-1 shot, ran more like a 1-to-4 favorite in the next to closing affair. The colt came flying out of the mile chute in a poor start, ran his field groggy and won by five lengths in 1:38. Bounding Count made the others appear just as bad, earning the runner-up position by four lengths. Grandpas Boy, the favorite, never could improve over third position.

Dear Al: Hialeah Race Track, March 1.

An ambitious program is being mapped for this track next year. President Joseph E. Widener says the Florida Derby will be increased from $15,000 to $20,000, the Widener Challenge Cup from $3,000 to $10,000 and the Joseph McLennan Memorial Handicap will have a new figure of $5,000 instead of the usual $3,000. The program calls for an increase of $45,000 in the amount to be distributed among the horsemen. George Cassidy, the starter here, will move over to Tropical Park in the same capacity when this meeting closes on March 9. J. E. Smallman purchased the horse Last Time from J. Fred Adams today. I understand that the track may discard the present mile chute, which places the start out of sight of most of the cash customers. Two winners scored for Bennings, Inc., today, but they were a pair of chalk hounds. BILL.

First race—Gentle Knight has all the earmarks of a winning favorite in the day's opener. All needed is a good ride from Jockey Winters. Ridge Mor may run better with a little price attached to him. Postscript should hold the others safe for the show.

Second race—Sun Monk, my friend, meets a lot of speedy opposition here, but it looks as if Coucci will ride. I'm stringing along. Golden Fate and Cathop, a pair of fit horses, should complete the money bracket.

Third race—Aegis and Frederick should battle it out for the chief award in this sort of competition. I prefer them in the order named. Ding Bin is on the improve and will be ready to move up if the top ones make mistakes.

Fourth race—Hi-Nelli gets the call over the leading juveniles quartered at this course. She has shown a world of speed and gets under way quickly. The break will count a lot here. Clocker Mike recommends Step Miss. Flopsie for the show.

Fifth race—Stand Pat is the likely favorite in this field and I'm not going to try to beat him. Howard and New Deal, the Araho Stable entry, will be there or thereabouts at the finish. Late Date for the minor award.

Sixth race—Brindle's stretch rush should serve him well in this race. Wright does the riding. Right Rank and Dancing Cloud figure to have something to say about the purse distribution.

Seventh race—Brass Monkey has raced himself into excellent form and should garner another set of brackets tomorrow. Fairly Wild and Big Show for the place and show.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IMPROMPTU, $4.40, $4.40, $3.80; WALKALONG, $26.90, $17.60; RIVER ROSE, $11.10.

IMPROMPTU followed pace closely and just lasted to win. WALKALONG closed with a rush on the outside and appeared to have won. RIVER ROSE was well up all the way. DANCING LADY displayed a bit of speed, but weakened right at end. VICTORIUM finished with a rush on inside but was shut off by horses that had been blocked at the finish. TRUE CHARM was hard ridden all the way.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Claiming price, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:39½. Winner, F. E. Kraft's br. g. (10), by Hand Grenade—Runnura. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUDGE SCHILLING, $8.50, $4.00, $4.10; PRINCE COMIXA, $2.90; $2.80; ROMOLA, $8.10.

JUDGE SCHILLING broke fast, was rated along back of the pace, closed gamely and won drawing away. PRINCE COMIXA opened wide gap early, but tired badly as if short. ROMOLA was keen factor from the start. IDLE ALONG ran a fair race. AILEEN C. closed some ground.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs (out of chute). Purse, $1,000. Graded Handicap C. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:09. Off at 4:11. Winner, G. W. Ogle's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CRISTATE, $3.20, $2.40, $2.20; CURRANTS, $3.60, $2.80; DANCING SPIRIT, $2.40.

CRISTATE was much the best. He was rated along back of the pace, moved up and into lead in stretch, drew away and won nicely in hand. CURRANTS broke running, displayed good speed, but tired badly in stretch and had to be driven out to land the place. DANCING SPIRIT closed well up, closed gamely under a hard drive. SEAWICK was never a factor. SHOW BOY performed poorly.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $1,000. The Fort Dallas Park. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:40½. Winner, A. J. Abel's b. g. (3), by St. James—Feminist. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:38.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. MORITZ, $7.10, $3.50, $2.30; BILLY BEE, $3.40, $2.40; SUN FAIRPLAY, $2.60.

ST. MORITZ, running in his best form, was sent to the front soon after the start and, well ridden, drew away easily. He was running out through the stretch. BILLY BEE took keen factor from the start and was next best. SUN FAIRPLAY, well up all the way, had no mishap. BEAVER DAM moved up with a rush in run down back stretch, but was blocked and forced down. He never recovered. TEAROUT failed to close any ground. LADY WISDOM had speed for half a mile.

SIXTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $1,000. Claiming prices, $2,000 to $1,500. For 3-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:13½. Winner, Peconic Stable's b. c. (3), by Cohort—Bogie. Trained by E. Hayward. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:38.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STICKHANDLE, $10.00, $5.40, $3.40; BOUNDING COUNT, $9.30, $4.60; GRANDPAS BOY, $3.20.

STICKHANDLE beat the gate quickly, opened a wide lead and, rated along to stretch, drew away again winning nicely in hand. BOUNDING COUNT moved up very fast around turn on inside and flinished gamely. GRANDPAS BOY, well up in early part, stopped fast in stretch. GOOD CHEER came from far back. MISS ELEGANCE had good speed for six furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800. Claiming price, $1,200. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:44½. Off at 5:45. Winner, E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RELATIVITY, $34.90, $12.90, $4.70; LUCULENT, $4.30, $2.80; TRUE SENTIMENT, $3.00.

RELATIVITY was under restraint, attempted to go through around turn, but was blocked. He was eased back and finally got through on turn. He closed with a rush and was up to win in final stride. LUCULENT was sent to the front early and, rated along, held on gamely. TRUE SENTIMENT, well up throughout. Had no mishap. SOUND MONEY ran a good race. FLAG WAVE showed flash of speed.

Strike Averted At Oaklawn Track

By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Mar. 1.—A threatened strike of stable owners at Oaklawn race track was averted this afternoon with announcement by Ed L. Farris, secretary of the State racing commission, that "all differences" had been adjusted.

Operators of the track agreed to card daily five races for purses of $500 each and two others for $400 each. Previously, there had been six $400 races and one $500 race daily, prompting a demand for larger stakes.

Hezekiah Highfill, chairman of the commission, called a meeting after the list of entries for tomorrow's program was not forthcoming at the usual hour this morning. Eugene Bury, racing secretary of the club, said he had no entry list, but would make an announcement later.

Douglass Hotchkiss, a member of the commission and secretary of the Hot Springs Business Men's Racing Association, which sponsored the recently enacted pari-mutuel betting law, met with the stable owners at noon. He took their representatives before the commission with representatives of Charles Cella, of St. Louis, principal owner of the track.

Brilliant Pal,

Maryland Faces St. John's on Court, Army in Ring Tonight

Other Events On Annual Program

Despite Injuries, Terps Are Rated Equal With West Pointers.

MARYLAND'S second annual All-University Night program will be staged tonight in Ritchie Coliseum with the Old Line basket ball, boxing and trackmen supplying the athletic features of the card. Maryland meets St. John's, of Annapolis, in basket ball, and Army in boxing.

The lengthy program, which will be crammed into three and a half hours if possible, will start at 7:30 o'clock with the basket ball game. The boxing match will get under way at approximately 10 o'clock, while the trackmen will participate in exhibition hurdle and sprint races.

Rate on Equal Terms.

While riddled by injuries, the Terrapins still rate on equal terms with Army, although West Point's only defeat in four matches was inflicted by Western Maryland. The Cadets must get by "Stew" McCaw, Conference light-heavyweight titleholder, Johnny Gormely, hard-hitting light-heavy, and a couple of other capable boys to win.

With Nedomatsky on the sidelines will be Lyman McAboy, who went to the finals in the 155-pound class of the recent Conference tournament, and Al Farrell, heavyweight, who has been handicapped this season by a broken nose suffered in football.

Favored on Court.

Maryland is expected to win in ...et ball although not by a run-... score. The Old Liners are ex-...ncing their most disastrous ... in recent years and have ... only seven games, but they appear to have enough to whip the Johnnies. The return of Ed Lambross, star forward to St. John's line-up, has strengthened it for the fray, while all of Maryland's squad will be available.

Other events on the program include an exhibition drill by the R. O. T. C., wall scaling, singing by the Glee Club, dancing and a one-act playlet.

The boxing line-up:

Army	Wgt.	Maryland.
Bill Beard	115	Jimmy Young
John Dick	125	Tom Birmingham
Bill Meany	135	Joe Jones
Bill Connor	145	Walter Webb
Carroll Basby	155	Mike Lombardo
Kent Parrott	165	Stewart McCaw
Russell Janzan	175	John Gormley
Bob Stillman	Heavyweight	John Birkland

Boxing Is Crooked All Way Through

in line for swindling. Then the boys palm tickets so as to give the fighters a false count on the total sale so that the fighters' percentage will be less. Then they borrow the receipts out of the boxoffice, use it to stiffen the referee, a quaint term applied to the plain business proposition of buying his decision for a particular fight, and bet the money they have borrowed on their fighter, knowing that their referee will not render the verdict against them.

The only way they can lose is to have their man knocked out, in which case the referee, if he can, will call a foul and save the dough. Otherwise, I hear, the operation of the fights is perfectly honest and everybody gets a square shake.

However, there is no reason to suppose that the boys stop there, because there is still much to be done. If the matchmaker isn't getting a kickback from the fighters, he is overlooking the most common form of graft in boxing, and if the box-office men aren't getting a rake-off from the specs for the preferred seats, why, then they are just novices.

If the doorman and ticket takers aren't passing in their friends for nothing, or strangers for 50 cents or a dollar, they are overlooking some small change, and if the ushers aren't selling seats on the side, they are just plain amateur ushers. And if the local politicians are not getting a rake-off on the whole business, then they ought to be made to stop being politicians and go to work, because they do not know their business.

Then, of course, there will also be the newspaper fix to get publicity and the phony fix racket in which the mobman or wise guy tells the incoming fighter that for $200 he can take care of the press for favorable publicity. The $200 goes into the pocket of the mobman and the newspaper boys get the rep. And if there isn't short changing going on at the box office, why then the ticket sellers don't know their business.

Now, strangely, this wholesale cheating seems to be confined almost entirely to boxing. Occasionally in other sports or amusement business there will be a little petty larceny here and there with tickets, or with specs, or with tax statements, but in nowhere but boxing is there the complete depravity from top to bottom that there is in boxing. Somehow there seems to be something about prize fighting that is completely demoralizing. The boys wouldn't do those things around baseball or tennis or bike racing.

Follows, Track Star, Defies His Appendix

By Lewis F. Atchison.

IT will take more than a mere case of chronic appendicitis to keep John W. (Bill) Follows out of competition the rest of this winter, the Nation's outstanding two-miler let it be known yesterday.

As a matter of fact, Follows' appendix had behaved beautifully until recently when an examination revealed that an operation will be necessary. But Follows will not consent to one until after the indoor track campaign.

His decision to finish out the season—against his physician's advice—strikingly demonstrates the ironclad determination and aggressiveness that has marked his ascendance to the top flight in track. A graduate of Wisconsin, with honors from Cornell and Oxford, where he took his Doctor of Philosophy degree, Follows' saga reads like a page torn from an Alger novel.

Golf Favorite Sport.

Briefly, he went in for track only because he tired of being a "nobody" at Wisconsin and actually does not care for racing. His favorite sport is golf wherein his score is usually in the 80's. Last year he toiled as a receiving clerk in New York for a paltry $15 per week, but managed to save $400 and had decided to embark on a world tour junket when an advertisement caught his eye.

He successfully applied for the position—staff writer for The American Observer, a journal of political science, abandoned plans for the tour and came to this city to assume his new duties. He trains at the Hilltop with Georgetown's trackmen.

At Oxford, Follows was a teammate of Jack Lovelock, the crack British runner. The two were coached by Bill Thomas, who taught Follows the long, smooth stride that has carried him to victory so often. It was Thomas, too, who drilled into him the knack of finishing with a burst of speed that is characteristic of Follows' stretch runs.

Greatest Victory.

His greatest victory was scored in the annual Oxford-Cambridge meet when he defeated Lieut. Edward Dennison, the favorite. Observers thought that this race—a 3-mile event—would decide the meet, but one of Follows' teammates was upset in a shorter race and he was robbed of the thrill of winning for dear old Oxford.

Follows' most recent victories were in the National A. A. U. senior 5,000-meters run and 2-mile contest at Boston. He thinks that this will be his last season on the boards. Next year he intends to devote all of his time to writing and to achieving his mark as an expert political observer.

Monday's Card Is Completed By Ahearn

Quigley to Face Bochenic; Promoter Moves to Avoid Slip-up.

THERE will be no disappointments on Monday night's boxing card at the Washington Auditorium if Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn can help it. Upon rounding out his scheduled 32-round show yesterday by signing Jack Quigley, local welterweight, to oppose Felix Bochenic, Baltimore Pole, in a four-rounder, Ahearn announced that two sets of preliminary boys also will be held in readiness to step into the ring in case of accident or if one of the shorter subjects proves disappointing.

"There's extra expense attached, of course, but the public is entitled to this protection," Ahearn declared. "I think I've got one of the classiest cards this town has had since boxing's been legalized. And you can bet your life there won't be any slip-ups in this one.

May Spring Upset.

Although duly impressed by the formidability of Jackie Davis, who is scheduled to duel Phil Furr in the ten-round main event, Ahearn yesterday insisted that Furr stands an excellent chance of surprising.

"Furr will be a 50 per cent better fighter with managerial troubles eliminated," Goldie maintained, "and he has shown vast improvement in recent starts despite these handicaps."

Mt. Savage Five Bows In Last Minute, 36-34

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Mount Savage, Md., March 1.—P. Catlett's seventh field goal of the game, 15 seconds before the final whistle, gave the Berkeley Springs (W. Va.) Athletic Club a 36-to-34 victory over the Mount Savage Ramblers in a hard-fought battle at Mullaney's Hall.

With a minute left to play, Vince Miller's goal tied the score at 34-34 and then Catlett gave the visitors a victory over a sensational shot from mid-floor.

Sharkey Takes Piano Lessons; Says, 'But Don't Get Me Wrong'

By the United Press.

BOSTON, March 1.—Jack Sharkey, the former heavyweight boxing champion, is taking piano lessons.

The bix ex-sailor said so himself tonight, leaning across the counter of his North End beer tavern. Something of a leer replaced Jack's good-natured grin as he remarked:

"But don't get me wrong, brother."

Convinced that he wasn't being misunderstood, Jack went on to explain that he always had an ear for music.

"For the past 20 years," he said, "I've got a great kick out of picking tunes out on the piano with one hand. Now that I have the time and the money I'm finding the study of music a great hobby. I'm beginning to see how much I missed by not starting sooner."

So that was it! The strains of piano music coming, with increasing finesse, from the Sharkey residence in Chestnut Hill weren't being played by Jack's children, but by himself—Sharkey, the businessman-boxer, the model husband and father, who at 32 is said to have a yearly income of $60,000.

Jack disclosed that for considerably more than a year a woman piano teacher has been coming to his home to give him lessons.

"It seemed childish at first, learning all those simple scales and finger exercises. But now, seriously, I've got to the stage where I can play from the operas, Chopin, Melody in F, and works of that caliber. I don't know how to pronounce all their names, but I'm getting along fairly well with their music."

Race Driver Dies.

Los Angeles, March 1 (AP).—James "Speedy" Lockwood, driver of a midget racing car, died today of injuries received in a collision at Gilmore Stadium last night.

G. U. Frosh Five Choice Over Eastern

High School Is Weakened by Loss of Edelen for Tilt Today.

CRIPPLED by the loss of their all-high forward, Gay Edelen, who is recovering from a case of grip, Eastern's interhigh champions enter this afternoon's basket ball classic at Tech against the Georgetown Freshmen no longer with an even chance of winning, but still a particularly dangerous underdog.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Receipts will be turned over to the Young Peoples Community Clubs by motion of the Board of Education. Admission is 25 cents. Each team has beaten the other once.

To offset a trifle the absence of Edelen, Eastern has perfected some new plays which it has been working out secretly at the Washington Boys Club and is figured to have strengthened its scoring attack by an average of several points per game. This, however, is but partial replacement for the absent Edelen in Coach Charlie Guyon's estimation.

"By golly," said the chief yesterday, "this affects us very bad. This weakens us close to 25 per cent."

Reports for Practice.

If it were up to Edelen, however, Eastern would be going into battle full strength. The brainy, little veteran reported for practice yesterday, getting out of a sick bed to do so, but Coach Guyon would not allow him to put on a uniform.

"It would do him more harm than good," the chief said. "He's weak enough now. He ought to be in bed, anyway. Even his doctor says he shouldn't play. We have got to have him for the Washington and Lee tournament."

In the meantime, Edelen moped around the dressing room making various remarks.

"I'm the one that always gets the hard luck around here," the fast-passing veteran grumbled. "Hard-luck Edelen, that's me. Why I can't even go to the dance tonight because they say my legs are weak."

Sent to Bed Early.

But Edelen was not the only Easterner forced to forego night life last night. Coach Guyon had the whole team accounted for and in bed early. Either Bill Bucholtz or Chick Colley will start in Edelen's place.

The Freshmen, still smarting from the 43 to 35 defeat inflicted upon them by the high school, were disappointed to learn of his loss, feeling it might detract from their victory should they win. Eastern, having been the sole team to beat the Freshmen in 14 games, lost the first game between the teams, 42 to 25, at Tech. Since then, however, Eastern has improved immeasurably, as evidenced in the second game. The Freshmen's great ambition is to rub out that defeat as much as possible by administering one as impressive as possible.

The Freshmen take the floor with a scoring average of 45 points per game, having outscored the opposition, 616 to 279. Their victims have tallied an average of 21 points per game. Eastern, on the other hand, in eight interhigh games has tallied an average of 35 a game, Captain Lavelle Dean and Edelen having scored 96 and 51, respectively.

Shore Trails Dean.

Carroll Shore, former All-High guard at Central and high-scoring Freshman guard, trails Dean in the points-per-game column, with about nine per tussle or 116 in all. Tommy Nolan, with 105 points, averages 7.5 a game and Harry Bassin, a former All-High team mate at Eastern with Nolan, 85 points for about 7 per game.

Kurtyka, all-New Jersey scholastic selection, will start at guard with Red Hardy, all-Maine selection, at center. Buddy Nau, former Central all-high choice, is fighting for Kurtyka's guard assignment along with Tommy Keating, of Georgetown Prep fame.

Easterner's line-up will have Hollidge and either Bucholtz or Colley forwards; Shaner, center, and Dean and Scheible, guards.

Shepherd State Trims Frederick Five, 55-28

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., March 1.—Shepherd State College of Sheperdstown, W. Va., defeated Frederick Blue Ridge Lines before a large crowd at the Parkway School, 55 to 28. Frederick outplayed the West Virginians in the first period, leading by three points. At half-time the count was 16 to 16.

Cumberland Cloakers Defeat Pythians, 34-30

Cumberland, Md., March 1.—The Cumberland Cloakers were forced to play their best brand of basket ball before they nosed out the Cumberland Knights of Pythias at the Central Y. M. C. A., 34 to 30. By winning they tied the Celanese A. A. for first place in the race for the second half championship of the Interstate Basket Ball League.

"Ike" Cessna was the chief scorer for the Cloakers with seven field goals and one free throw for 15 points.

Mounts Defeat Georgetown, 30 to 27

Hoyas Rally Too Late to Save Bitterly-Fought Court Game.

GEORGETOWN'S basket ball fortunes hit a new low last night at Tech High School, where the disorganized Hoyas accepted a 30-27 defeat from an aggressive Mount St. Mary's quintet in their annual battle.

It was a bitterly contested game, with players strewn about the floor like empty-er-milk bottles as Georgetown rallied in the waning minutes of play in a futile effort to overtake its rival. Georgetown missed innumerable shots that lingered on the lip of the basket or popped in and out.

Relying on an unerring brand of marksmanship, Mount St. Mary's stood back and peppered the Hoya net for a 17-9 lead in the first half. Tommy Lynch, a native of Washington; Joe Segadellia, high scorer of the evening by virtue of 12 points, and Ed Hopkins led the Mount's attack.

Rally to Cut Lead.

"Sis" Esenstadt and Ed Bodine, reserves, put Georgetown back in the running in the second half with their bullet-like shots that revived Hoya hopes. It seemed that the Hilltoppers would surely overtake the foe when Ed Hargaden twirled one in from midcourt, bringing the score to 28-25.

But time and Segadellia, who whipped the cords with another pot shot, snuffed out the rally.

Alexandria Bill To Present 3 Games

Special Dispatch to The Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 1.—The Columbia Firemen will be hosts to the Miller Furniture five at the Armory Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Two other contests will be presented for approval of local fans. Fort Hunt's CCC quintet and the Central Seniors open the evening's program in what should prove a closely fought game. Immediately after the Columbia-Miller tiff, the Alexandria Light Infantry team clashes with the Richmond Blues. The local guardsmen defeated the Blues, 29 to 26, in the State Capital last Sunday.

Episcopal High School, best of the prep school basket ball teams hereabouts, performs in its final game of the season tomorrow afternoon at Orange, Va., as the week-end guests of Woodberry Forest.

Coach Maurice Givens will issue a call for Alexandria High School baseball candidates March 11, it was learned today.

The Twins will play only 15 games this season, as compared to 25 contests in previous years. The principal loss is that of Jimmy Titcomb, star portsider, who failed to return to school this year. Eddie Hammersley, first-string twirler from last year's club, and Red McMenniman are expected to bear the burden on the hill.

Sholl's Five Conquers Sleuths, Ties for Lead

Sholl's Cafe and Bureau of Investigation went into a tie for first place in Central High Community Center League last night as the Shollmen avenged their only league defeat by humbling their rivals, 0 to 21. The victory gave each team a record of 14 victories in 15 league starts and set the stage for a playoff to be held at Central at 9 p. m. Monday. Both are foremost contenders for the A. A. U. unlimited championship now held by Sholl's.

Western High Quintet Tops Alexandria, 24-19

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Alexandria, March 1.—Western High brought Alexandria's home season to a close tonight by taking a 24-to19 decision from the Twins at Armory Hall. It was Western's last game of the season and marked the conclusion of the brightest basket ball year the Georgetown school has experienced in many years.

Schaap Checks Collins In First Billiard Upset

Chicago, March 1 (AP).—Arie Schaap, Chicago, produced the first upset of the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament today by trouncing the defending champion, Percy N. Collins, of Chicago, 300 to 199, in 35 innings.

Goodman and Vinson Win Overtime Duels

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—Johnny Goodman, the diminutive Omaha shotmaker whose irons won him the United States Open championship in 1933, called on them against today to save him a berth in the quarter-final round of the fourth annual carnival golf tournament here.

The former open champion rallied brilliantly to turn back Charlie Moore, a Tulane University student who learned his golf at Galveston, Tex., in a stirring match that was settled on the twenty-first green.

The day saw two other extra-hole matches but the favorites generally pulled through.

Johnny Dawson, Husky Chicagoan and pretournament favorite, was off to a shaky start but settled down after eight holes to defeat Gray Little, of Beaumont, Tex., 5 and 4.

Gene Vinson, Meridian (Miss.) star, who won the District championship while a resident of Washington last year, also advanced to the quarter-finals. He eliminated Rudy Schultz, jr., of New Orleans, 1 up on the nineteenth green.

Fred Haas, jr., Southern amateur titlist from New Orleans, conquered R. G. Bush, local player, 3 and 2.

Quarter and semifinals matches will be played tomorrow with the finals scheduled for Sunday.

Mackay Is Due To Be Named Golf Head

FRED J. D. MACKAY, of Richmond, considered one of the best informed men in the country on golf, is due to be elected president of the Middle-Atlantic Golf Association at its annual meeting tonight at the Willard Hotel.

The meeting, which will be attended by officers of the Virginia, Maryland, District and Middle-Atlantic associations, will start at 8 p. m.

Mackay, who has been secretary of the Virginia Association for some 15 years, will be elevated from the first vice presidency. He will succeed George P. James, of Columbia. Walter R. McCallum, veteran Washington Golf and Country Club golfer, is slated to be renamed secretary for the sixteenth time.

Men's Tournament.

Indications are that Princess Anne Country Club, Virginia Beach, Va., scene of the 1931 Middle-Atlantic championship, will be awarded the men's tournament with June 12-15 the dates. The women's event may go to a Baltimore course.

Billy Howell, Richmond star, will attend the meeting as an envoy of the Southern Amateur Association. He will attempt to have all outstanding District clubs join the Southern so as to make their players eligible for the championship in June at Richmond.

Work Is Progressing On New Barton Field

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Barton, Md., March 1.—Work is progressing rapidly on Barton's new playground and athletic field, which is being graded and leveled by local workmen through funds provided by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Robert Smith, a member of the Barton City Council, said today it is hoped to have the field in shape for the opening of the baseball season. The Barton Braves, of the Cumberland and Georges Creek League, expect to play their opening game on the field on May 12.

Navy to Oppose Syracuse's Ringmen

Dual Meet Tonight Will Top 10-Event Card at Annapolis.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1.—Boxing with Syracuse, swimming and water polo with Yale, and wrestling with University of Pittsburgh will be the outstanding contests in a program of ten events in which Navy athletic teams will be engaged tomorrow.

The boxing match will be staged tomorrow night, all of the other events being run off during the afternoon. Syracuse and Virginia are the only teams ever to trim the Navy mittmen in dual meets. The Orange, present intercollegiate champion, has turned the trick twice, and the Cavaliers three times.

Syracuse is said to have a well-balanced troupe of mitt slingers. The Orange line-up will be topped off by a mammoth heavyweight, James (Tiny) Brown, 245-pounder, who is reported to be fast as well as tough. He will exchange punches with Slade Cutter, Navy ace and knockout specialist.

Tankmen Seek Crown.

Navy natators will make a determined bid to wrest from Yale the intercollegiate championship crown it has held for the last decade, but it would seem only a hope, notwithstanding two stellar performers in Jimmy Stevens and Joe Plichta, a speedy relay team, and strong entries in most of the events. The Tars may annex the polo match, however. Navy also should defeat the Pitt Panthers in the mat contest.

The other varsity contests on the card will be fencing, also with Yale, and a small-bore rifle match with Lehigh. The Navy Plebes will compete in a quartet of contests as follows:

Swimming and polo with University of Pennsylvania freshmen, wrestling with Blair Academy, of Blairstown, N. J., and gymnastics with Emerson High School, of Union City, N. J.

4 Cards Making Final Ring Appearances in Carnegie Bouts.

CATHOLIC University's ringmen make their last stand of the season on home ground tonight at Brookland, where the Cardinal clouters trade wallops with Carnegie Tech at 8:30 o'clock, and the occasion will mark the final appearance in the Brookland ring of several of Coach Eddie La Fond's best men.

Capt. Eddie Thibideau, lightweight; "Red" Fleming, the big and colorful light-heavyweight; Tom Oliver, 155 pounds; Angy Restaino, 125 pounds—all undefeated with the exception of Thibideau—are scheduled to graduate in June, and the boys are determined to bow out with a knockout win, if possible.

Carnegie Underdog.

Carnegie will present a strong, rugged aggregation of mitten manipulators, but the Plaid does not stack up as Catholic's equal and will enter the ring in the role of underdog—but a tenacious underdog. The visitors' strength appears to be concentrated in the lighter weights, from 125 pounds to 155, but the Cardinals are confident of matching anything they may have.

Fleming, who has been one of the team's most consistent leather-pushers, will be trying for his sixth knockout, and the chances are that he'll get it. Ray Ortenzo, of Western Maryland, is the only lad to give the redhead a real argument this season.

Oliver Won by K. O.

Oliver's kayo of Fitzpatrick, Manhattan's 155 pounder, featured the Cardinals' performance last week and the swarthy one is going back for more tonight. Until this season Oliver had never won a bout and now he is one of the team's mainstays.

Oliver's opponent, Capt. Ed Kulesz, and Bill Wisnewski, who meets Ruben Miro in the 155-pound bout, sport undefeated records.

Four Nat Rookies Praised by Harris

this year Harris feels it will be from this latter group.

Young Diggs, who was a hero on the sandlots of Pimlico before he joined the Nats last season, is the particular hope of Harris. A tall, powerfully built fellow, Diggs boasts a fast ball which earned him the praise of Joe Cronin last year when Cronin worked him during the waning days of the season.

18-Year-Old Giant.

Petticolas is an 18-year-old giant and is rated on a par with Coppola, the Italian youth who still speaks with a dialect. The latter was recommended to Griffith by Owner Joe Cambria, of the Albany club, who saw Coppola pitch a no-hit game is an exhibition contest while with Albany. He is short, swart and stocky.

The addition of 15 pounds to his small frame has helped Scrivener's chances of landing a job in organized baseball. The little left-hander has all the actions of a big leaguer, with a smooth delivery rare in a graduate from sandlot and college ranks. His confidence and excellent delivery this morning caused Harris to pause for 15 full minutes to observe Scrivener's work.

Aside from greeting the veterans, Al Thomas and Monte Weaver, last year's failure; Ray Prim, and the group from Chattanooga, Armbrust, Cohen and Pettit, Harris tarried only briefly with them. During the first two weeks in camp, the second flight of rookies will be his chief concern, and if, as he says, there is one big leaguer among them, he will be fully rewarded.

Massanutten Beats Shenandoah, 44 to 28

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Woodstock, Va., March 1.—The Massanutten Military Academy quintet blasted out a 44-to-28 victory over the Shenandoah College five in the last home game here. The Cadets, led by Capt. Hale, who collected 21 of his teams points, were the aggressors throughout the game and at no time were threatened by the Hornets. The Shenandoah team had its attack built around Ayresman, ace forward, and key man of their attack. Shenandoah defeated the Cadets earlier in the season by a narrow margin and the game last night marked a battle that spelled revenge for the Purple and Gold team.

Mining Shares Follow Silver And Gold Rise

Homestake Advances 13 Points; Other Issues Are Dull.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—Traders awoke to the profit possibilities of the mining shares today as silver prices hit another new high since 1929 and the London price for gold touched another record peak.

There was a minor scramble for these issues in late dealings which carried the majority of other divisions along to fractionally better prices, while the mines lifted from 1 to around 4 points.

While the share market activity broadened moderately on the rise toward the finish, the total turnover for the session, at 636,562 shares, was distinctly subnormal. As measured by the Associated Press average for 60 stocks, which advanced .3 of a point to 37.9, improvement other than in the mining group was not great.

Homestake led the rally in mines with an advance of 13 points to 379, while other leading issues on the exchange and the curb which got up from 1 to around 4 points included American Smelting at 36¼, Dome at 40¼, McIntyre at 44¾, Cerro de Pasco at 44⅛, United States Smelting at 121½, Howe Sound at 48¾, Lake Shore at 56⅞ and Newmont at 38.

Canada Wheat Rallies Grains In Chicago Mart

Cotton Market Improves, With May Selling From 12.36 Up to 12.47.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 1.—Responding to a late upturn of wheat prices at Winnipeg, grain markets in Chicago rallied just before the close today and overcame earlier setbacks.

Reports of enlarged domestic flour trade in the Southwest were an aid to wheat rallies here. Unfavorable crop advices from West and Southwest sections of the United States winter wheat belt, together with renewed notice of lack of subsoil moisture in spring wheat areas both North and South of the Canadian boundary, served also as a bullish influence.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ lower to ½ higher, compared with yesterday's finish; May, 98 to 98⅛; corn, ¼ off to ⅜ up; May, 84⅜ to 84½; oats, unchanged to ¼ down, and provisions showing 2 cents to 5 cents advance.

Corn and oats mainly paralleled the action of wheat. Increased rural offerings of corn to arrive were noted.

Provisions advanced owing to new peak prices on hogs, the topmost since 1930.

Cotton Market.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—After dropping a few points in early trading, cotton rallied under a late spurt of buying today which sent the price of May up from 12.36 to 12.49. May closed at 12.47, with the general market closing at net advances of 5 to 10 points.

The trade buying was accompanied by reports of a better spot demand from domestic mills, with a slight improvement in the inquiry for exports.

By a Special Correspondent.

New York, March 1.—A noteworthy change in the attitude of a number of Wall street's bankers and brokers toward prospects of an early revival of corporate financing through the sale of stock has been in evidence latterly. Whereas, until recently, it had been generally supposed that there would first be a revival in gilt-edge bond issues, and only considerably later a resumption of share financing, some financial houses now believe that stock financing will revive along with or even before new corporate bond offerings.

The gold-clause decision of the United States Supreme Court, the marked facilitation of reorganizations by the new bankruptcy act amendments of the past two years and the ever-present talk of inflation all contribute to prospects for a revival of new financing through stock issues. These factors will tend to make many individual investors desirous of placing some part of their funds in equities, no matter how conservative their investment policies have been in the past.

But there is another side to the question also. Many corporations, having learned of the disadvantages of carrying a burden of fixed charges during the depression period, would rather not assume such obligations for the future. It is pointed out that there are a number of corporate enterprises of reasonably large size that are now on a profitable operating basis, and many of them continued "in the black" right through the depression years. Many such corporations will contemplate new financing before long, either to refund bonds or other debts, to replenish working capital, to expand their activities or merely to build up a large surplus cash reserve while new financing seems feasible, as a precaution against future contingencies. They may well prefer not to sell new bonds for these purposes, however.

Investment House Makes Stock Survey.

One large Wall Street brokerage and investment house, for example, is now making a survey of prospective common stock issues from corporations in such position. It is seeking to negotiate a number of such offerings, to be brought out within the next few months provided financial conditions become no worse than they are now. This house expresses confidence that such stock issues of established companies with current substantial earning power, and preferably those that showed earnings for the common stock right through the depression, are salable on reasonable terms at the present time.

If a market for common stocks can be developed within the near future, one important argument for the establishment of intermediate credit banks under Government auspices will be eliminated. It has been argued by proponents of this project that the commercial banks are insisting upon liquidity, while the long-term capital market has been virtually closed to corporate borrowers. Hence, new institutions to meet the need of corporations that wish funds for longer periods are desirable.

However, if common stock financing can be revived on even a moderate scale, then there will be opened to the stronger corporations a far more desirable means for financing than through amortizable loans from intermediate credit banks. Of course, the latter could serve smaller companies, not large enough to make a successful appeal to the capital market. For such smaller seekers of new capital, the intermediate credit bank proposal would continue to have usefulness.

Argument Is Advanced Against 5-Year Loans.

One argument advanced against the intermediate loan idea by bankers, as well as some business men, is that a 5-year loan is not sufficient to meet the financial problems of many would-be borrowers. These concerns have been so largely depleted of liquid resources by depression losses that what many of them need is permanent, not intermediate term capital to fill their minimum working capital requirements. To grant such a concern a 5-year loan, with repayment required by equal instalments every year, would be to impose a new fixed charge that might easily bring financial embarrassment within a short while, especially if earnings remain moderate in volume.

The Commercial and Financial Chronicle reported new corporate stock financing amounted to $35,000,000 in 1934, as against $120,000,000 in 1933, $5,924,000,000 in 1929 and $1,153,000,000 in 1925. Of course, it is not believed that the public is ready to absorb out of hand any large volume of new stock offerings at this time. There are competent investment bankers who are convinced, however, that the time has arrived when a start can be made toward a gradual revival of corporate financing through attractive stock issues.

England Gaining, America Not Yet, Patterson Says

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—Declaring that "the outlook is not only good in Europe and the United States but in South America, also," Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., said today that he was optimistic on business for the first time since 1929.

Patterson, who returned on the Majestic from a business trip to London, Paris and Berlin, said, "England is the only bright spot in Europe. Business in Germany is good with us, but it can't be compared with England. England has solved all her difficulties and is well on the way out and knows where she is going."

"That's more than can be said for us," he added.

Wall Street Briefs

Small Investor.

The small investor will come into his own in the coming hearings on the proposed legislation for ultimate abolition of public utility holding companies.

He is being pictured as an object for sympathy on the line of the "forgotten man" by spokesmen for enemy camps of opinion on the pending Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

Utility critics contend that the little fellow, drawn into the markets by the speculative fever of the post-war decade, has been the sucker in a game of high-handed finance played by inflating values through holding companies.

Reinforcements in the form of mailbag protests and small security holders lined up with the utility sympathizers are being called into action to combat the attacking forces.

Gold.

The price of bar gold in London continued its rise, reaching a new high mark of 145 shillings 1 penny at yesterday's close.

Buyers secured a quantity of gold valued at $1,291,612.50 available at the record price, which included a premium of 17 pence over the dollar and 9 pence over the franc.

Silver also rose to new highs on both the London and New York exchanges. Resultant increased earnings of metals companies set off a buying wave on the exchange.

Federal Salaries.

Salaries totaling $1,363,456,857 were paid to the 950,982 civil and military employes of the Federal Government during 1934.

Employes in the executive branch, constituting a force of 672,273 last December, received $1,107,456,537, the monthly pay roll ranging from a low of $77,450,498 in January to a high of $100,787,487 in November. Military employes, including officers and enlisted men in all the services, whose number ranged from 262,942 in January to 272,200 in December, were paid a total of $239,106,836.

Pepco Earnings Show Gain Over Last January

By R. Karl von Lewinski.

Net income of the Potomac Electric Power Co. during the month of January showed a substantial gain over earnings during the same month of 1934, according to the monthly report filed with the Public Utility Commission yesterday.

Net revenues from operations during the month showed a increase of $11,668.70, jumping from the net of $475,113.93 reported during the first month of 1934 to a net of $486,782.63 during the first month of 1935.

Operating revenues amounted to $1,166,098.50, against $1,076,952.71 in January, 1934, an increase of $89,145.79. Revenue deductions called for $679,315.87, as compared with the considerably lower figure of $601,838.78 a year ago, showing an advance in operating costs of $77,477.09.

Gross income stood at $496,962.85, compared with $486,901.34, a gain of $10,061.52. Usual deductions from gross took away $92,724.90, while $86,016.44 was required a year ago, an increase in January, 1935, of $6,708.46, leaving a total net income for the month of $404,237.95, in comparison with $400,884.90 a year ago, a gain of $3,352.05. While the figures show the operating revenues were substantially higher, the increased cost of fuel, a somewhat larger pay roll and other added expenses largely offset this improvement in the final net returns.

Roberts Addresses Underwriters.

Donald F. Roberts, of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., was one of the principal speakers before the financial section of the American Life Convention at its midyear meeting just concluded at Chicago. The purpose of the meeting, which was attended by executives representing a large number of life insurance companies, was to discuss and analyze the various investment problems with which the companies now are faced.

Roberts discussed the subject of "Government Bonds," which have become a factor of major importance in the investment portfolios of the life insurance companies during the last two years.

Other well-known speakers at the financial section meeting included Dan Bascot, Baltimore consulting engineer, who spoke on railroad securities, and George E. Phelps, Chicago, public utility security analyst.

Commercial Activity Drops.

Revealing a drop in commercial activity in almost all sections of the country from the unexpectedly high levels of January, the current survey of February sales and collections by the National Association of Credit Men finds only 20 cities reporting "good" sales and 23 noting "good" collections. The survey is based on reports from 99 correspondents in the major markets of the country.

Rapid Transit Report.

The January report of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., filed with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday, shows an improvement in earnings over the like period a year ago.

Operating revenues totaled $36,237.77, in comparison with $32,830.92 in January, 1934, an increase of $3,406.85. Operating expenses and taxes called for $33,540.49, against $30,476.22, an increase in operating costs of $3,064.27, leaving an operating income of $2,697.28, as compared with $2,354.70, or a gain of $342.58.

Nonoperating income in January was very small, leaving gross practically the same as net operating revenues. Deductions from gross amounted to $1,906.87, against $2,420.34 a year ago, a reduction of $513.47, and leaving a net income for the month of $856.42, in comparison with the tiny gain of only $13.18 in January, 1934, or an improvement of $843.24.

C. & P. Phone Elects.

Lloyd B. Wilson was reelected president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and John A. Remon general manager by the board of directors at the monthly meeting. Other officers elected were Marshal D. Sedam, Philip O. Coffin and John C. Koons, vice presidents; Walter B. Clarkson, vice president and secretary; Thomas B. Clarkson, treasurer; Harry C. Gretz, general auditor, and Ralph A. Van Orsdel, general counsel.

Administrative officers include Charles Siemon, auditor; Charles T. Clagett, assistant to the general manager; E. G. Bliss, general commercial manager; R. W. Prince, chief engineer; P. W. Burton, general plant manager, and F. G. Macarow, general traffic manager.

Treasury Issued 12.6 Billions In New Securities During 1934

Operations of the United States Treasury Department resulted in the issuance of $12,662,277,850 of new securities of all types during 1934, including issues for refunding as well as for cash, the offerings of which were oversubscribed from 2.7 to 9.8 times, according to a survey of the Government bond market of that year, which has been published by C. J. Devine & Co., Inc., specialists in such securities.

The survey also shows that while the national interest-bearing debt increased from $23,450,261,380 as of December 31, 1933, to $27,944,037,950 as of December 31, 1934, or 19.16 per cent, the annual interest charge thereon increased only from $772,904,799 to $827,094,247, or 7.01 per cent, due to a reduction in the average interest rate from 3.30 per cent as of the close of 1933 to 2.96 per cent at the close of 1934.

The survey containing the record of last year's Treasury operations was designed, according to the firm's announcement, for the purpose of collecting under one cover data which can be obtained only by reference to a score or more sources.

The survey, in booklet form contains a complete record of every securities issue by the Government during 1934, whether in the form of bonds, notes, certificates or discount bills for the account of the Treasury, or for the account of the Government sponsored organizations, listing the date of issue and the maturity date, the amount offered and the basis upon which the offering was made.

American Mutual Reports Increase

Liability Company Adds $2,100,000 to Assets.

American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. has issued its annual report for the 1934 calendar year, the company's forty-seventh year of continuous strong protection, showing a large increase in premium volume, a continued satisfactory loss ratio, reduction in expense ratio, improvement in investment portfolio, an increase in surplus and in assets of over $2,100,000.

In releasing the statement, President Charles E. Hodges stated that workmen's compensation premiums increased 70 per cent. The company's new business results in this respect were the best in history. Automobile and other forms of insurance also increased, but by smaller percentages so that the aggregate increase was 44 per cent—a result equaled by few casualty insurance companies.

This result was obtained without the slightest relaxation in the conservative underwriting policy of the company. Total premiums written during the year totaled $13,380,241. The company is admitted to 44 States and the District of Columbia.

J. W. Hanes Appointed To N. Y. Exchange Unit

Bank Clearings Rise 8 Per Cent

22 Cities Show Total of $4,607,889.

New York, March 1. (AP).—Bank clearings in 22 leading cities of the United States during the past week totaled $4,607,889, an increase of 8 per cent from the total of $4,265,779 in the similar week of 1934, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

As the present summary is for a five-day week no comparison is available for the previous week.

However, the review stated that at New York City as well as at a number of other points clearings in the past five days were nearly as large or in some cases in excess of the total for the full week preceding.

Federal Bonds Rise Sharply; Others Lower

Government Issues, Excepting Liberties, Make Gains.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 1.—A sharp rally in U. S. Government loans featured today's bond market. Prices in the corporate division were hesitant with a lower trend noticeable in secondary issues.

The turnover in Government bonds was the largest in some time at $5,890,000, par value, and with the exception of Liberties, gains of ⅛ to ⅜ of a point were numerous. Treasury 3s of 1946 were thirteen-thirty-seconds up at 103.21. First Liberty 4¼s sank to a new low for the year at 102.18 on renewed discussion of the likelihood that the Government may elect to call the entire issue for redemption this year. The new "Baby Bonds" of the Treasury were placed on sale at postoffices throughout the country today.

In the lower priced corporate division, the market showed signs of becoming tired after the heavy pace of the last few days. Narrow changes were the rule in prime investment bonds. In the foreign section, Argentine and other South American issues were higher. French and German bonds showed little change.

Transfers aggregated $14,087,000 par value, compared with $14,207,000 on Thursday.

Soviet to Buy Copper Despite Large Reserves

Russia Not Likely to Be Feared in Markets for Decade.

New York, March 1.—Russian copper reserves in Kazakstan, Siberia, Transcaucasus, and the Kola Peninsula, added to those of the Ural region, bring the Soviet Union's total to 16,220,000 metric tons of the metal, but despite these large resources, it is stated by Guy C. Riddell and G. D. Jermain, mining engineers, in the current issue of Engineering and Mining Journal, Russia will have to import copper in large quantities in the present decade if the country is to meet its ambitious industrialization program's demands. Following a detailed analysis of Russian copper reserves and production the authors state:

"Some have expressed the opinion that the Soviets may become an early competitor of other copper-producing countries in world markets. It can be safely asserted, however, that the conditions and facts being as they are, with an annual primary production not far from 30,000 tons for the past six years, despite strenuous efforts to increase it, and with the supply of scrap steadily diminishing, Soviet Russia will be for some time an importer of copper in large quantities to supply the huge demands of its industrialization program.

"The present decade, in short, should hold but little Soviet competition for the foreign copper producer. Years will pass in considerable number, if one may judge from the present rate of development of the Soviet copper industry, before the thousands of miles of needed railroad will be laid to the copper districts, and mills and smelters constructed, though undoubtedly surprising progress will be made. Moreover, should U. S. S. R. devaluate, stabilize, and place its currency on a foreign exchange basis, much of the Soviet ore reserve will be removed to an economic position that will preclude normal competition."

First Spring Lambs Bring Higher Prices

Denver, March 1.—The first 1935 spring lambs to arrive on the Denver market this year brought 50 cents more a hundred than the initial price a year ago. Today's sale was at $10.50.

Joseph A. Shoemaker, president and general manager of the Denver yards, said the prices paid for horses was better than a year ago and hog prices spurted upward to $9.40 a hundredweight, the best since 1930.

Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

London—Trading on the stock exchange today was stimulated by the 1-shilling rise in bar gold, on which gold mining shares were actively bought. While kaffirs marked new high records. Industries benefited on favorable trade reports, while gilt-edged securities, although supported, eased later in the session. Copper shares advanced in anticipation of a favorable outcome of the copper conference. Other sections eased. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Trading on the bourse today was slow although prices advanced, especially rentes, copper shares and French stocks. Diamond issues were strong on favorable Amsterdam news. The market closed active and strong.

Berlin—Prices on the bourse were firm throughout the session, and the closing was quiet, but sustained.

Curb Stocks Stronger With The Big Board

New York, March 1 (AP).—Fashioning itself after the big board, the curb market rallied today under strength in metal shares. Advances of fractions to a point or more predominated at the close with utilities, specialties and others sharing the gains.

A. O. Smith & Co. and Perfect Circle were up 3 and 4 points, respectively. Murphy Co. rose 2½, while among the metals Lakeshore showed a similar rise. Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Newmont Hollinger Gold, American Gas & Electric firmed a point or more each.

Fractional improvement appeared in American Cyanamid B, Electric Bond & Share, Gulf Oil, Pioneer Gold and Wright Hargreaves, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Swift Internacional were a bit easier.

Volume expanded to about 208,000 shares compared with 129,000 yesterday.

Stock Exchange Seats Up $1,000.

New York, March 1 (AP).—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $81,000, an increase of $1,000 over the last transactions.

On the Air Today

By Katherine Smith.

WITH the memory of Mrs. Roosevelt's talk on women in the home last night, let's turn to a letter from "A Post Reader." She, the writer, makes some very good points. First of all, she says she believes something should be done about the overabundance of children's programs in the late afternoon. Now may we quote:

"I believe the fault lies in the fact that as much as possible men have barred women from the radio business and have missed many helpful suggestions. The radio is primarily a home instrument and a woman would understand better than a man when and how it could be used to best advantage.

"An official of a local radio station is known to have said that women do not wish to be instructed. I differ with him . . . I, with many women, do not want statistical but . . . educational programs.

"Danny Dee has just finished a clever broadcast and I learned something as I always do on his programs . . . I get so annoyed with these 'sweet' voiced women's programs when they want you to grab a pencil and write recipes . . . The 'Home Makers' give valuable hints you can keep in your head."

And now, may we quote R. P. Elliot, who writes on the same subject: "The radio, except for children and sports talks, is barren for two hours when it is needed most. It is dead right up to Lowell Thomas every day and Saturday is doubly dreary because it doesn't revive even then. Surely children should have their hour, but why give them all the time on all the stations or fill the time with material which does not interest the extra big audience, in Washington especially—which is done."

SPEECHES:

Representative Hamilton Fish, WMAL, 7:30 p. m., on "The Breakdown of Administration Policies and Pledges."

Rabbi Louis Mann, WMAL, 6 p. m., on "How Shall the Jew Face the World?"

Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L., on WJSV, 8:45 p. m., begins a series of labor talks. His subject: "Labor Problems in Legislation."

Four Congresswomen are on the Camp Fire Girls program, WJSV, 3:15 p. m. They are Mrs. Virginia E. Jenckes, Mrs. Florence Kahn, Mrs. Mary E. Norton and Mrs. Caroline O'Day.

Louis G. Caldwell and Norman Thomas are heard on WOL, 9:30 p. m., on "Religion and Labor Foundation" broadcast.

Musical programs:

Cincinnati Conservatory, WJSC, 11 a. m., features compositions of Schumann and Mozart.

Minneapolis Symphony, WJSV, 10 a. m., plays compositions by Victor Herbert, Rubenstein, Schubert and Strauss. Anne Campbell reads two of her poems.

Columbia University Band, WJSV, 5 p. m., with a program of semiclassic music.

Lily Pons is heard in "La Sonnambula," from the Metropolitan Opera House, WMAL and WRC, at 1:55 p. m. Geraldine Farrar will interview Lucrezia Bori between the acts.

Bonelli features the ode to the evening star from "Tannhaeuser," WJSV, 9 p. m.

OTHER high spots:

Arthur Schwartz, composer, is with Roxy tonight, WJSV. You'll hear some of his hit tunes. Zola Layman, songstress, is another featured guest on the program.

Sigmund Romberg brings Janice Jarrett, of the films, to the mike on WRC, 8 p. m. A dramatic sketch, in honor of New Orleans' Mardi Gras, will be presented.

Jerry Cooper is Richard Himber's guest tonight, WJSV, 9:30 p. m.

An advance warning: If you've made plans for Monday between 2:30 and 4:30 p. m., see if you can't change them. Columbia's biggest broadcast of the year goes on during that time. It's called "Of the People, by the People and for the People." This column will describe it in full on Monday.

THERE'S THE PHONE NOW.
YES, CLARA. YES.. YES.
YES CLARA.... YOU HEARD FROM WHOM...? WHAT, CHES?
OH CLARA YOU MUST BE MISTAKEN. ARE YOU SURE YOU...?
GEORGE....CLARA.... SAYS MY BROTHER, CHES, PHONED HER A FEW MINUTES AGO. YES, CLARA.... YES.. YES.
WHAT! CHES, WHO DISAPPEARED IN MEXICO SO LONG AGO? IS SHE SURE?
SHE RECOGNIZED HIS VOICE. HE ASKED HER TO TELL US THAT HE'D BE IN TOWN NEXT WEEK. MY BROTHER, CHES.... THINK OF IT!
LISTEN JO, IS CLARA POSITIVE? LET ME TALK TO HER
OH I ALWAYS KNEW NOTHING HAD HAPPENED TO HIM. I KNEW HE'D COME BACK.
HELLO CLARA....LISTEN, ABOUT CHES....ARE YOU SURE...YES I KNOW HE HAD A PECULIAR LAUGH....YES...HE PHONED YOU FROM WHERE? OH YES, DOWN SOUTH.

Ups and Downs.

IN France, a week or three ago, a man applied for public aid; his step was feeble, tired and slow, the hat he wore was all decayed. They have some sort of dole in France, where worthy people may be fed; and this man cast a haggard glance upon the heap of musty bread. There was some water in a crock, with which to wash the breadcrusts down; and slow and halting was his walk, and on his brow there was a frown. For he had eaten meals with queens, with kings in halls of dazzling light; and now he couldn't have beans to dull the edge of appetite. What wonder if he heaved some sighs, expressive of his soul's disgust; for years he had been used to pies, and now he chewed a moldy crust. He was the monarch of all styles, his name was known the whole world round; he gathered in the coin in piles, the franc, the dollar and the pound. An army was at his command, a host of workers, making duds; and at last we see him stand complaining that he has no spuds. The women of two hemispheres were watching for his latest move, while he essayed, with chalk and shears, last season's fashions to improve. When he produced the hobble skirt, great were the laurel wreaths he wore, and fashion took a greater spurt than ever it had known before. A hundred triumphs thus he won a hundred victories were his; men saw his fine achievements run from pole to pole with quite a whiz. And so life's tragedies go on, in every quarter of the globe, and man, with all his shirts in pawn, is wearing sackcloth as his robe.

DICK TRACY — Subterranean Getaway

I WANT MY SAIL BOAT!
SHUT UP, KID! I'LL LEAVE IT ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE LAGOON FOR YOU!
TAKING THE STOLEN SAILBOAT, WITH A HOLLOW WATER REED TIED TO IT, ZORA ARSON WALKS OUT INTO THE ICY WATER OF THE LAGOON.....
THIS STONE WILL KEEP ME SUBMERGED SO I CAN WALK ON THE BOTTOM!
YOU'RE SURE YOU SAW HER LEAP FROM THE BACK OF THAT TAXI, TRACY.
YEAH-SHE'S RIGHT IN THIS VICINITY SOMEWHERE. I'LL CALL THE PARK POLICE STATION FOR MORE MEN. WE'LL SURROUND THIS LAGOON.
WHILE TRACY TALKS A TINY SPECK A TOY SAILBOAT MOVES LAZILY ALONG THE SURFACE OF THE LAGOON! WILL IT ATTRACT ANY UNUSUAL ATTENTION?
CHESTER GOULD

WINNIE WINKLE, the Breadwinner — P. S.—She Got the Job

THIS WILL MAKE A GREAT SHOW WHEN I GET THE CAST ALL ASSEMBLED! LET'S SEE NOW—
BUT LISTEN--ER-UH- I--
I'M SORRY, MISS, BUT I CAN'T USE YOU!! I'VE GOT QUEEN ELIZABETH HELEN OF TROY, JOAN OF ARC AND ALL MY PRINCIPALS AND CHORUS!!
I KNOW ALL THAT, BUT—
I DON'T WANT ANY MORE ACTORS!! NOW IF YOU WERE A PRIVATE SECRETARY, I MIGHT BE ABLE TO USE YOU!!
THAT'S THE JOB I'M LOOKING FOR!!
WELL, WHY TH' DICKENS DIDN'T YOU SAY SO? TAKE YOUR HAT AND COAT OFF AND GET RIGHT TO WORK!!

The Federal Diary

(Trade-Mark Applied For.)

By Morgan Baker.

OPTIONAL retirement, classification of field employes, automatic promotions and the various other features of the Sirovich bill were enthusiastically indorsed yesterday by Dr. W. W. Stockberger director of personnel, Agriculture.

BAKER.

Dr. Stockberger, a veteran in Government service and a personnel officer widely recognized as an expert, said he believed firmly in the merit system. He declared that employes now in emergency agencies might well be brought under Civil Service.

In discussing optional retirement after 30 years service, which he favored, he said that most employes would probably prefer to remain at work and that he would not suggest placing any age limit on the 30-year group if actual figures showed that the retirement fund would not suffer.

The principle of appeals is vital, Dr. Stockberger said, in connection with a Civil Service Board of Appeals, and he favored the plan of the Sirovich bill. He did not think a representative of his department would be influenced by prior departmental action. He pointed out that the department is trying to work away from a staff of subservient people who won't express their own opinions. Rubber stamp advisers, he said, are no advisers at all.

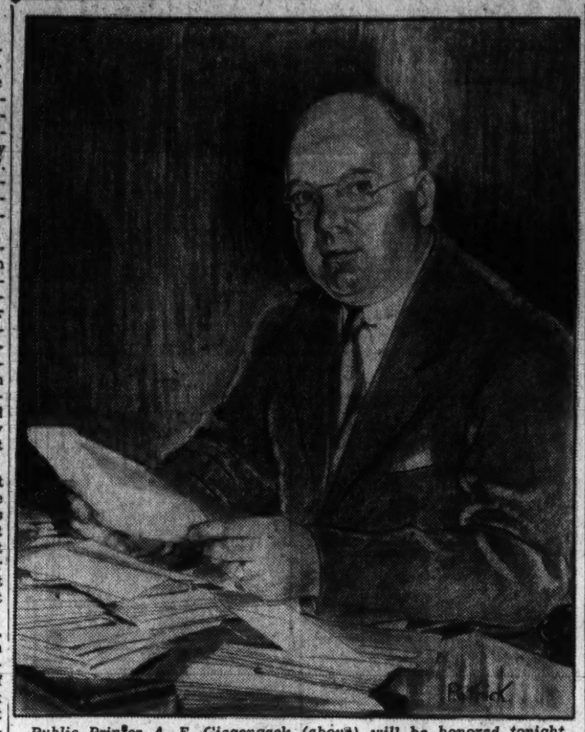
Among those who passed the recent bar examinations are the following examiners of Patent Office: Frank H. Bronaugh, Graef W. Buehm, Louis G. Carmick, Joseph E. Coates, Benjamin E. Cohn, Richard A. Douglas, Audley H. Greenwood, Ernest V. Haines, Robert C. Riordon, Leon Simon and Joseph B. Spencer.

A. A. Dillon (P), Proof Document Section, Government Printing Office, will be available to instruct chess beginners every day at noon and on Tuesday evenings. Players are being enrolled for a new tournament to start in a few days.



Public Printer A. E. Giegengack (above) will be honored tonight by Government Printing Office employes and a distinguished throng of national notables at a testimonial dinner at the Wardman Park Hotel. Dr. George C. Havenner, general chairman of arrangements, said last night 975 reservations had been made.

Diary Guest Tickets.

IF (F), (P) or (C) follows your name in this column, call in person on the Federal Diary editor today between 12 and 2:30 p. m. You will receive tickets to Loew's Fox (stage, Dave Appollon and his "International Varieties;" screen, Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in "One More Spring"); or to Loew's Palace (Ronald Colman, Loretta Young and cast of 5,000 in "Clive of India"); or to Loew's Columbia (Warner Oland in "Charlie Chan in Paris").

Of great importance to sportsmen and landowners is a new booklet on "The Waterfowl Flyways of North America," by Frederick C. Lincoln (F) biologist, in charge of Distribution and Migration of Birds, Division of Wildlife Research, Agriculture.

Employes of Loans and Currency Division are invited to attend a benefit card party and dance tonight at Almas Temple under auspices of the Stephen P. McGroarty Post, No. 27, of which most of the members are Treasury workers. Charles J. Egner (P), is in charge of arrangements.

National Capital Parks.

National Capital Parks Lodge, No. 142, American Federation of Government Employes, will give a bingo party and dance tonight at the Pythian Temple, to which all Government employes are invited. The committee on arrangements consists of Charles K. Murr, president; R. J. King (F), general chairman; D. O. Balderson, chairman of bingo, and R. A. King, E. C. Atkinson, Mrs. Ruth Taylor (C), S. F. Neese, Robert Kramer, Vivian Kramer, John W. Clark, H. S. Simpson, Bartie Curran, Flem Burke, E. S. Wood, George Heath, Arthur Doyle, Robert Crobat, A. Gorham, E. C. Knope, Charles Goodall and L. L. Suthard.

Bookbinders at Government Printing Office seem to have a yen for large families, several of them having nine or ten children. One of which is claimed to be the largest family at G. P. O. Thomas Norris (F), 320 Tenth street southeast, is the dean of this class, having 11 children—nine girls and two boys. The youngest is 5 and the oldest 29.

Francis W. Dunmore (F), Bureau of Standards, is the inventor of a radio beacon course and quadrant identification device, which helps aviators who have missed their landing field to locate their position.

Swedish Society Holds Birthday Party Tonight

Celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary, the Swedish Society Drott Lodge, No. 168, Vasa Order of America, will hold a banquet and dance at the Willard Hotel tonight.

Honor guests will include His Excellency Wollmar F. Bostrom, Minister from Sweden; Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota; Baron Johan Beck-Friis, grand master of the Vasa Order; Albert N. Jacobson, of Boston, and many others.

The Vasa Order was organized in 1896 and now has over 500 lodges throughout the United States.
